THIRTY KILLED.

Many Workmen Drowned or Crushed to Death by a Terrible Bridge Disaster.

The False Works of a Bridge Over the Licking River in Kentucky Fell.

Reports of Number Killed Run up to Eighty-Eight, But Thirty About Correct.

Lack of Bracing in the Piling Supposed to Have Caused the Accident.

CINCINNATI, O., June 15.—At twenty-five minutes past 1 o'clock this morning the false work of the new bridge being built over the Licking river between Covington and Newport, Ky., fell, carrying down with it ninety men. The first estimate of the number of lives lost was thirty, but later reports made the total number eighty-eight. Among them were Andrew and Albert Baird, the contractors. The construction of the bridge was begun early last fall and it will be used for foot passengers and street railway traffic. Two piers have been completed and the work of fixing the heavy pieces of iron in place had begun.

A track from the Newport side had been run out on the first pier to the heavy iron. The false work ran up fifty feet from the water. But two men are known to have escaped with their lives. Not a stick of the false work, from pier to pier, remained, and the river was filled with timbers and iron work, with scores of men struggling for life. News of the terrible accident spread rapidly and soon a crowd of hundreds had gathered, and the work of rescuing the bodies was at once begun. By 12 o'clock twenty-two bodies had been taken out and the work was pushed with vigor.

Cincinnati patrol warden responded to a hurried call and the dead and wounded were carried away as fast as taken out. The accident is supposed to be due to the heavy weight of the iron floor supports, the false work not being strong enough. A partial list of the killed is as follows: R. Tarwell, Jeffersonville, Ind.; Dan Arnold, Tom Downing, Wheeling, W. Va.; Vaughn Adams, Cincinnati; A. Baird and Albert Baird, of Cincinnati, who were on a visit to inspect the work, and the latter had been at the works just two hours before the accident; John O'Neill, Covington, Ky.; James Campau, of Canada; Wm. Harlan, Jeffersonville, Ind.; John S. Ponder, one arm taken off. Fourteen dead bodies have been taken out on the Newport side and eight from the Covington side of the river. The civil engineer who was in charge of the work is James Stewart, of Cincinnati, but he was not there when the accident happened. The bridge was being built by the Keaton and Campbell County Bridge company.

Following are additional names of the killed: Dick Gorman, of Pennsylvania; Wm. Albis, of Roanoke, Va.; Charles Stamper, Covington; John Rubrey and brother, of Wheeling, drowned; Joseph Zenker, Cincinnati; F. Mure, Newport; Wm. Wessling, Newport; Frank Johnson, two unknown at Elizabeth Johnson; Culbertson, Portsmouth, Ohio; Thomas Randon, O'Brien, Wm. Clark. Among the injured are Chas. Sanford, Dan Buckley, Henry Kramer, Jeffersonville, Ky.; Ben Arnold, Girard, Ky.; John Phillips, Newport, Ky.; C. B. Wilkerson, Thos. E. Laven, H. E. Knight, Alex. Thomas, Henry Tetter, A. B. Phelps, New Albany, R. Kramer, R. E. Keil, Chas. Grasham, Covington, Frank Wallace, Boston.

There are so many conflicting reports as to the number of persons killed that it is impossible to get anything reliable. The first report of thirty killed appears to be nearest the exact number of victims, who were either drowned or crushed.

A LACK OF BRACING.
The General Inspector of the Work Talking on the Cause.
CINCINNATI, June 15.—The Hon. Brown, general inspector of the work, was seen by a United Press representative while he was attending to one of the injured. He had been in Cincinnati at the time of the accident and thereby escaped probable death. He hurried to the scene when summoned by telephone. He says: "I cannot state positively the cause of the accident, but it is my belief that it was caused by a lack of bracing in the piling. The piles across the Licking were forty feet long and had been driven into the river bed ten feet. As the water was high we were unable to get proper bracing in place. I think there must be thirty feet of water in the channel. Only two panels of iron were in position at the time of the accident. "All of the men employed were insured. You see the contractors, Baird Bros., had insured the lives of all their employes in a company. The company agreed to protect the contractors against all damage claims. I think the average amount of insurance on each man killed is $1,500, but cannot say positively. Baird Bros. had been very successful bridge builders. There were four of them, and two were killed in the accident. They are married men of family and are quite wealthy. They had just completed the great cantilever bridge at Memphis, which is the largest in the world with one exception. They had never before met with such a disaster. The property loss is $100,000.

There was great difficulty in ascertaining the exact number of victims. The reports vary from fifteen to ten. As near as the time keeper can estimate it, the list of killed and injured is as follows: D. Champoux, 122 Columbia street, Newport, dead; came to Newport from Canada; J. R. Kubrey, Twelfth street, Newport, safe; E. Barbour, laborer, home unknown, dead; Andy Kobiger, non unknown, safe; George Burg, home unknown, dead; T. L. Lavin, laborer, home unknown, safe; R. F. Kiel, home unknown, in the wreck; N. W. Barton, home unknown, body lost; R. Krause, injured, home unknown; E. D. Sullivan, lost, home unknown; Dan Binkley, home unknown, lost; Pat Murray, lost; Thos. D. Owen, Wheeling, W. Va., lost; F. Muir, Belleme street, Newport, body in the wreck; Chas. Fetter, home unknown, body lost; H. Walage, home unknown, body lost; Wm. Alvis, dead.

The timekeeper could give no account of the following men: Ben Arnold, J. Collins, W. Saunders, G. E. Sheehan, D. Nolan, C. Grasham, Pat Murray, John Fagan, John Goldie, P. White, Brooks Conway, H. Thomas, Chas. Wilkerson, Henry Osborn, H. Gardner and B. Thomas.

THE SCENE WAS HORRIBLE.
The Air Filled With the Squeaks of the Injured and Dying.
CINCINNATI, June 15.—When the crash came it was but a few minutes until both banks were lined with people. A big portion of the false-work was submerged, and with it were the unfortunate workmen. The scene was a horrible one. In a minute the air was filled with the shrieks of the injured and dying. Those who could free themselves from the tangled network of timber, struggled to the surface of the water and tried to get ashore. One after another gave up the struggle and sank in the muddy water. Though the banks were crowded, not a soul could go to the rescue of the poor fellows. As soon as possible police and plumbers went to work to get out the dead and dying. It was a gruesome task. Among the dead taken out was one of the Baird brothers. His body was in a horrible condition, his back being crushed and broken. Next to be taken from the water was John Sponser. He was wedged in among a lot of the timbers on the Newport side. He died a horrible death, a log weighing a couple of hundred pounds crashing through his abdomen, driving them through his back. The look of pain on his face was horrible, and silently told of the terrible pain the poor fellow suffered before he died.

One unknown man was taken out on the Covington side. He was found wedged in so tightly that a portion of his hand had to be chopped off before he could be taken out. All of the dead bodies as they were taken out presented terrible pictures. The bones were crushed, broken and splintered, in many cases were forced through the flesh, presenting a sickening sight.

Twelve Men Drowned.
NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—The ferry boat crossing Bayou La Loutche at Napoleonville, Monday night overturned and precipitated the twelve persons on board into the water. It was so dark that it was impossible to give the men any assistance, and five of the twelve persons were drowned. They were Edward Schneider, Jacob Nardilly, an unknown Italian; Robert Atkins and a negro, name unknown.

NO FUSION WANTED

The Minnesota Democrats Will Not Fuse With the Alliance or People's Party.

So Announce "Boss" Doran and Chairman Campbell of the State Central Committee.

They Believe the Democrats May Possibly Win in a Three-Cornered Fight.

ST. PAUL, June 15.—It was learned last night from Michael Doran, the Minnesota member of the Democratic national committee, and W. M. Campbell, chairman of the Minnesota state committee, that all negotiations for fusion with the Alliance or People's party are at an end and there will be no union on either the elector or the state ticket. It is announced that this decision is taken because a poll of the state shows that the Democrats are likely to have a plurality this fall with three tickets at the field.

ALL EXCOMMUNICATED.
A Dramatic Scene in a Catholic Church at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, June 15.—There was a highly dramatic scene at St. Stanislaus church last night when Bishop Horstman denied the rights of sacrament to nearly the entire congregation. There has been serious trouble in the church for two weeks culminating in a riot Saturday. The bishop has been out of the city. He returned yesterday and at once sent his congregation word that he would address them in the evening. The church was jammed with people. After saying to the people that no power on earth could remove Father Roninski, the pastor, who is objectionable to a faction, the bishop extended his hands and ordered the congregation to its knees. Then in a solemn voice he said: "I hereby deny the right of sacrament to all members of this congregation who have participated in these ungodly actions, until all shall make public confession of their repentance at the regular services before this congregation." This temporarily excommunicates at least 800 members.

HIS NECK IN DANGER.
A Colored Friend May Soon be Hanged to a Tree.

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 15.—Two attempts have been made within twenty-four hours to lynch Holly, colored, charged with assault. They were unsuccessful. Last night a man with a rope tied to his saddle rode up to Philip Sunfield's place and said: "Boys, we are going to have him." This was enough to incite 100 men to rush after the horseman.

Arriving at the jail the determined attitude taken by the officers and the large guard caused the mob to disperse. At 10:25 o'clock last night, fifty men marched to the jail and demanded the prisoner. The sheriff stated the prisoner was not there, but this did not satisfy the mob and a committee was appointed to search the jail. They reported that Holly had been taken away and was being held against him and has been identified by the woman he assaulted, and if his whereabouts are learned the mob will probably make another attempt upon his life.

STRUCK BY A TORNADO.
Buildings Blown Down and Fences Demolished in Maine.

BANGOR, Me., June 15.—A terrible tornado struck this city shortly after 5 o'clock last evening, doing considerable damage. The storm lasted for half an hour, during which time rain fell in torrents. Many buildings were blown down and fences demolished, while trees in all parts of the city were uprooted. The little steamer Annie, which carries excursion parties up and down the river, was caught in the squall a short distance below the Maine Central wharf and capsized. Miss Madeline Adams was the only person drowned. The sixteen other passengers had a narrow escape. They were rescued in an exhausted condition by parties who put out from the shore in small boats.

WILL BE REPRESENTED.
An Attorney to Represent Duluth at the Rate Investigation.

When the interstate commission again takes up the investigation of alleged discrimination of railroads in wheat rates in favor of Duluth, which has been instigated by Minneapolis in a vain attempt to temporarily delay the inevitable demoralization of her milling industry, Duluth will be represented and by men who will jealously watch this city's interests. A meeting was held yesterday at which were present B. C. Church, George Ruple and Franklin Paine, representing the board of trade; C. D. Wright and Secretary Buchanan, the real estate exchange, and S. A. Thompson, the chamber of commerce. The question was thoroughly discussed and it was decided a good attorney be engaged at once to represent Duluth, and to Secretary Thompson was left the selection of the commercial bodies of Duluth will pay his expenses. Secretary Thompson will also be on hand with him and an able attorney Duluth's interests will not be allowed to suffer.

GEN. EPPA HUNTON.

The Successor of the Late Senator Barbour Appointed by the Virginia Governor.

He Sat in Four Congresses and Was a Member of the Electoral Commission.

An Akron, O., Man Who Gave Away Half a Million in His Lifetime.

General Eppa Hunton, who by the governor's appointment has succeeded the late John S. Barbour in the United States senate, is generally spoken of as one of the younger class of southern statesmen. This is not an account of youth, for he was born in 1823, but because he attained prominence after the war. He was born in Fauquier county, Va., and attained a fair rank in the practice of law only after many years of toil, as he had to earn the money for his education.

From 1849 till 1852 he was commonwealth attorney for Fauquier county, but the last year only nominally, as he was in the army. He was elected to the convention of 1861 and left it to enter the Confederate service. His first active military experience was as colonel of the Eighth Virginia infantry, but after taking an honorable part in the Gettysburg campaign he was made brigadier general, in which capacity he served till April 6, 1865. He was then captured at Sailor's Creek and imprisoned for two months in Fort Warren.

After the war he rose slowly but steadily in his profession and in political influence, and was elected to the Forty-third, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth congresses. In the memorable winter of 1876-7 he took an active part in promoting compromise measures, and was one of the joint committee which framed the electoral bill and also a member of the electoral commission. As his predecessor's term was to have ended March 3, 1885, Senator Hunton has three years to establish a standing in the senate before the question of re-election will trouble him. In politics he has not been noted for extreme views, and as a speaker he seems to incline more to the persuasive and conciliatory than to the aggressive methods.

A BENEVOLENT MAN.

He Gave Away Half a Million and Left but Fifty Thousand Dollars. John R. Buchtel, whose death at Akron, O., was announced recently, held opinions of his own as to what use a man should make of his riches. He gave away half a million in his lifetime, and left an estate worth less than $50,000. His name will be remembered so long as Buchtel college flourishes as the chief institution of learning under Universalist control in the west—a college founded and fostered by Mr. Buchtel. The thriving town of 2,000 inhabitants in Athens county founded by Buchtel, and named for him, will aid in perpetuating his memory. And yet this man could with difficulty write his name when he had reached his majority.

John R. Buchtel was born in Green township, Stark county, O., seventy-one years ago. His boyhood was passed upon a farm in poverty. He learned the machinist's trade, and a favorable opportunity presenting itself started in business in Canton. Success attended the farmer boy from the start, and soon he became a partner in two thrashing and mowing machine manufactories. He was afterward identified with other manufacturing concerns, and was interested in a number of banks. His latest business venture was the purchase, in 1877, of a valuable tract of mineral land in southern Ohio, which was developed into a splendid coal mining country. Here sprang up the town of Buchtel, one of the most important in the famous Hooking Valley coal district. Of late years Mr. Buchtel lived in retirement, devoting his large fortune to the furtherance of his charitable and philanthropic plans. No church or needy individual ever applied for aid to him in vain. In 1870, when it was decided to build a Universalist college in Ohio, Mr. Buchtel furnished the money. The college was named in his honor, and his interest in the institution is best attested by the fact that he gave it in the aggregate $471,238. Mr. Buchtel left no family.

His Last Message. "Telegraphing for dear life." Ordinary life this would pass for slang, but it was a dreadful reality with Chris Cory, station agent and operator at De Chit, O. He was run over by a car and his legs were cut off above the knees. The train men held him up to the instrument while he clicked off a message for a doctor—one no one else there could do it—but in vain. He was past all surgery, and died in agony, leaving a wife and two children.

The Sutor's Confession. The Parent—Young man, I have noticed that you are paying attention to my daughter. Now, is it all on the square? The Lover—No, it's mostly on the stoop.—Smith & Gray's Monthly.

CUT DOWN YOUR SHOE BILL Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it? To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three or four. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking. Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers. Tanner's Oil Company, Cincinnati, O. Mention this paper.

H. J. SPEER, M. D., Of the Firm of Dr. Speer and Co. Has established his head office, in the New York Block corner Tower Avenue and Fourteenth Street. West Superior, Wis. Dr. Speer is a graduate of the medical department of Harvard University class of '74, and is registered in both hemispheres as such.

HERE IS EVIDENCE. James Riley, Night Watchman at a Saw Mill, Gives a Few Interesting Facts. EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior:—Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw by the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Dr. Speer. He, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself. He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Everything he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulted would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the back and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I look upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased to give any further information to anyone calling upon me. JAMES RILEY, Night watchman at Merrill & Ring's saw mill, First avenue, Third street south West Duluth.

HANGED AND LIVES

A "Tenderfoot" Who Was Lynched in Deadwood and Lives to Tell of It.

Twice Drawn up With the Noose Around His Neck, and Lost Consciousness.

He Says He Suffered Terrible Pain and Prefers Another Mode of Death.

BENNY T. ROBINSON, capable of speaking or directing the movements of his limbs, and died the next day.

Romance writers have often described, or attempted to describe, the sensations of a man while being hanged, and there are several well-authenticated cases of men hanged till pronounced dead and then resuscitated. In one case in England the doctors restored an executed murderer after he had been placed on the dissecting table, but he was a raving maniac, incapable of directing the movements of his limbs, and died the next day.

Henry T. Robinson, formerly of 2324 Thoma street, Philadelphia, but now of Memphis, knows how it is himself. In 1877 he was twice drawn up with the noose around his neck, and the second time lost consciousness and did not recover it for several days. The rope cut through the skin along the left side of his neck, and an ugly scar shows how near he was to death. For many years he would not talk about it, but recently gave a correspondent of the New York Recorder a detailed account. It was in Deadwood, S. D., in 1877, and the vigilantes believed him guilty of robbing a stage.

After telling how he was taken out to the tree and the rope put over the limb with the noose around his neck, Mr. Robinson continues: "I felt myself falling, falling, falling—it seemed about a thousand miles. And then I struck the earth with a crash, as though the two trains I felt in my head had come together in collision. And then came the pain in my neck. I was choking and gasping for breath, and felt as though my head and neck were more than six inches in circumference had been riveted around my throat. I could feel the throbs, throbs of the blood as my heart strove to force it up into my head. Then I suppose they drew the noose, I think I know now something about what a man must feel in a stroke of apoplexy. The blood rushed and surged into my brain with a noise as though my head was a rocky coast, and the mountain billows of the stormy sea were beating upon it. Then I heard voices."

They poured whisky down his throat till he revived, then questioned him, but he could only deny his guilt, and was strung up again. This time he felt but a single shock of pain, and then came a sensation as if he were floating gently away on smoothly rolling waves. He regained consciousness three days later and suffered an indescribable agony. It appears that in the very nick of time a vigilante arrived with information which proved Mr. Robinson innocent. The whole gang were worked assiduously to restore him, paid all his bills and made "an ample apology." He suffered so that he tried to kill himself, but was restrained.

All this happened when Mr. Robinson was but twenty-two years old, yet many years passed before the horror of it faded out of his mind. "It may be as they say," he adds, "that when a man is hanged he does not suffer pain. Perhaps in a legal execution the fall of the drop jerks his senses away from him. But I assure you that I had pain, and such severe pain that I would rather die by almost any other death than to be hanged again."

Some Lucky Miners. He who works long among gold and silver mines and does not become a believer in "luck" must be a very clear headed man. For fortune plays mighty queer freaks with such men. Jim Whitlatch, the discoverer of the Whitlatch-Union mine, near Helena, Mont., led a typical western miner's life. The mine in question is now owned in England, and has produced $20,000,000 in gold. After Jim Whitlatch had sold the property for $1,500,000, he went to New York "to make as much money as Vanderbilt." He was a rare treat to Wall street, which fattened on him, and in one year let him go with only the clothes on his back. He returned to Montana, began "prospecting" again, and discovered a mine for which he got $250,000. He went to Chicago to rival Mr. Potter Palmer in wealth, and returned just as he did from New York—"strapped." He made still another fortune and went to San Francisco, where he died a poor man.

THE THINNING OF THE THATCH.

I was once a merry urchin—curly-headed I was called, and I laughed at good old people when I saw them going bald.

But it's not a proper subject to be lightly joked about. For it's dreadful to discover that your roof is wearing out!

I remember asking uncle—in my innocent surprise—How he liked his head made use of as a skating rink by flies.

But although their dread intrusion I shall manfully resist, I'm afraid they soon will have another rink upon their list. When invited to a party I'm invariably late. For I waste the time in efforts to conceal my peeping pate—Though I coax my hair across it—though I brush away for weeks. Yet I can't prevent it parting and dividing into streaks.

I have tried a hair restorer, and I've rubbed my head with rum.

But the thatch keeps getting thinner, and the new hair doesn't come—So I gaze into the mirror with a gloomy, vacant stare, For the circles getting wider of that open space up there!

People tell me that my spirits I must not allow to fall, And that coming generations won't have any hair at all—Well, they'll never know an anguish that can adequately match With the pangs of watching day by day the thinning of your thatch!

—C. K. Stetterly in Chicago Tribune.

With a Difference. One is sometimes startled at the discovery of a new and most disagreeable force in a single word, when that word is applied to himself to characterize some unpleasant fact of which he has long been aware. "Don't call me fleshy!" said a lady of magnificent proportions. "I don't object to my size, but I simply can't bear that word!"

Another woman has not the least desire to marry, but cannot endure being called a "spinster."

Not long ago a pretty woman in the thirties announced her intention of taking a somewhat extended trip alone, and ended with the remark, "An old maid like me doesn't need an escort."

Then Marjorie, the little maid of the family, burst into a torrent of tears. "You're not an old maid, auntie!" she wailed. "You're not! I can't bear it!"

"But I am, Marjorie," said her aunt, laughing. "Why, it's a nice thing to be. I like it!"

"Oh, but you're not, you're not!" cried Marjorie, and she rushed off to the study to ask passionately, "Papa, is auntie an old maid?"

"No, dear," said her father soothingly, "not at all. She's only a postponed bride."

That proved wondrous comforting. The tears were speedily dried, but auntie herself was somewhat electrified when a caller came that afternoon to hear the little girl inquire speedily and in a tone so innocent that no one could suggest her ceasing to repeat the remark.

"Did you know Aunt Helen is a postponed bride? Isn't it nice?"—Youth's Companion.

A Powerful Extract. DENTIST

Economy the Road to Wealth. "Whose fine mansion is that?" "That is the dwelling of old Bigginby, the coal baron. It represents an entire year's pinching, scraping and economizing."

"He's immensely wealthy, isn't he?" "Worth millions."

"Then what was the need of his pinching and scraping?" "Oh, he didn't have to do the economizing. He made a 10 per cent. out in wages the year he built it."—Chicago Tribune.

Valuable Idol. An exchange says that a lady who was looking about in a bric-a-brac shop, with a view to purchasing something odd, noticed a quaint figure, the head and shoulders of which appeared above in a corner.

"What is that Japanese idol over there worth?" she inquired. The salesman's reply was given in a subdued tone: "Worth about half a million, madam; it's the proprietor."

On Top Again. "Ye'z niver told me yer husband wor a sailor, Mrs. Donabue?" "Yes, he's just him around the world."

"Clear round to China an' the opposite side, was he?" "To be sure."

"Worra, but it must be nisy he feels to get up here on top waust, more?"—Washington Star.

The Weather. U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., June 15.—The low pressure that was central over Northern Montana is over the Dakotas, and will probably pass south of Duluth. There seems to be no heavy wind accompanying it. Rain was falling this morning at St. Paul and Moorhead, with clear and warm weather throughout the Northwestern states.

Duluth, June 15.—Local forecast for Duluth until 9 p. m. June 15: Showers; slight change in temperature; fair Thursday.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Forecast till 8 p. m. Thursday: For Upper Michigan and Wisconsin: Warm; partly cloudy weather; and showers; southerly winds. For Minnesota: Partly cloudy weather; and showers; warmer in eastern; cooler in western portions; becoming fair Thursday.

THE FOURTH OF JULY. "Rapid City will observe July 4 by a celebration, the leading feature of which will be a grand firemen's tournament, open to the Hills and Nebraska." This is a specimen of numerous paragraphs that are now appearing in all parts of the country. "Almost every city and village is preparing to celebrate 'the glorious Fourth' on an extensive scale—all except Duluth. Is it not about time that the people of Duluth—and its populous suburbs joined together and had a good, old-fashioned celebration of the Fourth?"

For many years past, July 4 has been virtually a dead letter in Duluth. Spasmodic attempts have been made to arrange for a proper celebration, but they have never amounted to anything, and this holiday, which should be the most generally observed and the most enthusiastically celebrated of all the holidays in this calendar, has been permitted to pass by almost unnoticed. This is not right. It is not creditable to the loyalty of Duluth to the Union for it is properly indicative of the pride which fills the breast of every citizen when he recalls the growth and progress of this great republic. The anniversary of the declaration of independence should be something more than a mere name. It should be an occasion of rejoicing and of merry-making, an occasion when the orator should be heard expatiating upon the courage, the bravery and the wisdom of those who shook off the British yoke and started this grand republic on its march to national greatness, power and prosperity.

A little "spread-eaglesism" once a year will do no harm. It will inspire the youth of the land with that love of country and that feeling of admiration for the fathers of the country which are essential to the perpetuation of "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Who is there among those now advanced to manhood who has not felt his blood tingle at the inspiring words of the Fourth-of July orators, in those days when the day was annually celebrated with enthusiasm and spirit that bespoke the patriotism of the lover of the republic and the earnest citizen? Why not arouse the patriotism of the younger generation in like manner? Perhaps the older people would not be injured in any respect by having their patriotism reanimated by a general and enthusiastic celebration of this character.

No large fund is necessary for such a celebration as would be a credit to the city and a fitting observance of this glorious anniversary. Will not the aldermen or the chamber of commerce, which boasts among its members many gentlemen of patriotic spirit, take hold of this matter at once? By the expenditure of a comparatively small sum, we can have a celebration that would be creditable to the push and enterprise of Duluth, and that would attract hundreds of visitors from all the neighboring cities and villages.

DULUTH IS ALL RIGHT. The last issue of Bradstreet's, the well-known financial journal published in New York, contains the following summary of the state of trade in Duluth, telegraphed by its agent in this city: "Trade in general assumes a more healthful and encouraging tone. Collections are improved. There is a good demand for lumber at satisfactory prices. Building material is moving freely. Local trade shows a gain over like period of last year. Merchants are buying with comparative freedom."

This is a satisfactory showing, and it will attract attention because it appears in a publication that is not given to boomerang the business of any locality but aims to tell the truth, as near as its correspondents can discover it, about the state of trade in all the cities of the country. Its correspondents invariably lean to conservative views, and therefore the statement made regarding Duluth's business conditions is all the more gratifying. There is no more prosperous city than Duluth today.

The Philadelphia Times a Democratic paper, does not share the views of those who claim that the Republican ticket is weak. It says: "Harrison is a strong candidate—that let all in interest take timely notice. He may be defeated; indeed, the chances are rather more than equal that he will be beaten; but if he shall fall in the race it will be because of the weakness of the party's record, and not because of the weakness of its candidate." Col. McClure, who is the editor of the Times, is a pretty good political prophet.

BLAINE'S RESIGNATION. Our dispatches today contain a story from Washington which purports to give the real reason which led to Mr. Blaine's sudden resignation of the office of secretary of state. There have been many constructions placed upon Mr. Blaine's abrupt resignation, and it was perhaps but natural that, owing to its occurrence just previous to the Minneapolis convention, many people should have considered it a direct bid for the presidential nomination, and that zealous friends of President Harrison, carried away by feeling, should have denounced it as an act of treachery to the president.

Although pressed by interviewers to tell why he resigned, Mr. Blaine refused and referred all inquirers to the president. This indicated very clearly that Mr. Blaine did not resign because of the contest at Minneapolis, and the story which now comes from Washington shows that Mr. Blaine resigned after being deeply humiliated in the presence of prominent Canadian officials by John W. Foster, who, evidently with the president's sanction, had usurped the rights and faculties of the secretary of state. To those who are acquainted with many other acts showing the littleness of President Harrison and his incessant and irritating interference with members of his cabinet, the story sounds very likely.

The report that ex-Secretary Bayard intends to present at Chicago the name of United States Senator Gray, of Delaware as a candidate for the presidency must be authoritatively confirmed before it can command credence. Mr. Bayard has always been a staunch supporter of Grover Cleveland, but it may be true, as the report says, that he has concluded that the factional fight in New York will necessitate the nomination of some man living outside the Empire state.

Chairman Campbell, of the Democratic state central committee, says there will be no fusion by the Democrats and the Alliance men in this state this year. This is a sensible decision on the part of the Democratic leaders. The Democrats have nothing in common with the Alliance men, and cannot afford to endorse the crazy-patch platform of the People's party. Besides, the Democrats will have a much better show for success in a triangular fight.

The movement in Maine to elect James G. Blaine to the United States senate as Mr. Hale's successor next March is very likely to be successful, unless Mr. Blaine should permit to decline. No one who has not lived in Maine can conceive of the manner in which the masses of the Republican party in that state fairly worship Mr. Blaine. There is no office or honor which they would not confer upon him, had they the power.

Knute Nelson has now definitely announced that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. This recalls a recent remark by the Litchfield Independent: "What a spectacle will be presented in case Knute Nelson is nominated for governor. He is the Republican who voted for the Mills bill, and later has come out in support of the McKinley tariff."

Here is the St. Louis Star-Savings' presidential ticket for the Republicans four years hence: "For president in 1896: William McKinley, of Ohio. For vice-president in 1896: J. Sloat Fassett, of New York." At the present time such a ticket looks very probable, but the shadow of Blaine again rises up on the shores of Maine.

Ex-Governor Campbell, of Ohio, has gone home from a visit to New York convinced that Cleveland cannot be nominated and elected. Congressman Springer has also come to the conclusion that it would be a "dangerous thing" to nominate Cleveland. The opinions of these men will have great weight at Chicago.

The Bell Telephone company has just declared its regular quarterly dividend and an extra one of 3 per cent. This is the result of the monopoly's extortionate charges to the public, and yet there are people who are opposed to government ownership of the telephone service.

Those who declare that Mr. Blaine is politically dead talk at random. Mr. Blaine has been defeated before, but that did not place him on the shelf. Wait until 1896, and if he is alive and well he will be able to give McKinley et al. a lively race for the nomination.

Four years ago President Harrison said: "The Lord did it; it could not be helped." He did not depend upon the Lord this year, but sent the office holders to Minneapolis to do the work.

"The Ohio man was not left at the Minneapolis convention. Both Harrison and Reid are natives of Ohio.

WHY HE RESIGNED

The Final Cause of Mr. Blaine's Sudden Resignation as Secretary of State.

His Indignation Justly Aroused by the Impertinent Actions of John W. Foster.

Humiliated in the Presence of the Canadian Officials. He at Once Resigned.

CHICAGO, June 15.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington correspondent says: Many causes have been alleged for the action of Mr. Blaine in terminating his relations with the president so abruptly. The final cause, however, was not disclosed until today. The Canadian officials who came to Washington to talk over the questions pending between the state department and the Dominion had had one conference the day preceding the resignation and met on Saturday, June 4, to continue the discussion. Mr. Blaine attended the cabinet meeting on June 3, but remained only a half hour, excusing himself because of his desire to proceed with the business of the Canadians.

At the Saturday meeting conference the state department was able to take care of all the business belonging to it without advice or interference from any one occupying a subordinate position in it. Thereupon Mr. Foster said he knew that Blaine was not present at the view of the president, and proceeded to state them by his direction and in his name. "Gentlemen," said the secretary, "this conference is adjourned," and he quickly left the room, penning his resignation while his indignation was at its height.

Mr. Foster assured the Canadians that Mr. Blaine's action would not make the slightest difference in the object of their visit, and that they could return to Ottawa on Monday and resume the discussion by correspondence. They accordingly left on the 10 o'clock train. There were other causes of irritation which Mr. Blaine thought were intended to make his stay in the department disagreeable, but after the humiliation in the presence of the Canadian officials, he said he could not retain the office at that moment, and for that reason the exact time, 12:45 p. m., was written on the letter that it might hereafter appear that the resignation was not the result of the conference and his resignation there was but a very brief space of time.

This statement now explains the concluding sentence of Mr. Blaine's resignation: "The condition of public business in the department of state justifies me in requesting that my resignation may be accepted immediately." In other words Mr. Blaine construed Mr. Foster's statement as an announcement that he and not Mr. Blaine was the present representative in the state department, and that his official rights and faculties as the president's mouthpiece had been suspended.

THE NEW COMMISSIONER.

H. H. Phelps is Chosen to Succeed Alfred Merritt.

H. H. Phelps, the West Duluth lawyer, yesterday appointed to the office of county commissioner to succeed Alfred Merritt, resigned. President Rockwell, of West Duluth, President G. Lund, of New Duluth, and Chairman Olaf Gulhaugen, of the board of supervisors, on Monday the appointment. Mr. Phelps took his oath of office and filed his bond yesterday. The following resolution has been prepared, expressing regret at the resignation of Alfred Merritt, by the committee appointed for that purpose: "Be it resolved: That in view of the long term of service of Commissioner Merritt upon this board, his unapproachable character as a gentleman, his faithful and efficient services as a commissioner, and the friendly relations existing between himself and the remaining members of the board, it is the sense and feeling of us who remain that we deplore his action in severing his connection with us; that in his retirement the county has lost an efficient and honorable officer, and we have lost a valued and companionable associate."

Quinby & Omeis Get It. The bids for building a forty-foot extension to the canal entry were opened yesterday. Quinby & Omeis were the lowest bidder, their figure being $100,000. The board of engineers must approve the award of contract. The improvement is one which has been needed for some time, as the water has washed away a good portion of the foundation of the pier.

Again Adjourned. The Cincinnati stockholders met yesterday afternoon but did not transact any business. The directors asking for an adjournment. At 10 o'clock the time being up, the meeting was adjourned. The thing is a big demand and the company will have no trouble in making a good bargain.

Mothers Have Cause to Fear Hot Weather.

Best of Food Needed in Every Minnesota Town.

Exhausting Influences of June Weather.

Cause of Very Much Suffering During the Summer.

Mothers cannot be too careful about their babies' food from now on. "June is the beginning of summer, and everyone knows that summer's heat brings with it that dreaded disease, cholera infantum. And every physician knows and says, that poorly fed infants easily succumb to it.

The food for infants, that the best physicians recommend, that thousands of mothers have tried and proved to be the purest and most nourishing of all, is lactated food.

It has saved the life of many a little one, and will accomplish an incalculable amount of good this coming summer. It has been more effective in preventing cholera infantum than any other means, whether medicine or food.

The living testimony of strong and healthy children who have been brought up on this food, gaining strength and spirit at once after beginning to eat it when they had been ailing and fretting before, the evidence of the medical profession, supplemented by the good, straightforward words of happy parents, who say unhesitatingly that they owe their happiness to lactated food more than any thing else—these proofs of the superiority of lactated food are enough. It is the best food known for infants and invalids.

Statistics, as well as the observation of doctors, prove that there is no food on which infants of all classes thrive so well.

The statement made at the end of a recent investigation into the causes of cholera infantum, that "infants fed on lactated food suffer less and fewer die than those fed on any other food," has been amply verified. Mothers should thoroughly understand what this lactated food is, how pure and nourishing and how successfully it meets nature's requirements. It is a food which contains all the nutritive powers sufficient to develop the child's bone, muscle and fat, and which is digestible from the time of birth and nourishes as long as it is eaten.

Don't let the little ones suffer. Don't take any chances in this. The effects of sickness at this season may be felt for many months, even after the little one begins to mend. So use this best of foods now. It is probably used more generally in the families of physicians than in those of any other class of people.

AMUSEMENTS.

A Fine Opera Company. The Miller-Caloun Opera Company has made a fit and assured of a successful summer engagement in Duluth. The Lyceum was filled last evening and the enthusiasm was unbounded, so greatly surprised was the audience.

Although the company had arrived only yesterday morning from a two days' railroad journey the opera was given with plenty of brightness and activity. "Said Pasha" is a pretty opera and has plenty of exciting music and opportunities for solo work. Miss Lotie Gilman, the prima donna, is a charming singer. Her voice is smooth and pleasant and her carriage easy and graceful. She sings with scarcely any effort and yet with unusual strength and persistence. Her kiss duet with Adolph Mayer was one of the prettiest features of the evening. Mr. Mayer has the baritone voice which he uses splendidly and his numbers all brought encores. Miss Julia Calhoun, the mezzo-soprano, shared the honors with Miss Gilman as Queen Ali. Her sonnet-like scene was very clever. Miss "Gertie" Lodge, as Ballah, the rajah's sister, has an unpleasant part but takes it excellently. Charles J. Carroff, the tenor, made an admirable Terano and has a sweet and pleasing voice; Douglas Flint and Tom Martin, the comedians, kept the audience in a roar and have already established themselves as favorites. Robert Mansfield and George Mitchell gave excellent satisfaction as the Rajah and Said Pasha. The sailor's hornpipe was one of the prettiest features of the production.

The Misses Alice and Mary Warner captured Duluthians on their appearance here with Pauline Hall last January, and their reception last night was no less warm. The costuming and mounting of the opera was unusually good. The chorus is strong, particularly the male portion. On the whole the Miller-Caloun company is the best summer opera organization which has ever visited Duluth and has sprung into popular favor at once.

Contest Over a Quarter Section in Section 22, 65-4 Which Will Become Famous.

Miss Carrie Moss is the Settler But Richard Downman Claims Prior Improvements.

The Land is Valuable, Being as Rich in Iron Ore as Any on the Range.

What promises to be a celebrated case in the United States land office annals of contests, commenced before the officers at 2 o'clock this afternoon. That it will be bitterly fought by the contestant who is a land speculator, a county commissioner of Cook county, member of the school board at Grand Marais, Minn., where he resides, and government inspector of the dredging operations at Grand Marais, goes without saying, but that the contest will be as ardently opposed by the defendant, who is a determined woman, backed by senatorial and other powerful influences from the state of Michigan, is also quite evident.

Was Not Delivered. "The New West" lecture by O. F. Presbrey, editor of Public Opinion, did not attract an audience sufficiently large to make it advisable to deliver it last evening. Mr. Presbrey left the city last evening.

People's Party Meeting. J. C. McComb presided at a fairly sized audience at the Swedish church, corner of Twentieth avenue west and Second street, last evening in the interests of the People's party. He discussed the principles of this political body and had quite a little to say commendatory of A. C. Parsons, the People's party nominee for congress in this district.

CHEERS FOR HILL.

The New York Senator a Great Favorite With the Ohio Democratic Convention.

A Lengthy and Eloquent Address by the Chairman, Hon. James E. Neal of Hamilton.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Within that dim, musty, cramped "sweat box," dignified by the name of the Grand opera house, and the interior of which had been rendered somewhat attractive for the moment by the judicious use of a profusion of hunting, plants and evergreens—the representatives of the Democracy of the Buckeye state assembled this morning for the purpose of naming its delegates to Chicago and of placing a state ticket in the field. A fine portrait of Ohio's "Old Roman," veiled with the stars and stripes, was suspended over the center of the stage, and on either side of the proscenium arch were portraits of ex-Governor Campbell and Andrew Jackson. Ex-President Cleveland had apparently been forgotten in this regard, and so had David B. Hill and the many other national Democrats, who may be expected to figure in Chicago next week as presidential possibilities.

Nine o'clock was the hour appointed for the commencement of the proceedings, but it was forty minutes later when "Doc" Norton, ofiffin, by virtue of his position as chairman of the state central committee, gave the table a resounding whack with his gold-headed cane and requested order. When this had with some difficulty been secured, the delegates and spectators arose while the Divine blessing and guidance was bestowed by Rev. Dr. C. H. Rohe, of the Columbus German Lutheran church. "Chairman Norton made a brief speech in which he urged that there should be no dissensions in selecting delegates to Chicago. A reference to Grover Cleveland brought out warm cheers and similar expressions greeted references to Whitney and Garman, a cry of applause greeted the name of Hill. But the speaker said it was not necessary to go back to find a candidate, for in the Columbus state they had good, generous men who were ready to stand up for the people, James E. Campbell, and his friends. This was greeted with loud applause and shouts of Campbell were started up. Hon. James G. Neal of Hamilton, had been selected by the state committee as temporary chairman, and his introduction awakened many manifestations of enthusiasm.

After thanking the convention for the honor he proceeded to deliver a lengthy address. Among other things he said: "Last week while the Republican party in wild enthusiasm shouted that marching strain 'Blaine, Blaine, James G. Blaine,' its office holders nominated Harrison. The rank and file were crying for their party hero, and the civil service gave them a man of straw, a postoffice candidate. The only logic of this strange anomaly is self defeat and demerit. His nothing to do but sweat for own victory. If there is one fact more pronounced than that in our political relations, it is that the people are weary of Republican rule and anxious to reinstate Democratic men and Democratic measures. It will be a wholesome boon selected by the executive head of this government is one who is endowed with Democratic intuition, aglow with Democratic thought and consecrated to the establishment of Democratic principles. "The spirit of the Democracy is awake to the issues of the hour." The great masses, always wedded to the principles of which Thomas Jefferson was the American apostle, are more largely interested in governmental affairs than they have ever been. And well may this be, for never have they been called on to make contributions for the enrichment of the privileged classes as they are today. Never have they been forced to so toil and spin that others may wear purple and fine linen, and live sumptuously in idleness. The Democratic party is the party of the people. It demands that benefits and burdens shall be enjoyed and borne by the people in equity, that the strong arm of legislation shall not be invoked and enforced to attain unjust distribution of the profits and labors of trade and commerce, that

Contest Over a Quarter Section in Section 22, 65-4 Which Will Become Famous.

The Land is Valuable, Being as Rich in Iron Ore as Any on the Range.

What promises to be a celebrated case in the United States land office annals of contests, commenced before the officers at 2 o'clock this afternoon. That it will be bitterly fought by the contestant who is a land speculator, a county commissioner of Cook county, member of the school board at Grand Marais, Minn., where he resides, and government inspector of the dredging operations at Grand Marais, goes without saying, but that the contest will be as a sturdy opponent by the defendant, who is a determined woman, backed by senatorial and other powerful influences from the state of Michigan, is also quite evident. R. L. Marble, of this city, is conducting the case for the contestant Richard Downman, and M. D. Brainard, the eminent interior department lawyer of Washington, assisted by N. B. Thayer, of this city, have the interests of Miss Moss, the opponent of the contest, in their hands. The land in question is the S.W. 1/4 of section 22, 65-4, and it is known to be fully as rich in iron as any section yet discovered on either of the ranges yet opened, and it is probably worth away up in the hundreds of thousands. In 1890 Miss Carrie Moss purchased a relinquishment of the land from R. H. Doran for $1000 and Doran had made a homestead filing on the land Oct. 24, 1890. Miss Moss left Port Arthur, April 13, 1891, with three teams, camped on the shore of Gunflint lake April 16, and finally reached her land April 22, after a very perilous journey through melting snow drifts, over swollen river and across lakes covered with rotting ice. She took with her a farmer and his wife as servants and had some other employes. She immediately set them at work building a permanent house. Timber was felled on a house 26 by 16 feet, containing four rooms, and built of hewn logs, was erected as rapidly as possible, also a store house 12 by 14. The claim is two and one-half miles from Gunflint lake and near Cross river, Michigan, is one of her friends who takes a lively interest in the case.

Richard Downman, the contestant, is well known in Cook county, especially at Grand Marais, where he has lived for a number of years and where he holds several public offices. He bases his contest on some improvements made on the land before Miss Moss entered upon it. The case will be unusually interesting.

CHEERS FOR HILL.

The New York Senator a Great Favorite With the Ohio Democratic Convention.

A Lengthy and Eloquent Address by the Chairman, Hon. James E. Neal of Hamilton.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Within that dim, musty, cramped "sweat box," dignified by the name of the Grand opera house, and the interior of which had been rendered somewhat attractive for the moment by the judicious use of a profusion of hunting, plants and evergreens, the representatives of the Democracy of the Buckeye state assembled this morning for the purpose of naming its delegates to Chicago and of placing a state ticket in the field. A fine portrait of Ohio's "Old Roman," veiled with the stars and stripes, was suspended before the center of the stage, and on either side of the proscenium arch were portraits of ex-Governor Campbell and Andrew Jackson. Ex-President Cleveland had apparently been forgotten in this regard, and so had David B. Hill and the many other national Democrats, who may be expected to figure in Chicago next week as presidential possibilities.

Nine o'clock was the hour appointed for the commencement of the proceedings, but it was forty minutes later when Chairman Norton made a brief speech in which he urged that there should be no dissensions in selecting delegates to Chicago. A reference to Grover Cleveland brought forth warm cheers and similar expressions greeted Brice, Whitney and Gorham, while a cyclone of applause greeted the name of Hill. The speaker said it was not necessary to go East to find a candidate, for in the Buckeye state they had good, generous Cal Brice and that honest, manly, brave man of the people, James E. Campbell. This was greeted with loud applause and shouts of Campbell were started up. Hon. James G. Neal of Hamilton had been selected by the state committee as temporary chairman, and his introduction awakened many manifestations of enthusiasm.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

RACE OF PYGMIES.

The Old Legend About Pygmies Proved by Stanley to be Based on Truth.

The Season for Fish Stories Opened and the Catch is Above the Average.

The oldest nations which have left a literature had traditions of a race of pygmies in Africa, and from Homer and Hanno down to the Portuguese navigators of the

AKA THE PYGMY.

Fifteenth century specific descriptions of them were given. Their wars with the cranes are thus referred to by Homer. When winter stern her harsh abundance pours. And all the sky descends in sleazy showers. To warmer hands the cranes embodied fly. With noise and order through the midway sky. To pygmy nations wounds and death they bring. And bloody war descends upon the wing. Well, Stanley has proved that the old legend had a basis of truth. There is a pygmy race in Africa and they are human and intelligent, though feeble and timid. They are so shy and hide from the stal wart tribes in such dense forests, that it is very difficult to secure a specimen, but one is now on exhibition in Berlin. Her name is Aka. she is fifty-one years old and twenty-seven inches high, and she was of noble blood and a great belle among her people. Such, at any rate, is the statement made by King Massai, whose warriors captured her in one of their murderous forays. Owing to her height and intelligence King Massai made her his "witch finder," and as such it was her duty to be present at all feasts and other gatherings of his people and point out the man or woman who caused the last epidemic among cattle or human creatures. The negroes of the interior ascribe nearly all unusual evils to witchcraft and think that dwarfs have a supernatural power of smelling out witches. In this capacity Aka caused so many deaths that she was sickened of it, ran away, was captured by another band and sold to a Liverpool trader. At Liverpool she was sold to a showman with a miscellaneous lot of apes, leopards and the like, and now attracts thousands of visitors in Berlin. In color she is midway between pure black and bright brown, her hair is that of a pure negress and her split nose is almost exactly that of a gorilla. Still she is not bad looking, is quite active in mind, and so must be set down as still a long way above the "missing link."

Remarkable Fish Stories. The season for fish stories opened late, but the catch is away above average. The first score was by a citizen of Bangor, Me., who is given to walking in his sleep, and in a recent somnambulation along the shore of Lake Chemu threw his line and hooked a five pound bass; nor did he awake till the struggles of the fish caused him to lose his balance and fall into the water. Portland harbor has always been good ground, and this year fishing parties have done unusually well there. The other day a couple of anglers brought up a bag in which were sixty pint bottles of whisky. Prohibition does not seem to prohibit in the bay. David Weiser, of Pottstown, Pa., is fond of angleworms, and says they are as good as oysters when taken with vinegar, pepper and salt. A Vermont lobster thirty-four inches long and weighing 19 1/2 pounds was taken in St. Andrew's bay, Maine, a few days ago. It will be exhibited at the World's fair, and so will that sea lion which an Astorian (Oregon) has tamed and taught to follow his boat as a dog follows its master. He is a very reliable man, and the sea lion claims a share of the fish he takes. It was caught in a net when an infant and reared by hand, as it were, and is a member of the Baptist church in good standing. Incidentally the painful truth is announced that Connecticut river shad are in danger of extinction. Formerly 40,000 a year were taken. Now 25,000 is the outside limit, and the indications are that this year's catch will fall far below that.

The Last of the Slavers. Alongside an East river pier, at the foot of Seventh street, New York, lies the last American vessel ever engaged in the slave trade, and on her stern in faded letters can still be seen the words, "Echo, New York." Thirty years and some months have passed since her commander was hanged, and the old slaver is now in honorable service as a lighter, but still fairly staunch, for she was built for hard service. All who read the papers during the civil war well remember the excitement when the Echo was brought in and her commander, Nathan Gordon, committed to prison. He had been given opportunities to escape, but ignored them, declaring he had done nothing he considered unlawful. But it was a bad time for slavers. President Lincoln was determined to enforce the law, and Gordon had been taken with a cargo of blacks on board. The president in this case seemed unlike his usual tender hearted self. The mother and wife of Gordon secured a numerous signed petition for pardon and took it to Washington, but Mr. Lincoln peremptorily refused to consider it. He would not even listen to a proposition to commute the sentence to life imprisonment, and so Gordon was hanged in the Tombs, Feb. 12, 1862. He made a long speech on the scaffold, denouncing the president, district attorney and all who were instrumental in bringing his life to an end. The Echo was confiscated, and after several years in general trade was laid up.

Satisfactory Explanation. Clothing Merchant—The reason why I am anxious for you to take this suit at eight dollars, my friend, is that we expect to mark all this line of goods up to $17.50 after the 1st of June. Customer—Why don't you hold 'em till then and make more money on 'em? "Hold them? Great Scott! We've got to get rid of them to make way for new stock." "Then what's the object of marking 'em up after the 1st of June?" "What's the object?" "Yes. What's the object?" "In marking these clothes up after the 1st of June?" "Yes. That's what I want to know." "Es—aw—my friend, shall we say $4.50 for the suit?"—Chicago Tribune.

"Eight Declared Off, No Reason Given." Spokesman—See here, Jim Brogan, yez has been a-sayin yer kin lick any boy in de ward of yer size. I've got me sister here wot'll knock der stuffin out o' yer, anshe's on'y a gal. Jim Brogan—Who's der dem fellers? Spokesman—Dem's her brudders, dem is. Dey're on'y here ter see fair play—Life.

The Empire. The poor umber is out on the ball ground. There is a limp in his gait and he carries a cane. He is an old vet, and played a right lively game before he was wounded. The ball struck him on the kneecap, and when he was discharged from the hospital he was placed on the retired list. What are they doing now? The man at the bat has made three strikes, and the catcher has thrown the ball to first base. Is the man out? Some say he is out and some say he isn't. What does the umber say? He has not had a chance to say anything yet on account of the uproar. Why do the two nines gather so closely around the umber? He ought to have a little fresh air. They are trying to bulldoze him. Has he rendered a decision yet? Yes, he has pronounced the man out. Who was that who just struck the umber? That is the short stop. Who is the man kicking the umber on his game leg? That is the man whom he declared out. It is a shame to kick, strike and abuse a lame man. True, but look at the third baseman, who is creeping up behind him with a club in his hand. What is he going to do? He finds it necessary to kill the umber to stifle further discussion. Has he struck him yet? No, he has not hit him on the back of his head because the umber has just reversed his decision. Gone back on what he said in the first place? Yes, he now says the man is not out. Who fired 'hat shot? The left fielder of the other club. Whom is he shooting at? The umber. Why? Because the umber reversed his decision. Why, they have killed the umber for going back on his first judgment. Yes, but what is the difference? He would have been killed anyway by the club on the other side. It is six to one and half a dozen to the other, and an umber might as well die for an old sheep as a lamb.—Texas Siftings.

Valuable Advice. A Vermont lady had removed from her native place to the beautiful California city of Oakland. She found life there very agreeable at first, but before long she began to experience distressing physical sensations. She became nervous, fretful and very uncomfortable; she lost much of her sleep at night and much more of her happiness by day. At last she resolved to consult a physician, and did so, calling to see a bright light in the profession. She gave him a very full account of her symptoms, and then asked: "What is it that ails me, doctor?" "Pleas, ma'am!" answered the doctor. For this information the Vermont lady paid the doctor's minimum consultation fee of five dollars, and went her way, but not rejoicing.—Youth's Companion.

Economy in Neckties. Beaver—What have you got a red necktie on for, old man? Don't you know they have gone out? Melton—Yes, but I am going to a beaver's shop to get shaved today. Beaver—What's that got to do with your necktie? Melton—It's the only kind I can wear that doesn't show blood.—Clothes and Furnisher.

The Celebrated Case of Austin vs. Upham is Abandoned by the Plaintiff.

His Attorney Asks the Court to Instruct the Jury for the Defendant.

A Sensation May be Produced When the Case of the Tug Rambler Comes Up.

In the district court before Judge Stearns this morning, in room No. 2 the case of Austin vs. Upham came to a sudden end by the motion of the plaintiff's attorney that the jury be instructed to bring in a verdict for the defendant Upham. This was done and concluded a case which has become noted, but upon which there seems to have been no ground for prosecution. It has been withdrawn and recommenced several times and caused Mr. Upham much annoyance because of the severe reflections which were made on his honesty, but are by the outcome proven to have been without foundation.

The next case was No. 10, Edward Evans vs. The London & Liverpool and Globe Insurance company. The suit is to compel the payment of a $5000 insurance policy on the tug Rambler which was destroyed by fire at Red Cliff last year. The company claim the tug was set on fire and they have placed the matter in the hands of E. E. Morse the celebrated Cleveland detective who is here and ready to testify. They claim to have a pretty strong case against the crew of the tug, or a part of them, and a cross suit for arson is likely to follow. The case may be terminated abruptly or is liable to continue for a day or two before Judge Ensign's case is still on. Cases 64 and 108 were continued by consent. Thos. Brown was arraigned on the indictment charging him with attempted rape on a West Duluth woman. He stood mute and was given until tomorrow to plead. An indictment was found against John Hynes charging him with assault in the second degree, and there are two other indictments, the contents of which are not known. The witnesses in the Gagnon mayhem case are before the jury this afternoon, but an indictment is not quite probable.

An indictment was returned last evening by the grand jury against Mrs. Mary Hurd for grand larceny and a bench warrant was issued. She is the woman who is accused of having stolen goods from Freimuth's store. She was brought into the court room, carrying a babe in her arms, late in the afternoon and was arraigned, but was given further time to plead. As she was going out of the court room she fainted, and Sheriff Sharvy caught her just as she was falling. She recovered quickly, and with the help of some lady friends, was taken from the court house, she having given $250 bonds for her appearance.

Senator Kell - Says Cleveland Will be Nominated by Acclamation. Senator Henry Keller, of Sauk Center, who has been here for a day or two, left today for his home. I'm going to Chicago Saturday night. That'll be a gang of us and we'll have a special date. I'm going to nominate Grover Cleveland by acclamation and don't you forget it. 'Whoop-la,' and the senator swung his grip over his head in his enthusiasm and dashed off to catch his train.

WHEAT WAS VERY DULL. A Weak Opening Today, Followed by an Advance. A weak opening followed by an advance which was not steady and apparently had no stable undertone characterized the early session of the wheat market today. Cables and excellent reports of fine growing weather caused the weak opening. Private advices from the Red River valley are, however, to the effect that the acreage of that section is 50 per cent less than last year, while in North Dakota it is 55 per cent less. Prices advanced from the early decline on the report that the Russian wheat crop is in poorer condition than a year ago. Trading was divided between cash and July. The close was very dull at about the same figures as yesterday. Following were the closing prices:

Palmer, of Detroit, president of the World's fair commission, Paul Blackmar and son Tom, of Minneapolis; James Shepard, of Casapolis, Mich., and L. R. Casey, United States senator from North Dakota, were in the city last evening on their way home from the Minneapolis convention. They were taken for a drive over the boulevard by H. B. Moore, W. E. Richardson, C. A. Towne, R. S. Mungler, J. A. Boggs and others and later were taken out on the lake on a tug. Upon their return Lord Emerson entertained the party at one of his planked whitish dinners and Mr. Palmer for the first time ate the famous dish and realized what he has missed in the line of delicacies. The gentlemen were all unprepared for what they saw in Duluth. Mr. Palmer was enthusiastic over the boulevard and Central High school particularly. With the exception of Mr. Casey the party left by boat for Detroit last evening. He returned home today.

AND MOST ECONOMICAL.

Is that of Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. It is prepared with greater care and accuracy, from finer and more expensive materials, competent chemists test every ingredient nothing is left to chance.

It is not only more economical because of its wonderful raising power, but by reason of its greater bulk, the cans being much larger than the ordinary kind; it will go farther and do better work. It never disappoints. Dr. Price's is the only baking powder that contains the whites of eggs.

AWFUL CYCLONE.

Southern Minnesota swept by a Terrible Storm, Carrying Death and Destruction.

The Number of Dead Not Yet Known But it May Reach One Hundred.

Whole Families Swept Into Eternity by the Fearful Sweep of the Storm.

From Jackson to Wells on the Milwaukee & St. Paul Road the Destruction is Great.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—A special to the Journal from Mankato says: One of the worst disasters that ever visited Southern Minnesota occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The terrible funnel-shaped tornado again stalked abroad over the land and laid waste scores of happy homes and sent forty or fifty souls to eternity. Every report that comes in is worse than preceding ones. The extent of country swept by this awful visitation was greater than ever before known in the history of the state, and fortunate indeed it is no town or village lay in its destructive course.

The Cyclone's Course. Starting near Jackson, on the Southern Minnesota division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, funnel-shaped clouds swept eastward and passed four miles south of Minnesota lake, then took a broad circle to the south and passed away south of Wells. Considerable rain had followed during the afternoon and about 5 o'clock the atmosphere became almost suffocating. Curious shaped clouds began to form over in the southwest and many people gazed in wonder at the sight. About 5:30 a wind sprang up, and off to the west a circling black cloud was seen rapidly advancing and demolishing everything in its course. It passed two miles northeast of Sherburne, and it is reported that it then struck a district school house in which were the teacher and eighteen scholars. The building was demolished and the teacher and fifteen scholars killed.

A Whole Family Killed. At Easton three buildings were destroyed and several people injured. Lindon was visited and many houses were torn from their foundations. One family, consisting of a man, his wife and child, were killed, and others injured. A large grove of trees was completely uprooted. The storm passed on eastward, destroying farmhouses, barns and in fact everything in its path. At Wells sidewalks were overturned, store fronts blown in and other damage done. Several men were blown down by the force of the wind.

Four miles south of Minnesota lake, five farm houses and their building were caught in the storm and utterly demolished. Four people were killed here. The body of one of these, John Brown, was taken to Minnesota lake this morning. His wife, a hired man and a school teacher were also injured. Section men suffered severe injuries. Much damage was done south of Wells, and it is reported that forty or fifty were killed south and west of that village.

As most of the damage was done in the country, reports are slow in coming in but what has been already heard is enough to insure the belief that it was the worst storm ever reported in Southern Minnesota. It is expected that later reports will increase rather than diminish the extent of the damage done as well as the loss of life and personal injuries.

Scenes of Misery. Many heart-rending scenes occurred during the night. The log house of the Bohman family at Bowen mills, near Minnesota lake, was blown entirely away, not one log remaining. The family, consisting of a man, wife and six children, spent the night miserably in the rain without shelter from the elements. They huddled together upon a heap of straw and with a piece of a sheet endeavored to ward off the cold wind and never-ceasing rain that chilled them to the bone.

At Wells the section man received a terrible injury in the breast from a flying board. A brakeman who saw the storm at that place said he plainly saw the funnel approaching from the west, and as it passed north of the village he was cast to the ground by the terrific pressure of the air, which was so close that it almost stifled him. The air seemed like gas and everywhere was filled with a white haze.

It is impossible at present to get a list of those killed and wounded. Probably not less than 100 were wounded, and as they were mostly in the country, distant from medical aid, their sufferings were terrible. All along the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul road, from Jackson to Minnesota lake, the scene is one of devastation. Not every house is taken, but so many are destroyed that the scene is pitiful.

The Wind's Destruction. This is one of the richest sections of the state, and is prairie, with now and then a wind-break of trees planted by the settlers. The wind had full sweep. Wires have been down all the forenoon. The Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul train to Wells got no further than Mapleton last night owing to debris on the tracks, and laid over there. The morning train from Wells was four hours late, as it repaired the telegraph line as it came. Telegraph poles and trees were everywhere blown over. Owing to a wash-out at Blakely, on the Omaha road, last night's passenger train from the Twin cities has not yet arrived. This morning's train from Sioux City was held at Kasota to wait repairs on the track. A washout at Rochester on the Northwestern railroad, delayed the morning passenger train from the east. In this city a heavy rain fell throughout the afternoon, night and this forenoon, but no damage reported.

It is reported that a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train was blown off the track near Sherburne and over 100 people killed. A later bulletin says that only two people were killed and that seventy-two passengers were injured. All trains on the division have been abandoned. The railway officials deny that there was any loss of life.

A VERY HEAVY STORM.

Rain, Hail and Wind do Damage at Many Points.

St. Paul, June 16.—Reports of a heavy storm and some damage throughout the southern part of this state are coming in today. In this city the storm was very heavy, the rain being a steady downpour with almost the proportions of a cloud-burst.

At Rochester at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a terrific rain, hail and electric storm broke and continued for six hours. The rain fell in sheets and the surrounding country was inundated. The Zumbrota river is a raging torrent, full of debris. Night trains on the Winona & St. Peter road were suspended. The cars washed out and water was four feet deep on the track in some places. A trestle half a mile west of Rochester was washed away and traffic is at a standstill.

The Durand, Wis., correspondent of the Dispatch says the severest rain and hailstorm known for years struck that section. The water poured down in torrents. The inundation of the Chippewa lowlands threaten great damage.

A dispatch from Austin, Minn., says that the rain storm there was fearful, that many cattle and horses were drowned and a number of bridges washed away. No lives are reported lost, the people escaping in boats, that now being their only means of transportation. Trains were delayed for several hours.

THE BRIDGE DISASTER.

Twenty-Five Victims of the Licking River Disaster Found.

CINCINNATI, O., June 16.—With the approach of daylight people began to gather on the banks of the Licking river, where the ill fated bridge went down with its scores of human lives Wednesday, and in a few hours, thousands of men, women and children were watching the work of rescuing the bodies yet in the wreck. The work was commenced. Owing to the vast amount of iron on the structure when it fell, the work is difficult and slow. An hour after it was begun two bodies were found pinned down by heavy timbers. They were taken out but could not at the time be identified.

About 9 o'clock, while the work was being prosecuted, a terrible crash was heard. Another section of the bridge loosened and tottering on the Newport side, fell carrying with it 2,000 pounds of ropes and pulleys. Five men were at work just under it at the time it gave way, but a warning cry saved them their lives. Nearly all the identified dead have been claimed by relatives. There is yet one body unidentified at Menninger's undertaking establishment. William Baird, the surgeon brother of the contractor, has received messages of sympathy from several large bridge companies throughout the country.

Fred Pierce, the son of Jack Pierce, the newspaper man, who was reported yesterday as one of the killed, returned to his home last night. Unknown to his father he started off early in the forenoon. At the St. Elizabeth hospital the injured are doing well with the exception of W. E. Wilson, whose chances for recovery are hopeless. His spine is hurt and he is injured internally. Up to noon four more bodies have been found, but they are still in the wreckage pinned down by heavy timbers and iron work. They are Wm. Wessling, Frank Muir, a man named Leonard and an unknown. The list now stands at twenty-five deaths and fourteen injured.

Will Plead Insanity.

PARIS, June 16.—The counsel for Ravachol will present in the trial at Mont Brison the defense of insanity in behalf of his client. Ravachol's counsel contends he (Ravachol) is actually suffering from madness, and is getting madder every day. This plea is to be presented with considerable energy upon the jurors at Mont Brison.

Vesuvius in Eruption.

To Buy the Telephone Lines.

HENRY IS PLEASED

Editor Watterson Smiles at the Defeat of the Cleveland Men in Ohio.

Says it is no Surprise to Him as He Expected Such a Result.

Thinks the Democrats Could Have Strong Hopes of Electing Governor Campbell.

CHICAGO, June 16.—"I didn't come to this town to talk politics," declared Editor Henry Watterson, of Louisville, shortly after his arrival at the Palmer house this morning. "I'm here to deliver a lecture for the Press club boys at the Auditorium on June 20. After that I shall attend the national Democratic convention, but until that time I have nothing to say on the political situation."

He finally got around the forbidden subject, however, the entering wedge being a question as to the result of the Ohio convention yesterday. When he was told that the Cleveland forces had been defeated at Columbus, a seraphic smile lighted up the face of the apostle of the star-eyed goddess. "Ah," he remarked, "so Ohio is solid against Cleveland? Well, that's no news anyhow. I knew it would be. Senator Brice has the state under his control. He and Governor Campbell and the Hamilton county forces have made peace. Well well," he continued, smiling sweetly again, "were not the Cleveland forces scattered? Now, do you know I wouldn't be surprised to see Governor Campbell the nominee of the convention. He wants it, and would unquestionably be a strong candidate. We could have great hopes of electing Campbell."

He thought a while and then repeated: "We could have strong hopes of electing Governor Campbell. And with this declaration he renewed his determination not to be interviewed, and firmly, but politely, turned the talk into non-political channels.

HANGED FOR A MURDER.

The Strangler of a Woman Executed This Morning.

YORK, Pa., June 16.—Wm. Henry Painton, the strangler of Mrs. Michael Strominger, was hanged in the jail yard here at 10:17 a. m. Painton killed Mrs. Michael Strominger at Lewisberry, March 2, 1891, while committing a robbery. Mr. and Mrs. Strominger were an old couple living alone. Painton overpowered and bound them and after getting $800 from a chest and going to release Mrs. Strominger, he found her unconscious.

He applied restoratives, rubbed her arms and chest and applied a mirror for signs of life, but failing to revive her went to the office of the village physician and summoned aid. The perpetrator of the deed then fled and was arrested several weeks later at his home in Sullivan county. Painton was 38 years of age and a professional thief. He has served several terms in the penitentiary.

IN THE SIXTH DISTRICT.

The Fight Between Kendall and Searle for the Nomination.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16.—A Brainerd special to the Journal says: There are as yet only two avowed candidates for congress in the Sixth. Kendall, of Duluth, and Judge Searle, of St. Cloud, put in some considerable work on the edges at the recent convention. Kendall had the advantage of the judge, having been in the field all the week, but Judge Searle was able to catch representative Republicans from a number of counties whom Kendall had not seen. Though so recently an open candidate, the judge's boom seems to have a pretty solid footing in the counties of Anoka, Mille Lacs, Benton, Stearns, Morrison and Todd. Crow Wing and Aitkin are likely to develop a preference for the Duluth man, if nothing is done to counteract the start which "Zeke" Kendall has made.

THIRD PARTY VICTORY.

Col. Mills' District in Texas Lost by the Democrats.

CORSICANA, Tex., June 16.—Returns from outlying county precincts in this (Navarro) county, have swelled the majority of J. N. Barber, the Third party candidate to congress from this district for Col. Mills' vacant seat, to over 400. This will probably elect him, instead of Judge E. L. Anthony, the Democratic nominee.

The Dispute Adjusted.

New York, June 16.—Several of the union printers who went to Minneapolis in regard to the matter of transforming the Tribune composing room from a "rat" to a union office returned yesterday. They say the matters in dispute between Mr. Reid and the printers have been satisfactorily adjusted and a union foreman and union compositors will be at work on the Tribune tonight.

Porter for Chairman.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Before leaving for Europe yesterday, Gen. John C. New in the course of a conversation, remarked that Gen. Horace Porter would probably succeed Mr. Clarkson as chairman of the Republican national committee. Gen. Porter is not now a member of the committee, but should his election be determined upon he would be elected a member from this state and Frank S. Witherbee, who succeeded Mr. Fassett, would have to step aside.

The Anti-Option Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The senate, after a short debate, referred the anti-option bill to the judiciary committee.

IN QUEER COSTUME

Trousers of Linen and Spotlessly White are Worn by Women in Tunis.

All Maltese Women Wear Black Veils as the Result of an Ancient Vow.

The women in Tunis wear trousers—regular men's trousers—only made of linen and always spotlessly white. This custom is not adopted by the Europeans and other strangers in the ramshackle old place, which has, like its neighbor, Carthage, been the subject of so much pillage that it appears as a dead oak in a harvested field—filled with ruins, Roman and modern—a sleepless, inactive people who simply live, as they find themselves victims of the peaceful, fatalistic Mohammedanism.

Years and centuries ago the Jews, driven from Spain, as is their lot, drifted into Tunis. Bound to flourish wherever they are, they multiplied until now the city has 40,000 of them—just one-fifth of all the motley horde, with twenty different languages that makes the town. Every woman, young or old, of this 40,000 wears the white trousers in her home and upon the streets, differing slightly from the Jenness Miller and less conspicuous garb of her Arabic or Moorish neighbor. They are not the baggy trousers of the Turkish woman, but tight fitting ones, ending at the knees. The sight at first is very amusing to travelers, but soon gets to be accepted as the proper thing. It is not a becoming dress to the wearers, as most of them are very stout. However, it is the national costume of the Tunis Jews.

Another striking article of woman's dress in the black veil of the Maltese. This all the women of the island of Malta wear as the result of a vow made by their ancestors after the fearful ravages of the soldiers who ran rampant and wild over their little country, measuring but nine by seventeen miles, reckless followers of their highwayman leader, Napoleon Bonaparte. The story of the awful crimes of these men against BLACK VEIL OF MALTA. Helpless victims and their infamous treatment of the Maltese women will never be written.

The vow was taken to wear the black hoods for a hundred years, and there is not a native on the island who has proved false to the oath of her foremothers. In six years more the century in black will end, and in 1898 the Maltese women, handsome as they are in the black hoods, will lay aside the mourning for the outrages of the French soldiery in 1792.

Two Remarkable Elopements. There are elopements and elopements, and one would think no new variety could be exhibited, but Edward White and Emma Lewis, of Jersey City, have done it. First, they did not intend to elope, but only to have an evening out, and, secondly, they rode around on the elevated railroads of New York city all night because Miss Lewis was afraid to go home, and, lastly, decided in the morning that the "nicest way to smooth it over" was to get married. It was "smoothed over." Emma's father, Captain George Lewis, of 201 Pavonia avenue, Jersey City, was swearing bloody vengeance at 9 p. m., and early next morning Emma's mother had a spy watching a load of furniture which left the White residence, and all that forenoon there was trouble galore, but at night all parties were reconciled. It appeared that Edward White, who lives with his mother, had taken a shine to Emma, but her mother opposed it savagely on account of his slightly inferior social position.

This roused the spirit of his mother and she took an active interest. On Sunday afternoon Emma went out walking and met White. They walked so long that as they drew near her home they heard her father threatening to break every bone in his body. Result, a precipitate retreat, some hours of night riding, repentance, fear of scandal and a marriage at daylight. Selah!

Another unusual elopement occurred recently in South Carolina. Julius Matheson and Miss Mattie McLeod eloped, boarding a train for North Carolina and were married on the train.

The Philosophy of Lynch Law. American human nature is much the same in all sections, and there is one crime for which a negro will be lynched as certainly in the north as in the south. Port Jervis, N. Y., has given the latest proof. It is likely, too, that if we could get the exact facts we should find that white men suffer sudden death for that crime in about the same proportion to their guilt. In truth, the creature who outrages a woman is not secure against lynching in any section of the United States.

Is it justifiable? Well, that depends upon the point of view. New York is an old and well settled state and Port Jervis is among the most orderly places in it. Yet a negro lashed a negro there, and as if to emphasize at once its disregard of law and public opinion hanged him on a tree in front of the residence of Erwin G. Fowler, editor of The Rural New Yorker.

On the other hand, four-fifths of the south and nine-tenths of the west beyond the Missouri line are so thinly settled and the rural regions so traversed by strangers that the risks are vastly greater and the vengeance taken must be sudden, certain and terrible. Wyoming, for instance, is twice as large as Pennsylvania and has fewer people than many a city ward. Yet the women of Wyoming are as much entitled to security and liberty of movement as those of Pennsylvania. To insure it malefactors have ever before their eyes the truth that the one offense insures certain death.

Dr. Collyer Didn't See Spooks. The Rev. Dr. Robert Collyer attended his first spiritual seance the other evening and was not impressed. He is positive that spirits do not wear calico and that the materializations he saw did. Once a materialized carpenter was said to be planing, and if he was, says the doctor, "they must have very poor planes in the other world." He further adds that if he can find proof of the truth of spiritualism, he will be willing to announce that fact to the world.

CUT DOWN YOUR SHOE BILL

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it? To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof. Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking. Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before. All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

H. J. SPEER, M. D., Of the Firm of Dr. Speer and Co.

James Riley, Night Watchman at a Saw Mill, Gives a Few Interesting Facts.

EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior:—Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw by the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Dr. Speer. He, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself.

He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Everything he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulted would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the back and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I look upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased to give any further information to anyone calling upon me. JAMES RILEY, Night watchman at Merrill & Ring's saw mill, First avenue, Third street south West Duluth.

BROOCH OF DEATH.

The Very Remarkable and Ingeniously Contrived Jewel Worn by Revengful Woman.

Thrilling Experience of an English Traveler Who Met a Beautiful Woman Handcuffed.

A Nihilist Fiend Who Always Carried With Her a Horrible Apparatus of Death.

The following adventure in a railway carriage is told by an English traveler. I had settled myself in my corner before I noticed that I was not alone and that my fellow traveler was a lady, clothed from head to foot in a long traveling ulster with a deep cape and closely veiled. I wanted a deep cape and closely veiled. I wanted a deep cape and closely veiled. I wanted a deep cape and closely veiled.

"This is twelve-thirty. Are you there, Fred?" The train had stopped, and I saw a couple of men in police uniform and a railway inspector peering into the compartment.

"Have you come all the way alone?" "Yes, I have been alone in the carriage all the way." "Good heavens! What's that?" "A minute later, and the corpse of a woman who had been in the carriage, was still drawn in the agony of a violent death, was dragged out.

"I was arrested, and as the policemen led me away to another cab, I heard one say to the other: 'Yes, it's poor Fred, no doubt, and seemingly killed just like the others. I wonder how that fellow does it. And he must have had the bracelets on her, too.'"

"I spent the night in the cells. I was accused of procuring the escape from justice of the notorious Marie S., the wife of a member of the Nihilist Inner Circle, then serving a life sentence in Siberia. Four murders had been traced to her. How she killed her victims was a mystery. They had all died by the same means, as far as could be seen, and all had apparently died in agony by some terrible and mysterious agency that left no trace save death behind it. While I lay in jail awaiting my trial the search for Marie S. became an absolute hunt to the death, and she was finally captured.

"A druggist's assistant one evening made the acquaintance of a very pretty girl, who told him that she was a chemist. She ended by asking him to get her a quantity of a very poisonous substance which she wanted for an experiment. The drug clerk took the girl some crystals of a harmless salt which resembled what she had wanted.

HILL STOCK RISING. The Cleveland defeat in Ohio yesterday complicates the Democratic presidential situation worse than ever.

William Walter Phelps is now stated to be the probable successor of Mr. Blaine as secretary of state. He is certainly the best man that has yet been named in connection with the office.

The Minneapolis Tribune claims to have information from a private but reliable source that Archbishop Ireland is soon to receive at the hands of the pope the highest honor that can be conferred by him.

Minneapolis is receiving many compliments from the press in all sections of the country for the splendid manner in which the convention was handled.

The news that Hon. P. H. Kelly, of St. Paul, has recovered from his recent severe illness will be received with pleasure by his many friends throughout the state.

It is said that the anti-Donnelly faction, which has refused to be merged into the People's party with its crazy-patch platform, will nominate Gen. Jim Baker for governor at the convention called to meet July 7.

The New York Sun says: "There are no Democratic factions in New York." Consequently we may expect at any moment to see Editor Dana and Grover Cleveland with their arms around each other's necks.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE. Any man can advertise extensively if he has the money, but it is not every man who knows how to advertise judiciously so as to obtain the most satisfactory results.

both their ability and their money are put to poor use.

All the best advertisers, men who have created large businesses by persistent and judicious advertising, agree that newspaper advertising is the best and that it is the only mode that brings adequate returns.

This is the opinion of one of the most successful advertisers in the United States, and it confirms the experience of the Duluth merchants who use the advertising columns of The Herald.

A New York Outlet. NEW YORK, June 16.—It is said that the Canadian Pacific is seeking an outlet into this city and that a Hudson River road and a terminal company is to be such an outlet.

The Bering Sea Case. LONDON, June 16.—The queen has appointed Lord Hannen, ex-president of the divorce court, and Sir John Thompson to represent Great Britain in the Bering sea arbitration.

THAT TIDAL WAVE. It Was Very Noticeable at a Harbor on Isle Royale.

To the Editor of The Herald: Apropos of the unusual phenomenon of a tidal wave, referred to at length in your issue of Tuesday, I have a few words of corroborative detail that may be of interest.

I have the best of authority for stating that on Monday morning at about 7:30 o'clock at points along the north shore as far as the Nepigon, and perhaps beyond, there was a tidal wave or recession, the limit of which was about five feet.

Mr. Blaine's Resignation. To the Editor of The Herald: The strikers begin to hear some intimations of the cause of Mr. Blaine's resignation, much more probable than the charges of ambitious meddling, which some friends of the ex-secretary were too quick, if not too willing, to credit.

Office of the Board of Public Works, City of Duluth, Minn., June 13, 1932.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Gentlemen: In the matter of a resolution of the common council adopted May 9, 1932, directing the grading of a roadway on the easterly side of Superior street, a distance of fifty feet, the board would respectfully report that the estimated cost of the proposed improvement is $500, and would recommend that the work be ordered done, one-half of the cost be assessed against the property specially benefited.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Gentlemen: The board would recommend that authority be granted them to purchase a 20-hp. engine and boiler, mounted to run the new steam crusher, the estimated cost of which is about $700. At the time the crusher was purchased the intention of the board to use the road rollers for power, but on account of delay in getting the crusher from the factory, the rollers were in use on the streets when it arrived.

To the President and Common Council of the City of Duluth:

Gentlemen: The city engineer has recommended from year to year the necessity of the city's having a storage yard of its own. It is quite necessary that such a place be provided for the storage of lumber, stone, curbing and other material belonging to the city and that a quantity of common sewer pipe, brick, etc., required in the construction of city work be carried in stock all the time. The idea is to furnish the contractor with all the supplies they may require, by which plan we know that the materials used are saved as specified.

E. J. Amory has two lots on the east side of St. Croix avenue which we understand can be purchased at a reasonable figure. The board considers the location suitable for the purpose, and would suggest to your honorable body that if satisfactory price can be obtained from him, said lots (or some other lots as equally well suited) be purchased.

Respectfully submitted, T. W. ABELL, Clerk Board of Public Works.

Robert Schilling, of Milwaukee, green-backer, socialist, secretary of the People's party national committee, chairman of the state central committee of the Union Labor party in Wisconsin, editor of the National Reform and general reform whooper-up, was in Minneapolis today, says the Evening Tribune of yesterday.

Mr. Schilling is an optimist when speaking of the future of the People's party. He was glad to see the Republicans renominate President Harrison, he said, and all he hoped now is that the Democrats would be good enough to nominate Cleveland, and the People's party would carry about as many states as either of the old parties.

WENT AGAINST CLEVELAND.

The Ohio Delegation Opposed to His Nomination.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 16.—After the Democratic state convention nominated the state ticket yesterday, nominations for delegates-at-large were declared in order.

Allen W. Thurman was named by Congressmen Outwater, Lawrence T. Neal by Gen. G. P. Finley, Gen. Calvin Brice by Hon. Thomas Powell, ex-Governor Campbell by L. C. Cole, Hon. Frank Hurd by Elmer White. John E. McMahon and Robert Blee, of Cleveland, were placed in nomination.

The first ballot resulted: Brice, 705; Campbell, 663; Neal, 452; Hurd, 353; Blee, 333 1/2; McMahon, 307; Thurman, 217 1/2.

Mr. Campbell and Neal were declared elected, the success of the latter being greeted with loud cheers. On the second ballot, Thurman and McMahon withdrew and Blee received 293 votes to 349 for Hurd.

Ex-Governor Campbell is the only supporter of ex-President Cleveland in the delegation at large, the other three regarding him as unavailing as a presidential possibility.

Strong favor was shown toward Governor Campbell as a dark horse.

The platform adopted by the convention pledges earnest and cordial support for the nominees of the Chicago convention; demands a reform of the present tariff; demands the removal of unnecessary taxation; recognizes in the tariff recently imposed or threatened by certain European nations an effort to retaliate for the high duties imposed by the McKinley law.

Mr. Schilling is an optimist when speaking of the future of the People's party. He was glad to see the Republicans renominate President Harrison, he said, and all he hoped now is that the Democrats would be good enough to nominate Cleveland, and the People's party would carry about as many states as either of the old parties.

DEMON'S PATH.

Heartrending Sights Along the Course of the Cyclone in Southern Minnesota.

Latest Reports Indicate That the Number of Deaths Was Greatly Exaggerated.

Twenty Lives Definitely Known to be Lost. But the Total May Increase.

Houses Reduced to Splinters by the Terrible Force of the Awful Storm.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 17.—A special to the Journal from Delavan, Minn., says: The cyclone which passed near this place Wednesday afternoon crushed a barn belonging to H. Duffy, and thence passed on to the farm of C. Leitenberger. The family, seeing the funnel-shape of the approaching storm, ran for the cellar. Part of the family succeeded in reaching this place of shelter and were uninjured. The storm struck the house square, and in a trice had reduced it to a mass of splinters. One of the children, a girl of 7 years, was found about a hundred feet from the cellar door. Leitenberger and another of the children were seriously injured.

One mile east, the house of L. Pitcher was unroofed and the windmill and barns were carried away. Next in the path of the storm stood the farm of Mr. Armstrong. His house was picked up and moved bodily about sixteen yards. A large barn filled with horses and cattle was moved from its foundation, and the upper story was twisted off level with the second floor. A large hog barn and machine sheds were wrecked.

The storm passed on sweeping everything in its path, destroying buildings and killing three people two miles further east. A late report gives as the number killed in this vicinity six, and thirty injured. Delavan is on the Southern Minnesota division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road between Winnebago City and Wells. A special from Albert Lea this morning says: Every report adds to the list of the injured and to the loss of property. Advances this morning from Martin county are that three children were killed there. The list of casualties in Fairbault county is a long one and very difficult to get. Thus far six deaths have been reported from that county. The loss of property cannot now be estimated. The path of the cyclone was through some of the richest farming land in the state.

The killed in Freeborn county as now reported are as follows: Andrew Hansen, aged 27, near Hartland; Mrs. Michael Iverson and three small children, Freeborn township; M. Shequin and family. The seriously injured are Andrew Faulson; the wife and child of Chris. Christopherson and two others, names not known. It is now reported that an unknown man was drowned between Hartland and Richland. It is thirty-five miles from here to the scene of the devastation and as information must be secured by team it is hard to get.

THE DEAD AND INJURED.

Names of the Victims of the Whirlwind.

MAPLETON, Minn., June 17.—A representative of the Mapleton Enterprise, who went to Minnesota lake as soon as the news of the terrible tornado or cyclone was received, gives the following names of the victims in that place: John Brown, Mrs. John Latusick, Miss Melchart and sister, John Pieterus. Among the injured are: Miss Maggie Ryan, school teacher, ankle sprained and serious injuries about her head; Mrs. John Brown, head cut and shoulder bones crushed; John Brown, a nephew, seriously injured internally; Mrs. Mary Brown, cut about the face and bones broken; Mrs. Herman Strehlo, limb broken; Mrs. Frank Yokel and child, seriously hurt; Mrs. Joe Litza, slightly injured; Mrs. Grey, probably fatally injured.

An empty building on Front street in the town was converted into a temporary hospital and morgue, and there the unfortunate were brought. Heartrending and sickening was the sight which presented itself to the reporter who visited the building. John Brown, an aged man, but day before yesterday the happy father and husband of a beautiful home, lay crushed and lifeless in an outer room. While still alive he was brought to the lake by the train men, dying at 11 o'clock that night in terrible pain.

John Pieterus, the only son of Frank Pieterus, was the next corpse. A terrible gash on the back of the head, which laid the flesh and skull open to the brain, was the fatal wound. His neck was also broken and his body completely covered with gashes and scars. Mrs. Latusick, the wife of John Latusick and mother of a number of children, who were only saved by her heroic efforts at the cost of her life, lay just beyond. The woman was carried away with the house when the storm struck and was completely buried in the debris. The children she had driven to the cellar, and was about to follow herself when caught by the whirling demon and hurled to instant death.

The last victims of death's doings were not taken to the lake but placed in the house of a neighbor near by. The names could not be learned, but they were the daughters of Albert Merchant, living five miles southeast of Minnesota lake. Beginning at a point in the extreme west of Minnesota lake township and not far distant from the village of Easton the first marks of the cyclone's ravages are on the John Armstrong place. Here a capacious barn was blown from its foundation and demolished. At a neighboring farm the house, barn and granary were carried from their foundation and smashed into kindling wood. Next in the path of the wind was the old Quinby homestead, now tenanted by Mr. Grey. The house was blown away and Mrs. Grey injured. Still keeping an easterly course the cloud of devastation bore down upon the home of John Latusick, killing his wife and demolishing the house, barn and granary.

TWENTY LIVES LOST.

The List of Victims Deceased by the Later Reports.

ST. PAUL, June 17.—As later reports have been received the list of dead from the Southern Minnesota cyclone grows less, the large number being made by duplicated names and repeating of names spelled differently. It now seems that twenty lives have been lost, although this may be increased somewhat by later reports from distant points and by deaths among those injured. The greatest loss was about Wells and Minnesota lake. The list of dead so far as known includes those in neighborhood and a few farther east around Hartland:

John Brown and wife, Hiram Brenner, Mrs. John Latusick, Marland Stinson, Mrs. John Della, a son of John Putros, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Iverson and three children, Alfred Frederick's repatriator, a child of Lichtenberger, Andrew Hanson, two children of Mr. Hebes at the Sawyer farm near Hartland, Thomas Yokel is missing and several other unknown are reported among the dead.

Injured—Maland Stein, wife and child; two children of Albert Kringbiel, body hurt; Charles Melchart's daughter's arm was broken and his son had a leg broken while another daughter was injured internally; Herman Hillen's son was severely injured; Mrs. Henry Melchart, seriously injured; Mr. and Mrs. Lichtenberger and six children; August Hoenes; Chris Christopherson wife and two children; J. H. Hebes and wife.

Miss O'Hara and sixteen pupils at Silver Thorn school near Sherburne were badly injured and it is feared several may die.

A RIOT IN SPAIN.

Men Displeased With a Bull Fight Raised a Disturbance.

MADRID, June 17.—A riotous demonstration was made yesterday by a crowd that attended a bull fight at Linares, in the province of Jaon. The spectators were not satisfied with the way the fight was conducted and demanded that more horses be put in the ring. The mayor refused and the crowd thereupon pelted him and the bull fighters with bottles, sticks and dirt.

The bull fighters hastily left the ring, which was immediately invaded by the crowd. The bull objected to the invasion and charged directly into the middle of the mob. Men were caught up on his horns and tossed in every direction. The bull again and again charged them, tossing and dangerously injuring some of them. One man was killed. The mayor fled from the bull ring, pursued by the rioters, and barely escaped.

DEUL TO THE DEATH.

Two Young Men Fight With Butcher Knives and Both Are Killed.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 17.—Another violent outbreak is reported from Zaney county. Dispatches from Forsythe say that John Nettleton and Richard Meyers, young men, fought a duel to the death with knives near the town of Pretem in the northern part of the county. The row was a result of the murder of Sheriff Williams several months ago, Meyers saying publicly that all connected with the mob ought to be lynched. Nettleton's people were connected with the affair and Meyers was promptly challenged. The young men fought with butcher knives, both dying in half an hour from the loss of blood. Each had at least thirty cuts, most of which were fatal, without further injury.

THE CALL IS ISSUED.

The Alliance State Convention to be Held July 7.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 17.—The official call for the Alliance state convention was given out today. The convention will be called to order at the capitol in St. Paul at 1 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, July 7, and will place in nomination a full state ticket, "including the nomination of lawful presidential electors and candidates for congress, the latter of which are to be nominated in separate conventions consisting only of delegates elected to this convention from counties situated in each respective congressional district."

All voters who sustain the platform of 1890 or who voted for S. M. Owen are invited to meet at their respective county seats at 1 o'clock July 2, to select delegates. Each county will be entitled to use automatic brakes at large and to one delegate for each 500 votes cast for S. M. Owen, and one delegate for each fraction of 200. This gives a convention of 286 delegates.

Another Stage Robbed.

HELENA, Mont., June 17.—News has just been received here that the stage between Junction, in the Crow reservation and Musselshell, in Yellowstone county was held up yesterday. No information is vouchsafed as to what is taken. No doubt it was the work of the same gang that stopped the Great Falls and Billings stage on June 2 and 3.

Automatic Brakes.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce ordered to be favorably reported a bill requiring all railroads to use automatic brakes and couplers. It is reported as a substitute for all measures of the kind referred to the committee.

Deaths from Heat.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Six deaths were caused by heat prostration here today. At 9 o'clock this morning the thermometer stood 86 degrees and at noon 83.

IT MAY BE GORMAN

The Maryland Statesman Looming up as a Stroung Dark Horse at Chicago.

Report That the Galleries of the Convention Will be Packed for Him.

Senator Brice Says That Hill Can Not be Considered Under Any Circumstances.

CHICAGO, June 17.—The quarrel between the New York factions of the Democrats, brought about by Delegate Murphy's denunciation of Cleveland as a Mugwump and Fairchild's reply thereto, is hailed with delight by the supporters of presidential dark horses here. They all reiterate that New York must get out of the way and allow some man to be nominated who does not have a factional fight on his hands in his own state. The Boies men in particular are especially active. Senator Shields declares the Iowa man will go to the convention with 100 votes, and that letters and telegrams have been received pledging enough votes on the second ballot to nearly land him a winner. The bulk of the Iowa delegation, with a couple of thousand Boies whoop-ers, are expected to arrive in town tonight and make things lively. The boom for Governor Gray of Indiana is not making much noise yet, but it has some very shrewd workers back of it. It is noticeable, however, that there is more talk of Gray for second place than for first. As for Gorman, the practical men give warning that he is more to be feared than any of the other minor candidates. It is asserted that arrangements have been made with the local Democratic leaders to pack the convention hall in his interest, and there are all sorts of a landslide at the proper time. One thing certain is that there is a long fight ahead the outcome of which cannot be predicted at this time.

IT CANNOT BE HILL.

Senator Brice Opposed to Hill Under Any Circumstances.

CHICAGO, June 17.—"I have no hesitation in saying that the nomination of Senator Hill is altogether out of the question," Senator Brice, of Ohio, is quoted today as saying. "It is not to be considered under any circumstances. A prejudice against Senator Hill exists among our people west of the Allegheny mountains which I fear would render his election impossible."

"Then the field will be open to the favorite son candidates?"

"The proper candidate for this convention is to select? But it will not be necessary for us to cross this bridge until we come to it. The question of Cleveland's candidacy must first be definitely settled."

"Mr. Cleveland is dropped, which of the other candidates do you favor?"

"It is yet too early to say. Ex-Governor Campbell of my own state has many friends not only within, but outside of Ohio. The candidacy of Governor Boies of Iowa, is also a very strong one. But Mr. Cleveland must be definitely laid aside before we pass to the consideration of others."

BOIES WOULD BE PREFERABLE.

Ex-Governor Hauser, of Montana, Gives Boies a Boom.

NEW YORK, June 17.—A number of delegates from the far West to the Democratic national convention are in this city, evidently with a view to study the situation in New York state before making up their minds who to support as a presidential candidate. Ex-Governor Hauser, of Montana, speaking of the feeling in his section, said:

"The people in my section naturally favor a candidate who is regarded as favorable to silver. However, we are willing to subordinate everything to the most important question of selecting a man who can win. Aside from his views on silver Mr. Cleveland is highly regarded by all Democrats and would receive loyal support from Montana Democrats if nominated. However the great opposition which either Cleveland or Hill would doubtless get in their own state is a serious obstacle to the selection of either, I am afraid, and it would probably be wiser to select a candidate from the West."

"Who, for instance?" "Well, Boies, for instance. He would not veto a free-coinage bill. He was elected on a free silver platform and would receive the hearty support of the silver states."

T. J. O'Donnell, delegate-at-large from Colorado, leaves for Chicago tomorrow morning on the Pennsylvania limited. He was asked how many silver states would cast their votes in the convention hall for Cleveland. His answer was: "As the Irishman said, 'I'vey wan of them, but wan, and that wan is nary a wan.'"

Both Were Drowned.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 17.—Frank Weston and George Murray, aged six and eight respectively, quarreled on a boom at the foot of Mason street yesterday. Frank tried to push George into the river and both fell in and were drowned.

Palacio Resigned.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The department of state was this morning advised by cable from the United States legation of Caracas of the resignation of the president of Venezuela. The situation remains quiet, little or no excitement prevailing.

THE BOOM EDITOR

Hon. M. M. Murdock, of the Wichita Eagle, Talked of for Governor of Kansas.

Said to Have Been the Original "Boom" Editor of the United States.

The Stolen Engine That Figured in the Andrews Raid Has Been Reconstructed.

Hon. M. M. Murdock, of Wichita, Kan., whose name has been suggested in connection with the Republican gubernatorial nomination, is said by his friends to have been the original "boom" editor of the United States.

M. M. MURDOCK.

Mr. Murdock is at present the editor of the Wichita Eagle, which is a very flourishing journal. He is a native of Virginia, but he, like many another young man, took the advice which Horace Greeley had not then given and went west.

Then it was that Mr. Murdock's ability as a "boomer" was first manifested. Every issue of The Eagle fairly bristled with adjectives descriptive of Wichita's coming greatness.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.

The Engine That Figured in the Andrews Raid Has Been Reconstructed. Of the many relics of the civil war to be seen at the Chicago World's fair few will excite more pathetic interest than the famous "General," the engine with which James J. Andrews and his squad of Federal scouts made their wonderful run on April 12, 1862.

THE GENERAL.

The engine was turned out from the Rogers works in 1854, and continued in active service till late in 1890, when it was laid aside. After it had stood in all weathers for eighteen months, the proposition to refit and take it to the World's fair excited general enthusiasm at Atlanta.

Mr. Jeff Cain, the engineer from whom the engine was stolen, as it were, still lives in Atlanta, and so do Captain Fuller, the conductor, and Mr. Anthony Murphy, the roadmaster, who joined in the pursuit.

A Horse Lover.

"Hawkins is very fond of his horse, isn't he?" "Why, no; he hates him."

HE HAD ENOUGH.

He Said "Out" to Everything, but It Cured Him.

"There is no use of talking," said the white-haired man as he smoked his cigar after dinner in an up town restaurant.

"Well, as I say, after I supposed that the job was finished the barber kept saying something to me occasionally, and I kept answering 'out' for ten or fifteen minutes.

The condition of affairs flashed across me and I realized that I was paying for all the fresh bottles of perfume which the barber had opened, but I didn't say a word.

The House Well Protected.

A West Fifty-second street man retired from business a few weeks ago, and after summoning a maiden sister from Connecticut to keep house for his bachelor son, departed with his wife on a pleasure trip across the continent.

"It is scandalous," indignantly remarked the proprietor of the house, "to leave this big house unprotected, or what is the same thing, in charge of one lone woman. I shall call up Margaret in the morning and warn her."

"You know, William," suggested the Connecticut relative mildly, "that these are your mother's servants, and they are not accustomed to have you interfere."

"Nonsense!" rejoined the other briefly, and in the morning the maid was summoned.

"Margaret, I believe you were out last evening, when you should have stayed at home," remarked the dignified proprietor.

"An that I was, Mr. William. I wouldn't have went out, nor, only me cousin in next sailin' for Ireland on the Germanic next Wednesday, and me mother's brother, over on the east side, gave him a farewell party."

"You left the cook alone, Margaret." "Sor?" asked the girl, looking surprised.

"You left the cook alone, I say, and burglers might have entered the house. One woman alone on the fourth floor and in bed, too, was no protection at all, and, in fact, I am surprised she was willing to stay alone."

"Devil a bit was she in bed, sor," answered the maid, apparently scandalized.

"Well, she was alone anyway." "Noralone, nayther, sir; sure and Mrs. Mulcahy pours out for her friends on Friday evenings in April and May, and there was five called last evening, an it's a bould burglar that 'ud break into a house full of gentlemen, and tree of 'em in driss suits at that."—Chicago Tribune.

Out of the Race. Mr. Standardoil—Is it my daughter you want or is it her money?

Tobias Howens (amateur champion, hundred yards).—Mr. Standardoil, you surprise me. You know very well that I'm an amateur athlete.

Mr. Standardoil—What's that got to do with it? Tobias Howens—A great deal, sir. It debars me from taking part in any event for money.—London Tit-Bits.

Gave It Up. "So you have tramped all the way from New York?" "Yes, sir."

"Couldn't you get employment there?" "No, I came pretty near havin' a place in a Bowery restaurant."

"What prevented you?" "I couldn't learn the language."—Washington Star.

A Shining Example. Judge (who is baldheaded)—If half what the witnesses testify against you is true, your conscience must be as black as your hair.

Prisoner—If a man's conscience is regulated by his hair, then your honor hasn't got any conscience at all.—Pick-Me-Up.

This Explains It. Rivers—This new comet, it seems, has eight tails. What use has a comet for eight tails? Banks—Perhaps it was fly time when it started out.—Chicago Tribune.

Food for Reflection.

Mamma—For pity's sake, Rarus, what have you been doing now? Little Rarus—Boo hoo! I have been eating some thistles and they h-b-hurt. Mamma—Well, you did make an ass of yourself.—Life.

CUT DOWN YOUR SHOE BILL

Attention, Mothers and Fathers! Why not have your Shoes and Kid Gloves as well as those of your Children looking like new continually? Why have them looking worn and rough when you can avoid it?

To do this you have only to oil them once a month with Tanner's Oil. Tanner's Oil does not injure but benefits the leather. It is now prepared by us for family uses. It prevents leather getting hard and from cracking, keeps it looking fresh and smooth, makes it soft and pliable and absolutely water-proof.

Best of all—Shoes and Gloves kept thusly in good condition will outwear three pair worn ordinarily. One box should last a family of three one year. On ladies' and children's wear you should use it instead of Blacking. Gentlemen can shine their shoes after using it equally as well as before.

All we desire is to have you give it a trial. Shoe Dealers, Glovers, and those Dry Goods merchants who sell Kid Gloves should have it on hand to furnish up their stock that has become shopworn. It will give it an absolutely new appearance. Your youngest apprentice can apply it. Price by mail 40 cents. Special price to Dealers.

EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior:—Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw by the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Dr. Speer. He, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself.

He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Everything he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulted would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the back and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I look upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased to give any further information to anyone calling upon me.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

All but one of the forty-two cities in the United States with a population of from 50,000 to 200,000 have electric railways in use.

Experiments are being carried on in London with alternating currents of 200,000 volts, which are capable of developing fifty horse power from the transformers.

An electro-bleaching process is in use whereby the same solution becomes over and over again a powerful bleaching agent through the passage of an electric current through it.

The electric motor is now applied to polishing silk hats. The hat is fastened to a shaper fixed upon the shaft of a motor. As the latter revolves a brush is applied to the hat, which is thus quickly polished.

Are lamps run by continuous currents require no reflectors, while those run by the alternating currents do. The reason is that with continuous currents the upper carbon forms a crater which reflects the light, while in the alternating currents both carbons become pointed and throw the light in all directions.

The electrical reciprocating principle has been applied to a stone carving tool invented by W. P. Carstaphen, of Colorado. With this tool the carver or sculptor, instead of giving a portion of his attention to striking his chisel, can devote his entire time to the lines which he is following, thus producing more accurate and rapid work.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN. June 17.—Rain is falling at one place only in the country this morning, St. Paul, elsewhere generally clear weather prevails, although light showers have fallen at scattered places all over the country.

The temperature is high over the Ohio valley ranging in the 80's. The coldest part of the country is along the Missouri river between Pierre and Bismarck, Dak. Warm weather is making its appearance over the Northwest, and an area of low pressure there forebodes a slight depression in the barometer is central over Northern Iowa, being cloudy, followed by a maximum high pressure, now over Nebraska.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 67°, the lowest last night 45°.

DULUTH, June 17.—Local forecast for Duluth until 8 p. m., June 18: Generally fair; slightly warmer, fresh northeast winds.

B. H. BOBSON, Observer.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Forecast till 8 p. m. Saturday: For North Dakota: Generally warmer, fair weather; winds shifting to southerly. For Minnesota: Saturday generally fair and warmer; variable winds.

THE SATURDAY HERALD.

Again the Saturday edition of The Herald will consist of twelve pages to-morrow, and as usual they will be filled to overflowing with interesting and bright reading matter. Among the many special features of this great issue, which will go into more than 6000 homes at the head of Lake Superior, may be mentioned the following:

Bill Nye's Letter—Bill loves the country but thinks as a sleeping place it might be improved upon. This article is in the favorite humorist's best vein and is illustrated.

Algebraic Politics—The Third Party an unknown quantity. The men who will figure prominently at the Omaha convention, with illustrations.

Who Wrote Them?—Two recent attempts to solve the question of the authorship of the works attributed to Shakespeare.

At The Theaters—Coming attractions for the amusement of Duluth people. Gossip of the stage. Illustrated.

Costly Cosmetics—The confession of a cosmetic manufacturer in regard to "Bloom of Youth" and other balms. Mothers and daughters will find this a bright and interesting article. The latest Parisian fashions will be described, with illustrations of rare toilets.

The Secret Societies—In addition to late news about various secret societies will appear an illustrated sketch of E. Southworth of Shakopee, the newly elected grand master workman, A. O. U. W., of Minnesota.

The Democratic convention at Chicago will provide material for much interesting political gossip.

The recent decision of Secretary Noble in the section 30 case in regard to the Warren-Porterfield scrip has aroused much interest among land attorneys as it deals fully with the assignability of scrip. The decision will be given in full in the Saturday Herald.

The doings of fashionable people will be faithfully chronicled, and many other bright features will be supplemented by all the news of the day.

WHY NOT RETALIATE?

Is it not about time that President Harrison or the headless state department took more decisive action in regard to the Welland and St. Lawrence canals toll question? The gross discrimination which is being exercised by the Canadian government should be stopped. As it is a violation of treaty obligations, the Canadian officials should be made to respect these obligations. Although representations of the facts have been made to the Canadian government, protests and equivocation have been the only answers. Why not try a little retaliation? If the Sault canal were closed to Canadian vessels, except on payment of tolls, the Canadian government would speedily recede from its untenable position in regard to the Welland and St. Lawrence canals.

For the benefit of those who do not understand the Welland and St. Lawrence question, it may be well to explain it. Nominally the tolls are the same for vessels owned in this country that they are for vessels owned in Canada. The assessment is 20 cents a ton on each vessel of both nations, and it is said to be impartially collected. The owners of the American vessels, however, making the transfer from Lake Erie to Lake Ontario, find that they are met by a serious disadvantage. This is in violation of the treaty agreement with Great Britain in 1871, in which that government agreed to use its influence with Canada to prevent discrimination in canal tolls, and the United States agreed to use its influence with states owning canals to prevent discrimination against Canadian shipping. This clause of the treaty was carried into effect on the face of the returns by both nations.

But Canada in effect repudiates its part of the agreement by giving to shipping by way of Montreal a rebate on its tolls, while a full rate is exacted from vessels destined to American ports on Lake Ontario, where their cargoes are transhipped to reach the seaboard by New York or Boston. The effect is the same as if the tolls were greater for American than for Canadian vessels. If the Canadian officials refuse to adjust this matter at once, President Harrison has it in his power to subject Canadian vessels to retaliatory tolls at the Sault, which would quickly produce the desired result.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

"The Democratic editor divided space with the Republican editor of the Herald last evening. Thus are the two masters served." This is one of the preternaturally funny remarks which now and anon flash from the brilliant intellect of the genius who presides over the vapid News, the enunch of Duluth journalism. Desitute of the ability to express an idea in intelligible English, and equally incapable of creating an idea of his own, the vested proprietor throws out such ponderous witticisms with the impression that he is a second Bill Nye. But in this he is mistaken. It is merely another case of what the vulgar call "wheels."

Judging from the fact that grain receipts from Chicago for May are only three-fourths of what they were a year ago, the Boston Traveller concludes that "the farmers are evidently holding on to their grain in hopes of higher prices because the crop indications are poor." The Traveller is behind the times. Duluth, and not Chicago, is now the great primary wheat market of the world, and here receipts show a large and steady increase daily.

Somehow or other President Harrison's renomination do not seem to please the British newspapers. As they express delight over Mr. Blaine's defeat and are not sorry that Mr. McKinley was not selected, it is difficult to see how the Republicans could have pleased them. Perhaps they will be better suited with the choice at Chicago next week.

The Boston Traveller approvingly remarks that "there were large crowds of people at Crescent Beach on Sunday, and there was no drunkenness." And yet the Traveller is one of the journals that demand that the World's Fair be closed on Sunday and it deems itself consistent.

The Democrats have lost the seat in congress recently vacated by Mr. Mills' translation to the senate. When Texas goes back on the Democracy, there must be something radically wrong. The third party may cause some big political surprises in November.

A woman in Iowa wants a divorce from her husband because he refused to kiss her and killed her pet cat. The husband says he refused to kiss her because she kissed the cat. If this be true, it is the husband that deserves the divorce.

There is a report today that David B. Hill has made a deal by which he will secure twenty or more votes from the Michigan delegation. David B. is evidently closing up all the holes in his fences.

The only paper at the head of Lake Superior that printed complete details of the Minneapolis convention was The Herald. Equally good service will be given next week in connection with the Chicago convention.

Pure water can now be purchased in Chicago for 10 cents a gallon. This is 1 cent cheaper than beer costs, when purchased by the barrel. Few Chicagoans, however, will consider the cent worth saving.

The New York Advertiser (Democratic) says: "We do not believe that either Cleveland or Hill can carry New York state as against Harrison."

Sarah Bernhardt is credited with the remark that Delsartism is a cold-blooded struggle for effect. Sarah must be given credit for uttering one truth.

"The Big Four" of New York state has been reduced by recent events to "The Big One," and that one is Dr. Chauncey Mitchell Dewey.

The prospects for the Torrey bankruptcy bill being passed by the present congress are poor, and this to be regretted.

The same question will arise at Chicago as at Minneapolis—will the bosses or the plain voter win?

Mr. Cleveland was "the logical candidate" last week. But things are different now.

Lumbermen Take Notice. ULSTER PROTESTS

A Great Convention Held Today to Protest Against Home Rule for Ireland.

Large Crowds Attend the Gathering, at Which the Duke of Abercorn Presided.

A Great Danger Was Claimed to Threaten Their Civil and Religious Liberties.

BELFAST, June 17.—The great Ulster convention to protest against home rule for Ireland met here today, many thousands being in attendance. The duke of Abercorn presided. The convention opened at noon with prayer by the Most Rev. Robert Knox, the Protestant archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland, who offered up an earnest supplication for the success of the convention. The audience then joined in singing the forty-sixth Psalm.

The duke of Abercorn announced that he had received over 100 messages of sympathy, coming from all over the world. One was from the grand Orange lodge of Massachusetts. The duke, in his opening address, declared that the loyalists of Ulster were actuated by love for their country, of their families, their home and their religion. They were determined to live and die in a portion of the queen's empire. A great danger threatened their civil and religious liberties, and they intended to show that the name of Ulster was not a sham with great reality. The speaker disclaimed any idea of holding out a threat.

DISASTROUS CLOUD-BURST.

A Severe Storm in Pennsylvania Causes Loss of Life. SCRANTON, Pa., June 17.—A cloud-burst inundated the streets of this city last night. The flats on the South side are covered, and the water has risen to the second story of hundreds of houses. Fears are felt for the safety of Dunning's dam. Lightning, which was incessant for five hours, struck six houses within the city limits, killing three persons and stunning several more. The trolley wires are down all over the city and travel by street cars has been suspended. There are reports of loss of life in the flats in the southern part of the city. Reports of wide-spread damage in Lackawanna and Luzerne counties are coming in. Washouts have occurred on the Delaware and Hudson tracks.

MORE VOTES FOR HILL.

It is Said There Will be Twenty From Michigan. DETROIT, Mich., June 17.—All is not harmony in the Michigan Democratic delegation to the Chicago convention, in spite of the able dictatorship of Don M. Dickinson. William T. Baker, one of the delegates, who is a Hill man and a leading local Democrat, said last night that a deal had just been made by which at least two of the Michigan delegates would be solid for Hill on the first ballot.

A conference of Hill leaders was held here yesterday afternoon. Thomson, representing Hill, had to deal with the men from the state who are anxious to know how they will be treated by Hill in case they vote for him. The control of the state and county committees was fully offered them, with a guarantee that Detroit Democrats should not interfere with them. It is said that the deal was satisfactorily made and that Stewart, who is a leader of the opposition, being an enemy of Hill, will be twenty Hill votes on the first ballot and possibly more.

WRECKED COMPLETELY.

A Hurricane Drops Down on a Farm in Iowa. WATERLOO, Ia., June 17.—A disastrous hurricane, passed through the northern portion of this county yesterday afternoon. The storm dropped down on the farm owned by Gen. L. E. Fuller, of Belvidere, Ill., twelve miles north of here, completely wrecking almost everything on the place.

Five large barns are totally destroyed and the houses somewhat damaged. As far as heard from no lives were lost there. The loss at this place and others will be fully $35,000.

FOUR ITALIANS LYNNCHED.

The Brutal Murder of a Foreman Quickly Avenged. SEDRO, Wash., June 17.—A report of the brutal murder of a foreman at the Smith Brother's camp by four Italians, followed by the lynching of the murderers, was brought here last evening. John A. Nelson was the victim. The white men at the camp, numbering about sixty, became so enraged that they seized the Italians and lynched them.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Amorita" Tonight. The Miller-Calhoun Opera company had another large audience last night at the Lyceum and caught the crowd as surely and effectually as on the other two evenings. It was intended to produce "Boccaccio" this evening but the company finds that the orchestra was left at Montreal by mistake and this opera cannot be put on until next week. "Amorita" has been substituted and is fully as pretty an opera, indeed the company regard it as one of the best in their repertoire. The Misses Warner have a charming dance in this and have a far better opportunity to appear to advantage than in "Said Pash."

Gus Williams Tomorrow. Duluth will witness the appearance at the Temple tomorrow evening of the inimitable German dialect comedian, Gus Williams, in his home comedy, "Kepler's Fortunes." With the death of George S. Knight, the race of legitimate German dialect comedians narrows down to one and that is genial Gus Williams, the people's favorite. Mr. Williams has a number of new songs to sing and other members of the caste will interject some clever specialties.

WHEN SUMMER COMES.

Why June is a Month When the Nerves Are Too Often Shaky. There is a trouble which comes to most people at this season of the year. It is the result of the change from winter to summer which causes a tired and unstrung condition.

The nerves are shaky, the muscles relaxed and the head is not clear. It has been a popular error to suppose that this is due to a disordered condition of the blood. It is not. It is the result of a bad state of the nerves and of the brain. A very warm day comes, and the languid feeling shows how nervous, how really weak we are.

We must do something if we do not wish to become sick. We must build up the nerves, feed the brain and put ourselves in a proper condition. No ordinary help, no everyday concoction, sarsaparilla or blood purifier will restore the strength. Something scientific, something pure and powerful and at the same time harmless, is an absolute necessity. There is but one thing known to medical science that answers these conditions, and that is Paine's celery compound. It has toned up more nerves, built up more strength and established more health than any other medicine.

The Herald could name scores of well known men and women, not only in Duluth, but in other places, who have felt worn, weak and weary, but who are now strong and well, solely by the use of Paine's celery compound. This remedy is a physician's prescription, is a pure food for the brain and nerves, cures sleeplessness, headaches and all disorders of the nervous system and purifies the blood in a rational and scientific manner.

JUDGE SEARLE TALKS.

He Has Something to Say of His Congressional Candidacy. Judge Searle of St. Cloud arrived in this city last evening and will be here until tonight. A Herald reporter asked him as to his prospects for securing the congressional nomination and he said:

"I make no claims and know but very little about the political situation in this district. I have made no canvass for the nomination and shall not do so. I consented to become a candidate at the urgent solicitation of my friends in several of the southern counties of the district, telling them at the same time that I would not enter into a fight for the nomination but that I would accept if nominated. If the party sees fit to nominate me I will then make the canvass and if elected try my utmost to represent the district and its varied interests.

"There are many men in the district who would, if elected, represent it with ability, and if the party should select Mr. Kendall, or any other good man, it will be perfectly satisfactory to me. I shake fully that the principal work required of a congressman from this district is for Duluth and its interests, but whatever benefits this city benefits to some extent, the district benefits.

This city is sure, in my opinion, as I have many times said, to be one of the greatest cities in the Northwest, and the congressional legislation which she will need will be far-reaching and of great importance. There are many in this city more familiar with these matters than I am, but if I should be so unfortunate as to be elected I shall endeavor to post myself fully in the work required and do all that I possibly can for the interests of Duluth as well as the entire district.

The iron industries recently developed, in which I am quite largely and directly interested, are of the greatest importance and business in this city, and will eventually, if properly managed, make Duluth one of the greatest manufacturing cities in the United States.

Our fine agricultural counties in the southern and western part of the district fully sympathize with Duluth in her ambition and feeling of importance, for whatever will benefit this city, will give us a better market for our farm products."

ATTORNEY BILLSON CHOSEN.

He Will Represent Duluth at the Rate Investigation. W. W. Billson has been selected by the committee from the different commercial bodies to represent the city at the hearing before the interstate commerce commission on the alleged discrimination in wheat rates of railroads against Minneapolis and in favor of Duluth. The choice is an eminently satisfactory one. The hearing will be taken on July 7.

A DELUGE OF WATER.

Much Property at Spring Valley, S. D., Damaged by a Cloud-Burst. SPRING VALLEY, S. D., June 17.—Thus far in its history this city has escaped the dire calamities which have visited portions of the country, but Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock a deluge of water came down. The little stream which divides the city rapidly rose and reached out beyond its banks, flooding many acres. Houses, buildings, bridges, all went down the stream. Still the water came up and alarms were given from steam whistles, and in the drenching rain citizens worked to the rescue of people on the flats.

So quickly was the response that the residents were all rescued except one, Mrs. McLaughlin, who was not taken out of her house till the building struck the iron bridge below. Horses, cattle, machinery and carriages were swept upon the flats, where they lie half buried in the sand and rubbish. The cloudburst was so sudden, the blackness so intense and the lightning so sharp and rapid that people were paralyzed. The Milwaukee railroad suffers severely and several days will elapse before trains can reach here from either direction. King & Hale, Shinton & Hande and W. J. Hughes are among the heaviest losers.

Mrs. George Taylor's fancy goods store was flooded and lies tipped up near the Milwaukee depot. Lightning struck the large brick High school building. The surrounding country is flocking to the scene of the wrecked buildings, and an army of workmen are at work clearing away the wreck and making the streets passable. At this writing the water is rapidly going down.

THE HARDY SCHOOL

The First Graduates, Two in Number Received Their Diplomas Last Night.

Excellent Lecture on "The Evolution of Woman," by Dr. S. G. Smith, of St. Paul.

He Astonishes the Young Ladies by Some Excellent, but Unusual Advice.

The Hardy school, which, by the way, is one of the most commendable educational institutions in the state and is a credit to the city of Duluth, graduated its first class, numbering two, last evening, and the large gathering of refinement and culture testified amply to the interest which the people of Duluth take in the school.

The school last evening had more the appearance of a luxurious home on the evening of a brilliant reception than of a boarding school. The spacious halls and handsome parlors were beautifully decorated with evergreens, hothouse and wild flowers.

The school hall in which the graduating exercises were held was beautifully ornamented with evergreen and the large audience filled it to the doors. The graduates, Miss Sue Wagner of Eau Claire and Miss Mary Shannon of Duluth, entered the room first followed by the other scholars of the school.

Dr. S. G. Smith, of St. Paul, was then introduced. Judge Morris did not comprehend exactly how Dr. Smith would have "The Evolution of Woman" which was his subject.

Dr. Smith then came forward and explained. His address was decidedly bright and entertaining being filled with sallies of pleasing wit but nevertheless evincing the deepest and most advanced thought. He commented by saying that he almost believed that in selecting his subject, "The Evolution of Woman," he had undertaken a foolhardy performance.

Dr. Smith then came forward and explained. His address was decidedly bright and entertaining being filled with sallies of pleasing wit but nevertheless evincing the deepest and most advanced thought. He commented by saying that he almost believed that in selecting his subject, "The Evolution of Woman," he had undertaken a foolhardy performance.

In the evolution of woman as in the evolution of man, he said the forces of nature have had much to do. While nature has given strength to man, to woman it has given sensitiveness. She it is who is most sensitive to the elements, to fear and to everything in fact.

The relation of woman to social work is as the relation of a radiant queen to her subjects. No man stands any chance in a drawing room unless accorded it by woman. She is the proper queen of the social circle; it is her home and she reigns there. She deals with the lighter side of life. It is all right for you men to talk of your clubs but there would be none if there wasn't a certain amount of barbarism left in him, and when the more have clubs than the women would go about in a helmet and coat of mail today.

What about woman in politics? The advent of woman in politics heretofore has not been altogether serene and idyllic. It is true that Marie Antoinette would have made a better queen than the next monarch who reigned but there was also a Charlotte Corday in politics. She entered the studio of Marat and stabbed him in the back. This is woman taking part in politics but it is not serene, poetical or idyllic.

Dr. Smith then discussed woman and the trades and combated the idea that women ought to be as well paid as men. In this age of progression in mechanism he looked forward to the time when man can do all the work and really only have enough to do to give himself good exercise. The business of life is to develop womanhood. The single woman is a mistake and the single man, except for reasons of health, is a criminal.

The speaker also discussed women in religion, and maintained that she is appointed to most by it, but because man is not it not because of any weakness in it. He then took up the subject of woman and education and said that he had always considered the location of a school as an ideal place for a school. There is the freedom of nature and yet all the influences of civilization are combined with it. Women, he said, are to be educated in class in times to come. This is not a prophesy but a promise. Woman has the time. Why, if you business men had as much time on your hands as the average woman you would nearly all become rogues and scoundrels, and it is one of the proofs of the divinity of woman that she can stand so much leisure and not get spoiled.

The time is coming when only an occasional boy will study the classics. Man must study the mechanics; the ideal side of life belongs to woman. "My philosophy," said Dr. Smith, "gives the highest range for education to woman. In the past man has had the leadership, but gentlemen, look to your laurels. An age of inactivity is to be borne on the world, he said; the time will come when such a development will be reached that the intuitions will be cultivated beyond anything ever known. He closed his lecture by an appeal for the joining of each may influence the others. Dr. Smith then turned to the graduates and rather upset their dignity and that of the audience also by saying: "Young ladies, my greatest wish for each of you is that, ten years from now you may fall in love with some good man and marry him. It is the best thing that could happen to you and to him. I wish you all that happiness ten years hence."

After Dr. Smith's address Page Morris came forward with one of his good-natured smiles and set the audience in a roar by remarking that it had taken Dr. Smith an hour and a half to reach the same conclusion that he had before he began. Miss Haire in a few words then presented the young ladies with their diplomas. Mr. Lammers sang a rousing song and Dr. Salter pronounced the benediction.

A reception was then held in the parlors, Misses Hardy and Haire receiving the large number of guests. Tea, cream and cake was served and a dance for the young people closed a delightful evening's entertainment.

NOW IN CHIHUAHUA

The Interesting Story of the Strange Disappearance of a Minnesota Man.

The Mystery of Claire Husted, of Brainerd and Staples, Now Partly Solved.

He and His Wife the Life of an American Colony in a Mexican Town.

Three years ago Claire Husted was a telegraph operator on the Northern Pacific road at Staples, in this state. He came from the South, wooed and won a Brainerd girl, lived happily with her for six months and then suddenly disappeared. Every effort was made to locate him, but in vain. He was hidden as effectively as if the earth had opened and swallowed him. But his whereabouts have come to light through the chance meeting of a Mexican visitor to the Minneapolis convention last week with an official of the Northern Pacific road, Senator Jacques Vasquez Romero, of Chihuahua, Mexico, was the guest of a much-traveled family of the South Side. He was the charm of a small social circle while in the city. During his visit he made the acquaintance of a Northern Pacific railroad man and the resultant conversation cleared up in part the mystery of Claire Husted's disappearance. Speaking of his native city, Senator Romero said: "The American colony of Chihuahua contains a couple from Minnesota that are called the turtle doves, because of their happy life together. The man is a handsome, dark-eyed fellow of about 30, a self-made man, and a railroad man and a telegrapher. The lady is a slight, wiry blonde. They are completely wrapped up in each other and are inseparable companions. Claire and her husband are much sought after."

"Claire Husted," interrupted the railroad man, "why, he was the telegrapher on the Northern Pacific road who so suddenly disappeared a short time ago." A comparison of notes and dates and a little further inquiry brought out many of the facts in the case, and they are, as far as ascertainable, given below. Claire Husted was born in Alabama. He had brilliant prospects there, but a terrible shadow fell over his life and he fled to the North, went into railroading, and before long he was in charge of an operating department of the Northern Pacific road. He served and was well known at all the chief points on the Northern Pacific in Minnesota. The lady he won for a wife was the daughter of a prominent citizen of Brainerd, the manager of the water works. After a short courtship they were married and moved to Staples, the end of the St. Paul division.

Sheriff Murphy of Pierce county, yesterday took Henry Bonner, alias Clark, to Hager City, where he is wanted for sandbagging a man two years ago. Patrolman Andy Gilmore received the $300 reward offered for the capture of Bonner.

Grand Forks to Duluth. The Great Northern Will Build a New and Shorter Lane. Capt. C. H. Jenks, superintendent of the Northern division of the Great Northern railway, when interviewed by a correspondent relative to the removal of the Barnesville shops to Grand Forks, when the Western extension of the road is completed, said: "I am not in a position to give you any definite answer in regard to the matter, but I do not think such a move necessary, when it is the intention of Mr. Hill, I believe, to build a direct line from Grand Forks to Duluth, when large general shops will be erected at both points. This line," said

Mr. Jenks, "will shorten the distance between the Red River valley and the lake port at least 125 miles. This will give Grand Forks the best railroad facilities of any city north of St. Paul and Minneapolis. When the Western extension is completed, which is now being rapidly pushed," said Mr. Jenks further, "Mr. Hill will, in my opinion, pay particular attention to improvements in the valley, and the people living along this system will have no occasion for complaint."

Senator McCormack, of Grand Forks, who was present, remarked that it was his belief that within five years the Great Northern Railroad company will own and operate all elevators along its entire system. This statement was substantiated by the superintendent, who stated that when this state of affairs was brought into being, general satisfaction will surely prevail among the yeomen, as it will do away with a middle man.

BLEE EARTH CITY, June 17.—The civil action for damages in the celebrated Crusen-Lent case has just been decided by a jury, which returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $14,000. A DULUTH CASE DECIDED. The Rights of M. B. North Sustained By Secretary Chandler. WASHINGTON, June 17.—Acting Secretary Chandler yesterday decided a land case that has attracted much attention in Minnesota. Matthew B. North of the Duluth district made a soldier's homestead entry for a tract in township 62, range 14, in 1857. A final certificate was issued and North sold the land for upwards of $5,000 to Alex. M. Morrison and others.

The land commissioner canceled the entry on the ground that North was a member of the Missouri home guards, and not entitled to the benefits of section 2306 R. S. That decision is overruled and the rights of North and the transferees are sustained.

READY TO FUSE. North Dakota Democrats and Alliance Men Unite. FARGO, N. D., June 17.—The Democratic state central committee, which was in session here, adjourned to meet in Valley City, where a conference will be held with the Farmers' Alliance, now in session there, with a view of fixing the terms of fusion of the two parties.

The fact that the Farmers' Alliance did nothing yesterday indicates that the statement is true. If the parties unite, it is said that the Democrats will ask for the congressmen and electors and will support the Alliance state ticket.

A Victim of Leprosy. NORTHFIELD, Minn., June 17.—Ed Alfson, a Norwegian hardware merchant of this city for twenty years, died with old-fashioned leprosy yesterday morning. The corpse was a most horrible sight, the flesh dropping off his body. The Alfsons have all died during the month of June.

JUDGES IN PRISON

The Story of a Great Contest Over Railroad Bonds Which Has Agitated Missouri.

Payment of Bonds Resisted by the People as They Were Obtained by Fraud.

The Judges Refused an Order of the United States Court to Levy a Tax.

It is an honor, not unmixt with discomfort, to be one of the judges of Cass county, Mo. Presiding Judge W. A. Wray and Associate Justices F. M. George and E. T. Lane have learned, probably with considerable regret, that it requires a good deal of determination, coupled with the willingness to become a martyr to public opinion, to enable one to wear the ermine in Cass county to the satisfaction of the citizens. All three of these gentlemen are now, and have been for some time, inmates of the Second Street jail in Kansas City, where they were sent for contempt in having disobeyed the order of the United States court, which required them to levy a tax for the payment of railroad bonds which the people allege had been obtained by fraud and misrepresentation. The levying power is in the judges of the county court, and as the citizens, without regard to political affiliations, had requested their representatives on the bench to ignore the order of the United States court it was disregarded, with the result that Cass county is now practically without judges.

The story of the issues of bonds which led up to the present complication is an exceptionally interesting one, not entirely devoid of tragic features, for at least three deaths are directly traceable to the gullibility of Missouri counties in swallowing the alluring bait thrown out by oily tongued railroad promoters. In 1871, the Cass county court issued two sets of bonds for railroad building purposes. The law then did not require a vote of the people, and consequently none was taken. The Kansas City and Clinton branch of the Tebo and Neosho railroad received $300,000, and the Missouri Pacific got a reissue of an old subscription, amounting to something less than a quarter of a million dollars. The latter had not complied with the terms of the original subscription, and the citizens of Cass county were therefore bitterly opposed to the reissue. Threats of repudiating the bonds, and even of offering violence to the judges, were openly made, but no one supposed that they would be carried out. Therefore the news that Presiding Judge Stevenson, Prosecuting Attorney Cline and a man named Dutron, while en route to St. Louis, presumably for the purpose of negotiating the bonds, had been taken from the train and lynched created a sensation amounting to little less than a panic in Harrisonville, the county seat. The courts were appealed to about the bonds in dispute, and as they decided that the issue was void, the Missouri Pacific matter was at an end.

For a long time no trouble was anticipated over the Tebo and Neosho bonds, for the boomers promised everything and won their way thoroughly into the confidence of the people. But when the storm came it was a violent one, and judging from past and present indications it has come to stay for a long time. By the terms of a certain number of the bonds were to be delivered to the Tebo and Neosho promoters as fast as each six miles section of the proposed road was graded. Grading doesn't cost much money, comparatively speaking, and the boomers gushed it forward rapidly, calling for their bonds, in the meantime, with painful regularity and promptness. Everything went along swimmingly, and the Cass county people had got to figuring out the exact day on which the trains would be running on "our new road," when, like a simoon out of a clear sky, came the announcement that the Tebo and Neosho company, having secured all of the promised bonds, had abandoned the work and dissolved itself. Then the trouble began, and it has raged with unabated fury ever since, until it culminated in the incarceration of the three judges. Jackson and Henry counties were also taken in by the Tebo and Neosho boomers, the former for $300,000 and the latter for $300,000. Jackson made the best of a bad bargain and paid up, while Henry, having contested and been defeated in court, compromised by a new issue of bonds on the basis of seventy-five cents on the dollar. The Cass county taxpayers, on the contrary, believing that the final abandonment of the work was a part of a premeditated scheme to bleed them, declared that they would never honor the bonds, and prepared to fight the matter to the bitter end. The case has since been in the courts. At each successive stage Cass county has been beaten, and has appealed from court to court, until finally a decision was rendered from the supreme bench of the United States to the effect that the bonds were negotiable like ordinary commercial paper, and that having passed into the hands of purchasers ignorant of the true state of affairs they must be considered as "innocent third parties," whose rights are unassailable. Cass county, to all intents and purposes, was thrown summarily out of court, and the accompanying order required that provision be made for the payment of the bonds. It was generally supposed that this would end the matter, for had not the highest court in the land so decreed? But the people of Cass are nothing if not determined, and having vowed that they would not redeem the bonds they stuck to their resolution.

JUDGE F. M. GEORGE.

state legislature. As for his successor, and the successor of Judge George on the bench, they will get to Kansas City as the representatives of Cass county in the lower tier of the Second Street jail. And yet each member of the quartet is doubtless anxious for the changes which the winter will bring.

JUDGE E. T. LANE.

that those elected as the successors of Judges Lane and George will be locked as soon as they are inducted into office, there were many candidates, and the successful nominees will make an earnest fight for election. The imprisoned judges are of course not treated like the common herd. They are granted every possible privilege, have their meals served in the kitchen and frequently make a tour of Kansas City, accompanied by Jailor Kennedy. They spend their time principally in reading, playing checkers, telling stories, and receiving visitors. The judges receive for their services five dollars per day when court is in session, and as they were arrested while holding court it is still technically open, and they will therefore be entitled to pay for the time they are incarcerated if they should see fit to demand it. There should be at least a crumb of consolation for them in that fact.

All three of the gentlemen are in the prime of life. Judge Wray is the only lawyer of the trio. Judge Lane is a first class politician, and he is probably the only man who ever conducted a heated and successful campaign from behind prison bars. The judge is a very modest man, but some time ago he came to the conclusion that he would make a good representative for his county in the state legislature. He accordingly announced his candidacy in the home papers. Cass county people take as naturally to politics as a duck does to water, and the campaign was a red hot though friendly one for the Democratic nominations, which are almost equivalent to election. There were several candidates besides Judge Lane for the legislature, and the result was shrouded in doubt until one partisan made the great mistake of opposing the judge on the ground that he was in jail, and therefore no fit representative of the people of Cass county. That settled it. The people felt that any man who was willing to go to jail for them was a safe man to trust, and hundreds who had before favored the other candidates became Lane boomers.

The judge had a typewriter brought into his rather cramped quarters and hammered away incessantly at the keys of the bright new machine, with the result that he turned out an incredible amount of good campaign material in the form of "speeches," which were read by his friends at the meetings, and invariably received with great enthusiasm. Judge Lane almost swamped his opponents with a deluge of ballots, and when he is liberated he will go to Jefferson City as the representative of Cass county in the lower branch of the state legislature. As for his successor, and the successor of Judge George on the bench, they will get to Kansas City as the representatives of Cass county in the lower tier of the Second Street jail. And yet each member of the quartet is doubtless anxious for the changes which the winter will bring.

H. Schumann has commenced the erection of a building to be used for a store and flats, 25 by 60 feet in size. It is to be built on Third street, near Turner hall. Kretz & Tschart are the architects.

A piece of rock fell from the embankment on West First street near Piedmont avenue yesterday and struck a young lad, Willie Denny, on the leg. For a time it was thought that his limb was broken but it was only badly bruised.

The tug Henry F. Brower, Esley Stevens, captain, returned this morning from the south shore with a party of West Enders who had been fishing. The old Catholic church, said to have an age of 200 years, at La Pointe was visited. Not many fish were caught however.

MAY BE ARRESTED

Indictment for Forgery Said to Have Been Found Against Ex-Recorder Norris.

If This Proves True He Must Answer to Forging Lakeside City Orders.

A Number of Criminals Arraigned, All of Whom Enter Pleas of Not Guilty.

Quite a sensation will probably be sprung in the later hours of this afternoon if the report of an indictment being found by the grand jury is true. The city officials of Lakeside were before the grand jury yesterday afternoon testifying as to certain alleged irregularities in the official conduct of Sherman R. Norris, until recently recorder of that place. It is claimed, by those who seem to have some means of knowing, that Mr. Norris has issued a number of fraudulent village or city orders aggregating something in the neighborhood of $400 as far as known.

Some time ago Mr. Norris relinquished his official position and left the city temporarily, directing the postoffice people to forward his mail elsewhere. He has since returned to Duluth or Lakeside and his many friends profess to believe that the matter is simply a clerical error. It will be remembered that Mr. Norris began suit for $5000 against the late Hon. M. B. Harrison, alleging he had an agreement for that amount signed by Mr. Harrison, and that the latter declared that what purported to be his signature was a forgery.

PRISONERS PLEAD.

A Number of Criminals Enter Pleas of Not Guilty.

At the session of the district court before Judge Ensign this morning the first business was bringing up the prisoners against whom indictments had been found, in order to give them an opportunity to plead. They all pleaded not guilty and John Gantner, by his attorney demurred to the indictment. Mike Hanley was charged with burglary in the third degree and grand larceny in the second degree; Walter Hoyt, grand larceny in the second degree; John Hynes, assault in the second degree; John Gunther, attempted rape; George Clark, grand larceny in the second degree. John Gagnon, for mayhem, was arraigned and given one day to plead.

The case of Asher M. Prudden vs. City of Duluth was decided in favor of the plaintiff, who is allowed $200 damages. The case of Culver Bros. vs. Scott & Holston is on trial.

Before Judge Stearns, in the case of Elizabeth Wright vs. the Gas & Water company, the jury was instructed to bring in a verdict for the defendant, whereupon Judge Stearns made a passing remark regarding the usefulness of juries. Case 88 is now on trial. Second papers were ordered to be issued to Andrew Johnson.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Mary Huard was arraigned upon two indictments of grand larceny in the third degree and pleaded not guilty. She is accused of stealing from I. Freimuth's store. Neil Bowie, of Tower, pleaded not guilty to burglary and robbery. Lizzie Carl, indicted for selling liquor without a license, forfeited her bail of $100.

FORECAST FOR JUNE 1. Local forecast till 4 p. m. tomorrow: Generally fair, slight change in temperature.

SOME ARE KICKING.

A Few Cincinnati Stockholders Are Afraid of the Directors.

There is said to be a good deal of dissatisfaction and discord between the Cincinnati Iron company stockholders and directors. The former are afraid that a lease will be made next Monday which will not be to the best interests of the company. They express a fear that the minimum output which will be required will not be as large as it might be and some say that an attempt will be made to have a proposition accepted which will require a minimum output from the whole mine of only 150,000 tons annually. This would seem to be absurd on the face of it but the stockholders say that the directors are all interested in other companies and by holding the minimum down will have a better chance to lease other properties.

Then on the other hand it is said that with a small minimum output, the lessees will not be at the mercy of ore brokers in dull seasons. These are some of the statements which can be heard but as to how much truth there is in them can be better told after next Monday's meeting.

He was shot down while he was talking peacefully on Central avenue with the editor of the Hot Springs News, by a gambler and tough named Dennis, who without even speaking to Wright walked up to him and shot him four times killing him instantly.

Watterson, Gorman and Brice Forces Practically Control the Situation at Chicago.

The Cleveland Enthusiasm Chilled by the Aggressive Attitude of the Other Men.

Hill Delegates to Go Into the Convention With Between 260 and 280 Votes.

Ex-Governor Campbell Will be Permanent Chairman, and W. C. Owens Temporary Chairman.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The political situation begins to assume definite form with the arrival of Democratic leaders from all sections of the country. Despite the professions of confidence made by the Cleveland leaders, it is manifest this morning that the very aggressive attitude assumed by the forces of Hill, Boies, Gray and others has somewhat checked the Cleveland enthusiasm which yesterday threatened to override everything on the first ballot in the convention.

There is a general feeling today that perhaps after all the contest is one which depends upon the ballots rather than upon the enthusiasm of delegates, and that it is not altogether certain that the ex-president will receive the requisite two-thirds on the first ballot. The indications are that Hill will go into the convention with between 260 and 280 votes, and as Boies and Gray will probably each receive the solid support of their respective states, with a possibility of Carlisle having the twenty-six votes of Kentucky on the first ballot. Cleveland may fall somewhat short of the requisite two-thirds on the first ballot.

At the Cleveland headquarters this morning an effort is being made to secure a poll of all the delegations with a view to disproving the assertion that the ex-president cannot be nominated on the first ballot. The anti-Cleveland people are supplementing this assertion with the second one that failure to receive the requisite two-thirds on the first open ballot means a rapid disintegration of the Cleveland following and the ultimate success of some dark horse. It is felt that the Watterson, Gorman and Brice forces practically hold the key to the situation.

CAMPBELL FOR CHAIRMAN.
List of Men Who Will Name the Various Candidates.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Preparatory work for the convention will formally begin today with the action of the committee named by Chairman Brice to suggest temporary officers. It consists of Senators Gorman and Ransom and Henry Watterson. It is expected that W. C. Owens of Kentucky will be selected for temporary chairman, although the name of Adlai C. Stevenson of Illinois, ex-first assistant postmaster general, was suggested last night as a strong probability. There seems to be no opposition to ex-Governor Campbell of Ohio for permanent chairman.

A new combination is suggested this morning, Morrison and Flower, Messrs. Carlisle, Watterson and Jones of the St. Louis Republic are named as godfathers. The suggestion has some force in view of the report that Tammany is looking for a Western man to head the ticket with Governor Flower for second place. But New York's governor, in case this agreement is to be pursued, will not find all smooth sledding. A meeting of Democratic union printers has been called for Sunday afternoon to protest against his nomination for any place on the ticket. The hostility to Mr. Flower is based on his veto of the state printing house bill, which the legislature has passed and which the organized labor of New York has been advocating and demanding for a number of years.

The New Jersey people on the ground profess to have no knowledge of the fact that the name of Senator McPherson, of that state, is to be presented to the convention. Resolutions strongly advocating the nomination of Cleveland and endorsing his administration were passed by the state convention, and according to Oliver Kelly, one of the delegates, both himself and his colleagues regard the resolutions as equivalent to instructions. A caucus of the delegation will be held upon its arrival this afternoon, and at which its course will be definitely decided upon.

The Cleveland people count New Jersey as solid on their side. The names of those who will present to the convention the names of the respective candidates give promise of some bouquets of oratory that will live in history. Mr. Cleveland will be placed in nomination by Governor Russell, of Massachusetts. Congressman Breckenridge, of Kentucky, will be one of the seconders, and Ex-Governor Campbell is also expected to add the weight of his voice on the same side. Senator Hill will be placed in nomination by Burke Cochran, while Hon. John F. Duncombe, the silver-tongued orator of Iowa, will perform a similar service for Governor Boies. According to the present plans of the Marylanders, Senator Gorman's name will not be formally presented, but will be simply voted for when the state is reached on the call of the roll.

The advance-guard of the Wisconsin delegation has put in appearance. Ex-Postmaster General Vilas had been expected to participate in the Whitney-Dickinson conference of last night, but owing to the death of his mother, a few days ago, he will not be in Duluth until tomorrow or Monday morning. The Wisconsin people say that they are for Cleveland first, last and all the time, that he is stronger in that state than he has ever been before, and that he can command the large granger vote in the upper counties that has always heretofore been given to the Republicans. They are just as strongly opposed to Hill, under any and all conditions, as they are favorable to the ex-president.

The sub-committee, charged with the duty of selecting officers for the temporary organization of the convention, met at committee headquarters at noon. There were present, besides the officers of the national committee, Senator Ransom of North Carolina, Senator Gorman of Maryland, Lieut. Governor Sheehan of New York, Henry Watterson of Kentucky, and J. G. Fratcher of Missouri. There were but two names mentioned for the position of temporary chairman, W. C. Owens of Kentucky, and A. E. Stevenson of Illinois. Without the formality of a ballot, Mr. Owens' selection was made unanimous. This does not indicate, it is said, any preference on the part of a majority of the sub-committee for a presidential candidate as both Owens and Stevenson are recognized as Cleveland men. S. P. Shennin, secretary of the national committee, will act as secretary of the temporary organization.

FAIRCHILD'S DEMAND.
He Asks That the Anti-Snappers be Given Convention Tickets.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Chairman Brice of the national committee, this morning received a letter from Charles S. Fairchild, chairman of the Syracuse, N. Y.,

delegation, requesting from him the tickets of admission to the convention allotted to New York state delegates, viz: One ticket for each delegate, one for each alternate and five general admission tickets for each delegate to be distributed by him. The letter was dated June 17, and it is said to have been sent after the conference of Cleveland men at the Richelieu last night. Whether this was the case or not, could not be learned at the Syracuse headquarters.

Mr. Fairchild excused himself on the ground of pressing engagements, and Mr. Monroe, secretary of the delegation, to whom inquirers were referred for information, could not be found. None of the others about the headquarters who were asked with reference to the letter, would make any statement whatever, contenting themselves with saying: "You must see Mr. Fairchild about that." Whenever the letter was sent, it did not reach Chairman Brice until this morning. He merely acknowledged the receipt of the letter, saying to Mr. Fairchild that it would receive the attention usually given to such communications.

It is the understanding that in case the national committee declines to accede to the request of Mr. Fairchild, the case of the Syracuse delegates will be presented to the committee on credentials. Should they fail to establish their right to seats in the convention, a memorial addressed to the chairman of the convention will be presented by a delegate from some other state, thus bringing the matter directly before the convention itself, for settlement.

With a majority of the delegates favorably inclined to the renomination of the ex-president, the Syracuse leaders believe they will have a good chance of being given a place on the roll.

Garfield tea corrects evils of over-eating and restores to health the liver, kidneys and bowels.

DECIDEDLY FOR GORMAN.

A Train Load of Democrats En Route to Chicago.

CRESTLINE, O., June 18.—On the Columbian express, which passed through here this morning on the way to Chicago, were Congressmen Catchings of Massachusetts, Clark of Alabama, Gen. St. Clair, delegate-at-large from West Virginia, ex-Congressman More of Massachusetts, Gen. Chauncey Black of Pennsylvania, president of the Democratic League of Clubs; Hon. Lawrence Gardner of Washington, secretary of the Democratic League of Clubs, and Hon. Frank Stevens of Baltimore. The sentiment of the train was decidedly for Gorman.

The statement was made that Senators Carlisle and Mills were in Chicago, and had declared that Cleveland was unavailable as a candidate at this time, in view of the dissensions in New York state, and that they have gone to Chicago for the purpose of so declaring. Gen. Black has called a meeting of the executive committee of the League of

A. P. GORMAN.

Clubs at the Auditorium hotel tonight. Monday the full committee will meet and decide when the convention of Democratic clubs shall meet. It is practically said that it will be held in New York city about the middle of September.

Gen. Catchings said to a reporter for the United Press that he was expecting a letter to be received in Chicago from Cleveland, expressing doubts of the wisdom of nominating him. It was said that ex-Secretary Hayward would champion the cause of the Syracuse delegates before the committee on credentials. In this connection it was said that the regular New York delegation would walk out of the convention if the Syracuse delegates were recognized in any way. This statement is quoted as coming direct from Senator Hill.

CLEVELAND HEADQUARTERS.

They are Tastefully Arranged and are the Envy of All.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Cleveland headquarters at the Grand Pacific were transferred this morning from the room of ex-Secretary Fairchild in the Grand Pacific to a suite of parlors upon the ladies' floor of the same hotel. They are the finest headquarters in the city, and put those of the Hill men in the Auditorium to the blush. Great care and taste have been exercised in the matter of decoration. Over the doorway of the main parlor is an arch of incandescent lights forming the word "Cleveland." Over the fireplace of the next parlor is a massive mirror with a life-sized photograph of the ex-president in the center, surrounded with an artistic scroll and below the now historical declaration: "A public office is a public trust." A profusion of bunting, and of flowers and plants give the headquarters a gala appearance.

A large quantity of Cleveland literature arrived from the East last night. Scouts will be sent out to meet the non-committee delegates from the various states, and as fast as they arrive they will be piloted to the Grand Pacific where they will be taken in hand by the Cleveland contingent.

FOUR WOMEN BADLY HURT.

They Went on a Porch to See a Fight and the Porch Fell.

CHICAGO, June 18.—By the falling of a porch in the rear of 414 State street, four women were injured, three of them so seriously that they may die. Two men were fighting in a yard in the rear of the above number and the women, who all live in the building, went on the porch to witness the fight. A few minutes after having stepped out on the porch, the supports gave away and they were precipitated to the ground.

FELL DOWN A SHAFT.

Fatality in a Tin Mine in South Dakota.

RAPID CITY, S. D., June 18.—A singular and fatal accident occurred at the Addie tin mine at Fall City. While Jas. Rickerts and Oscar Landrig were timbering at the mouth of the shaft, Rickerts overbalanced and fell, grasping Landrig to save himself. Rickerts fell to the 500 feet level. He struck the cage and was killed instantly. Landrig dropped seventy five feet, where he caught upon a timber, sustaining serious injuries.

THE WARREN SCRIP

The Text of Secretary Noble's Decision Holding the Scrip Was Not Assignable.

Decisions of Former Secretaries and Commissioners to the Same Effect are Cited.

A Hearing Ordered Upon the Allegations of Contest Made by Mr. Hartman.

The decision of Secretary Noble in the land office case of Hyde et al. vs. Warren et al., being a contest over scrip locations on a valuable portion of the famous section 30 on the Vermilion iron range has created considerable interest among land attorneys and others. The secretary held that the Warren scrip was not assignable, thus reversing the previous decisions of the land office in this case. Following is the decision in full on this point:

The first question to be determined is, whether the Warren scrip, or certificate of identity, is assignable, for if this question be answered affirmatively, then the only conflicting claim to be determined is that of Mr. Hyde.

On September 30, 1854, (to Stats., 1102), a treaty was concluded at La Pointe, in the state of Wisconsin, by the United States, with "the Chippewa Indians of Lake Superior and the Mississippi," by which the Indians ceded to the United States "all the lands heretofore owned by them in common with the Chippewas of the Mississippi" lying east of a certain boundary therein described. By the section thereof, certain reservations were set apart for the Chippewas of Lake Superior and, in the seventh clause of said section, it was agreed that each head of a family or a single person, over 21 years of age at the present time of the mixed bloods belonging to the Chippewas of Lake Superior, shall be entitled to eighty acres of land, to be selected by them under the direction of the president, and which shall be secured to them in usual form.

The contemporaneous construction of said clause by the department is fully set out in the report of the commissioner of Indian affairs, dated March 8, 1872, and the decision of Mr. Secretary Delano, March 19, 1872. In said report it appears that on February 17, 1856, the Indian agent, then in the city, suggested to the Indian office "the propriety of issuing certificates to persons entitled to land, under the seventh clause of the second article of said treaty and enclosed a form which he proposed for such certificates," which letter was referred to Commissioner Hendricks of the general land office, who, on the 23rd of the same month, reported that in his opinion "the issue of certificates or scrip in any form" was not provided for in the treaty nor authorized by any law, and that "the plan, if adopted even temporarily, would be fraught with many evil results." In his opinion "the treaty contemplated ownership and possession by the Indians personally, and was designed to guard against any transfer of his rights before the issuing of the patent." On March 3, 1856, the papers were referred to the Indian office with the following endorsement by the secretary: "Sec'y remarks 'let mem's be given in as proposed, but with clause expressly and decidedly vs. any transfer, mortgage, etc. Patent to be issued to the Indians not in any wise to inure to anyone but the Ind. and his heirs.'"

On March 12, 1856, the Indian office reported to the department that it was impossible for the Indian agent to make the location provided for in said clause of the treaty, because the Indians were so widely scattered, and "recommended the issuance of scrip" in the form submitted, as the most practicable method of disposing of the half-breed claims. The form was approved by Secretary McClelland, and after reciting said clause, prescribes the form of certificate of the Indian agent, that the person therein named is one of the beneficiaries of said treaty and is entitled to 80 acres of land as therein provided, which certificate required the approval of the secretary of the Interior.

The certificate also contains the following: "It is expressly understood and declared that any sale, transfer, mortgage, assignment or pledge of this certificate, or of any rights accruing under it, will not be recognized as valid by the United States, and that the patent for lands located by virtue thereof shall be issued directly to the above named person, or his heirs, and shall in no wise inure to the benefit of any other person or persons."

On June 9, 1865, Secretary Harlan decided that said treaty "does not contemplate the issuing of scrip," but patents for the land to which the half breed or mixed blood Chippewa may be entitled. And the commissioner of Indian affairs was directed to instruct the Indian agents "so that no more scrip may issue to any of said half breeds." On Oct. 28, 1867, Secretary Browning concurred in the decision of Secretary Usher and reaffirmed the decision of Secretary Harlan that said treaty did not authorize the issuance of scrip, but that the land must be selected under the direction of the president and secured to the party by patent.

On March 19, 1872, Secretary Delano overruled the decision of Secretary Usher, which he states "had resulted in extensive and systematic frauds, by which scrip has been issued to fictitious persons and many others not embraced in said seventh clause, and apparently for the benefit only of those who had contrived this scheme for the purpose of private gain and speculation." Secretary Delano, on Jan. 21, 1875, expressly held that "no one is entitled to the benefit of said seventh clause unless he belongs to the Chippewas of Lake Superior at the date of the treaty," and that at that date residing with them or contiguous thereto.

It being now alleged that said Warren was not residing "among or contiguous to the Chippewas of Lake Superior and Mississippi at the date of the treaty," and, therefore, not entitled to eighty acres of land thereunder, it is proper that the charge should be investigated. But if it be conceded, arguendo, that said Warren was a beneficiary under said treaty, yet it must be held, I think, that his right of location was not the subject of sale prior to the issue of patent. It will be observed that the selections of the half-breed are to be made "under the direction of the president, and which shall be secured to them in usual form," that prior to the issue of patent the president may issue directions, through the secretary of the interior, which will be as binding as if issued under his own hand, and that under the uniform decisions of all the secretaries of the interior upon the question, the scrip certificate was not assignable. And it was usually stated on its face that any sale, mortgage or pledge thereof "or of any right accruing thereunder will not be recognized as valid by the United States." It can hardly be seriously contended that the certificate issued to Mr. Warren, even if it did not on the face of it have said restriction, was therefore assignable.

No reason appears for making Mr. Warren an exception, and it is not stated in his certificate that it is assignable, and that he is excepted from the repeated and uniform rulings of the department. Besides, your circular, dated March 15, 1872, to the registers and receivers of the United States land offices, paragraph 8, distinctly says: "This scrip is not assignable, transfers of the same being held void." In the supreme court said: "The privilege of each half-breed to select eighty acres of land was a personal right, and, therefore, the scrip issued as the evidence of the right was not assignable."

Since the regulations issued relative to the selection of lands under said seventh clause, not being in conflict with the treaty or any existing law, must be held to have the force of a statute, any attempt of the Indian half-breed to sell or to acquire any right thereunder by means of two powers of attorney, one to locate and the other to sell the land after location, must be held to be illegal and in violation of law. It is no answer to say that third parties are not interested, for the government is an interested party, and the secretary of the interior is in duty bound to see that the disposition of every part of the public domain is in accordance with law, and the regulations of his government. The alleged ratification by Warren of the acts of Sharp, in the location and sale of said land, can avail nothing if the original transaction was tainted with illegality. "If the location of the scrip was illegal and invalid, then the deed of ratification could not give it vitality—could not vitalize that which had not in it the germ or essence of legal vitality."

The question who will be entitled to a preference right of entry of the lands covered by said Warren location does not arise in this record, and cannot be determined until the validity of said location shall have been finally determined by the department, and an application is filed for the land, claiming a preference right of entry by reason of the cancellation of the location through the efforts of the applicant. From the record before me, I am satisfied that the contest affidavit of Hartman, having been first filed in the land office and sufficiently corroborated, must be held to take precedence of the other applications for contest. In addition to the foregoing it may also be observed that according to his own showing, Hyde is now seeking to enter three other tracts under the homestead law. He cannot have two settlement claims for different tracts at the same time.

Upon a careful consideration of the whole record, I conclude that the allegations set forth in Hartman's contest affidavit are sufficient to require a hearing to be had to afford him an opportunity to prove the same; that the other applications of contest must be held to await the result of said contest; that Hayes can claim nothing by virtue of his pre-emption claim for said 80 acres, as against the government, because it has been decided by the department that his said settlement claim was illegal, which decision was affirmed on review. The decision of your office is therefore reversed, and you will direct a hearing to be ordered in accordance with the rules of practice upon Hartman's said allegations of contest. The papers in the case are herewith returned.

Very respectfully,
 JOHN W. NOBLE,
 Secretary.

ESTIMATES BEING MADE. Everything Looks Favorable for the Cleveland Plans.

CHICAGO, June 18.—It is early for an estimate of any reliability but still many are being made up. The Cleveland managers have given out a number of tables in which they always put the total at 500, though the vote in the different states may vary.

The rainfall during the past twenty-four hours has been high and confined mostly to the lake region.

The barometer is everywhere below normal reading over Canada and New England. A trough of low pressure extends from Wisconsin to Missouri, and another more pronounced one is central north of Montana.

Duluth is by far the coldest place in the country this morning, the thermometer registering 46° at 7 o'clock. At Port Arthur, St. Vincent, Moorhead and St. Paul it was 56°, 10° warmer and over the rest of the country ranged from 67° to 75°.

The area of low barometer over the Northwest should advance so as to cover this section today and bring warmer weather by Monday.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 39°, the lowest last night 45°. Rainfall, .08 inch.

DULUTH, June 18.—Local forecast for Duluth until 3 p. m. June 18.—Forecast cloudy; probably with showers; fair Sunday, except possibly thunder storms in afternoon or evening; slowly rising temperature; warmer Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Forecast till 8 p. m. Sunday: For Wisconsin: showers today and warmer Sunday; winds shifting to southerly. For Minnesota: Fair; southwesterly winds; warmer in southeast portion.

THE INEVITABLE RESULT. The St. Paul Dispatch had a very sensible article yesterday on the fight now being made by Minneapolis to compel the railroads to restore the old discriminating grain rates in favor of that city and against Duluth. The Dispatch finds it "painful to contemplate the prospect which the final decision in this case opens to view of that city being obliged to give up perhaps the greater part of her milling industry to another and a rival city; but the result, according to the statement made by the Messrs. Pillsbury, "will be that the milling interests of Minneapolis will be destroyed, and that within a few years the city of Duluth will have larger milling works than Minneapolis has today."

In the opinion of the Dispatch, however, and similar views are entertained by all disinterested people who have studied the question, there is hardly any doubt that the interstate commerce commission will decide against the Minneapolis claim. In support of this opinion, it points out that what is known as the Red River valley is nearer to Duluth than it is to Minneapolis over the North and Pacific, and is quite as near over the tracks of the other road, and adds:

"Since there can be no disposition to deny that Duluth is a distributing point, it seems very difficult to comprehend how Minneapolis can establish unjust discrimination in favor of Duluth on the part of either of these roads in the carriage of wheat. Of course there are certain points on both of such roads which are much nearer Minneapolis than they are to Duluth, but in the great majority of cases the shipments are from points which are, proximately at least, as near one city as the other. So far as the other roads are involved in the controversy, it is difficult to understand what option those roads have except to meet the rate of their competitors to a given point.

"It may not be that the calamitous prediction of the Pillsburys can ever be realized; but it is none the less true that as a wheat milling center our sister city is destined to yield the greater part of her trade and prestige within a few years to the cities at the head of the lake. Even should the commission and the courts decide in her favor, the prospect is none the less certain, as may readily be seen by a glance at any recent railroad map of Minnesota and the Dakotas."

In brief, the Dispatch sees that the geographical position of Duluth entitles this city to lower rates than Minneapolis from the wheat fields. It is equally true that Duluth is entitled to lower rates than Minneapolis or St. Paul on all classes of freight to the same points, and the granting of justice in this respect to the wholesale trade of Duluth cannot be much longer delayed.

RAPID TRANSIT. By the efforts of Mr. W. C. Sargent and others, it is now assured that electric cars will be running to Lakeside before November next. This will be a great convenience to the residents of that beautiful and rapidly growing suburb upon the lake shore, and such an excellent mode of rapid transit cannot fail to increase its growth even more rapidly than in the past.

Next year Lakeside as well as the western suburbs will become a part of the city of Duluth, and it is very desirable that the means of inter-communication shall be made as direct, convenient and cheap as possible before that time. With electric lines to Lakeside and West Duluth, this desirable result will be largely attained.

PROMPT AND RELIABLE. The full and complete report of the awful work of the cyclone, or tornado, in Southern Minnesota, which was given in The Herald on Thursday evening, in advance of any other paper in Duluth, draws renewed attention to the unequalled news service possessed by this paper. Owing the exclusive franchises of both the United Press and the Western Associated Press, The Herald was able to give a fuller and more detailed report of this terrible disaster than was published in any other paper in Minnesota, not excepting the St. Paul and Minneapolis papers. It is on occasions such as these that the superiority of the Herald's facilities for giving the earliest and fullest reports is demonstrated.

During the coming week The Herald hopes to again demonstrate this fact by early and complete accounts of the proceedings of the Democratic convention at Chicago. Those who want all the news about this important political gathering, will find it in The Herald, and in no other paper at the head of Lake Superior, hours in advance of the St. Paul morning papers. There will be no partisanship in its reports either. It is not bound hand to foot to any party. It is not the slave of any political organization, and therefore its news is always uncolored and reliable.

Dun's weekly review of trade says there is improvement both in actual trade and prospects. The renomination of President Harrison has satisfied the business men, and if Mr. Cleveland is also nominated it is generally believed that business interests would be very little affected by the presidential contest this year.

So far there has been no official denial of the story that Mr. Blaine resigned as the result of a gross insult from an official who claimed to be acting under the president's directions. The story, if true, will lose Mr. Harrison many votes.

A dispatch says that "Massachusetts has begun the enforcement of the anti-sweating law." As the mercury rose to 80 degrees in the shade yesterday, it would appear to be wise to postpone the enforcement of this law until fall.

There is one good point about Mr. Blaine's friends being unable to secure his nomination at Minneapolis. The public will probably not be inflicted with any more letters by Mary Nevins-Blaine.

Judge Searle says he is not making any fight for the Republican nomination for congress. But it is noticeable that when the judge says this, he simultaneously "winks the other eye."

The political reports in The Herald are independent, fair, full, fresh, newsy, instructive, and cover the whole field. Its news is reliable, and it never is colored by partisanship.

Those who talk of reading Clarkson, Quay, Fassett, Platt and Foraker out of the Republican party will find they have undertaken a mighty big contract.

The British parliament is to adjourn about the last of June. Our own congress might follow suit, without raising any objection from the American people.

As long as Jerry Rusk continues to give the present style of weather he cannot expect any growth in his boom for president four years hence.

Barnum's circus will be in Chicago next week, but it will be completely overshadowed by the great Democratic circus in the wigwam.

Editor Dana now calls the supporters of Grover Cleveland "the adorners of half-witted mediocrity."

There will be no nomination on the first ballot at Chicago, unless all indications are astray.

A Voice from Wadena County. [Verdane Journal.] The Journal has been heartily in favor of giving the Republican nomination for congressman from this district to a Duluth man, and we could have heartily supported any good man; but in endorsing the candidacy of H. C. Kendall this willingness to give St. Louis county our support has vanished.

THE PEOPLE FLED.

A Broken Dam in Pennsylvania Cause the People to Fly for Their Lives.

In a Few Minutes After the Alarm the Streets were Blocked With Debris.

The Village of Rockdale, Iowa, Wiped Out By a Storm, But No Lives Lost.

MAHONNY CITY, Pa., June 18.—At about 10 o'clock last night the whistles around town started the alarm used in case of fire. In a short time the streets were filled with people rushing wildly to find the cause. They were attracted up Main street and before proceeding far a carriage dashed toward them. The occupant was driving for his life and crying: "The dam is broken, fly for your lives." The crowd turned and fled, and in the distance could be heard the rushing of the mighty torrent.

"Fly to the hills, fly for your lives," was repeated from mouth to mouth. By the time the water reached the corner of Main and Center streets, the crowd had fled to the hills. The people living in the northern end of the town had not time to reach the mountains after the alarm was given, and sought shelter in their houses. In a few minutes the debris had blocked the streets. There were huge trees, telegraph poles, logs, stumps of trees, wagons, carts, parts of houses brought by the roaring current. Cellars and stores were flooded and the streets were made impassable.

After reaching this place the water took a westerly course and the eastern end of the town was not damaged. Traffic on the Lehigh Valley road between and Park Place is blocked, the tracks being washed out, and huge logs and trees are lying across the tracks, piled ten and fifteen feet high. The telegraph wires on the Lehigh Valley road are down, and it is reported that a number of houses in Robinson, a small mining village about two miles from here, and right in the path of the flood, have been carried away.

After the flood had subsided the greatest fear among the people was for the miners working underground, but information at this writing gives no lives lost. It is impossible to reach the broken dam, as on all the way through which the raging torrent spent its course, the water is knee deep. Rumors are flying in all directions as to the number of lives lost. Two people are reported missing and how many more cannot be estimated, not to mention the portion of the town was flooded and nearly all had portions of their stock ruined.

The exact cause of the dam bursting cannot be ascertained. Some say a cloudburst had hung over the dam all evening, and the heavy body of water could not stand the strain on the breast works, which gave way with mighty force. Couriers arriving in town report a great deal of damage done, and some of the mines are flooded, which means no work at the mines until the water is pumped out. Late last night the electric lights went out. This added gloom, and despair to the people. The roads were afraid to retire for the night.

A Village Wiped Out. DUBUQUE, Ia., June 18.—What remained of the village of Rockdale, three miles west of Dubuque, since the disaster of 1886, was wiped out by a storm last evening. The Illinois Central train stalled at the other side of the wash-out. No lives were lost. The rainfall was the heaviest ever recorded here in half an hour. The street cars were obstructed by the flood.

Cribbing Carried Away. NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—The storm yesterday carried away forty feet of the cribbing at the Merritt crevasse. The break at Sarpy is now 100 feet wide and the Belmont break is 600 feet wide. Superintendent Dunn will put a great force of men on the work today and engineers unanimously declare that from now on the water will fall with more or less rapidly.

Buildings Blown Down. SCHANON, Pa., June 18.—Another severe storm swept over the city last night. Wind and lightning did great damage, everything in the south side being prostrated and a portion of the school building blown away. People were lifted from their feet and carried against buildings. The Saquet silk mill was carried away in part, and two large scale houses were blown over. A stack of the Lackawanna woolen mill was blown down, and the roof of the button mill badly damaged. A number of houses were struck by lightning.

Cloud-Burst in Illinois. FAIRBURY, Ills., June 18.—A cloudburst is reported to have taken place at Chatsworth, this county, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The entire place is under water. The water was over two feet deep on the Toledo, Peoria & Western and Illinois Central railroad tracks. A high wind prevailed, which leveled small structures to the ground and twisted store fronts out of place. At Forest the Washab track is under water, but the wind did not blow as strong as at Chatsworth.

NO PLACE FOR THEM. The Anti-Snapper Delegation Will Not Be Admitted. CHICAGO, June 18.—If any uncertainty existed as to the reception that would be accorded the Syracuse "anti-snapper" delegates to the convention, it has disappeared before the emphatic statement of Senator Carlisle of Kentucky that they cannot be admitted to the convention. The senator expresses the opinion also that a considerable anti-Cleveland sentiment has shown itself within the last few days and that it is growing, but that it means the nomination of Hill he is not so sure.

An Ordinance

An Ordinance amending and adding to ordinance number 33, passed March 30, 1883, and entitled "An ordinance providing for a supply of gas and water to the village of Duluth and its inhabitants, authorizing the Duluth Gas & Water Company to construct and maintain gas and water works, contracting with said company for a supply of gas and water for public use, and giving said village an option to purchase said gas and water works."

The Common Council of the City of Duluth do ordain: Section 1. That section 3 of ordinance number 33, duly passed by the village of Duluth on March 30, 1883, and entitled "An ordinance providing for a supply of gas and water to the village of Duluth and its inhabitants, authorizing the Duluth Gas & Water Company to construct and maintain gas and water works, contracting with said company for a supply of gas and water for public use, and giving said village an option to purchase said gas and water works," be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: Section 3. Whenever the common council shall consider it necessary that any of the mains of said company should be extended said common council may by ordinance require said company to make such extension without unreasonable delay, provided that the ordinance so passed shall agree to pay to said company in each and every year the sum of fifty cents for each linear foot of such extension, said sum to be paid quarterly on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year, less any amount received by said company during such period from the rental of hydrants and sale of gas and water on the line of extension, and provided further that said company shall not be required to so extend its mains to a greater aggregate length than four miles in any one year, except by mutual agreement and approval of the common council, and that the common council may require the property owners along the line of each such extension to indemnify said city to the amount which shall agree to pay as the consideration of such extension before the passage of any such ordinance; and provided further that if said company shall be required to lay its mains in ungraded streets, that whenever said street is graded the city shall pay the cost of relaying such pipes with proper reference to the established grade. All lines of gas and water main pipes shall be located on one side or the other from the center of the street so as not to interfere with any pipes, mains, conduits or sewers existing at the time of said location or laying, and the said Gas & Water Company shall hold said city harmless from any and all damages arising from negligence or mismanagement of its employees in the construction and management of its gas and water works or laying or repairing pipes. There shall be no excavation or unreasonable obstruction of the streets, avenues, alleys and public grounds, and the same shall be restored by the Gas & Water Company to their former condition as near and as soon as practicable after use, and no deviation from such lines located as aforesaid in any street shall be made without consent of the common council.

Section 2. That section 5 of said ordinance number 33, be and the same is hereby amended by adding to said section 5 the following: In consideration of the relinquishment of said company of all amounts accrued, or to accrue from said city of Duluth to said company for or on account of any amounts accrued or to accrue by said village or city of Duluth for the making of any extensions prior to May 1, 1892, the city of Duluth hereby agrees to locate, upon the present existing mains of said company, and to rent, and does hereby rent and agree to rent (100) additional fire hydrants and here by agrees to pay quarterly on the first day of January, April, July and October in each year, less any amount received by said company during such period from the rental of hydrants and sale of gas and water on the line of extension, and provided, however, that only fifty (50) of said additional hydrants shall be so located prior to June 1, 1892, and that only twenty-five (25) more of said additional hydrants shall be so located prior to June 1, 1894, and the remaining twenty-five (25) of said additional hydrants shall be so located prior to June 1, 1896; There is considerable trouble at the Minnesota mines at Soudan, near Tower, and the mining and shipping of ore is entirely suspended in consequence of a strike among the mining crews.

Thursday a number of the Finlanders and Austrians, probably about 300, laid off for a general holiday without permission and a general drunk followed which led to the laying off by the superintendent of 315 laborers.

President Bacon is endeavoring to conciliate the men and adjust their grievances but with poor prospect of success as the men are ugly and inflamed with drink.

At 3 o'clock today a telegram was received from Governor Merriam ordering Company A to be ready to move at a moment's notice.

Mill Men Abroad. Henry Gill, the Duluth miller, was here last week, says the Minneapolis Northwestern Miller, and in speaking of the Planifier, said that it had done most excellent work in his mill.

Head Miller Scott, of the Imperial mill at Duluth, was also in Minneapolis Friday, continues the Miller. He says that the newly completed half of the Imperial is running finely, and he is confident that both sides, under favorable conditions, can easily produce 7000 barrels in twenty-four hours.

"A DRESS REHEARSAL."

An Excellent Production of This Charming Operetta by Amateurs. The amateur entertainment at the Temple last evening drew a fairly large and fashionable audience, and the frequent and enthusiastic applause showed that it was thoroughly appreciated.

The operetta "A Dress Rehearsal" was, however, what the audience more particularly wanted to see. This is a charming little absurdity and gives some good opportunities for vocal work.

Miss Rebecca Mackenzie as Miss Fibbs, afterward Cinderella, gave a bright and attractive interpretation of the character. Her singing was very good and her acting especially clever.

Miss Helene Calverly, as the elocution teacher, Mrs. Angus Gillespie and Mrs. Holcourt, as the spiteful sisters; Mrs. T. E. Bowen as the principal and Mrs. Backus as the visitor to the school, all took their parts admirably.

UNTIL SNOW FLIES.

Ex-Secretary Whitney Says the Cleveland Men Will Not Vote For Another Man.

Cleveland Will Be Nominated if They Have to Sit Until Snow Flies.

Of Course this Depends on All Cleveland Delegates Maintaining a Solid Front.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Active campaign work was inaugurated by the Cleveland element today. So far the interests of the ex-Secretary Fairchild, and Gen. Tracy, but these have done comparatively little so far as aggressive operations are concerned.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY.

It was not until after 1 o'clock this morning that a conference in ex-Secretary Whitney's room and in which P. B. Winston, of Minneapolis, ex-Mayor Grace, of New York, F. L. Stetson, of New York, Cleveland's law partner; Hope Smith, of Atlanta, ex-Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson, Charles S. Fairchild, of New York, and W. G. Ewing, of Chicago, were participants.

The situation was discussed in all its details, each man freely expressing his opinion. A report was made of the delegates, purporting to give the political proclivities of each man who will have a vote at the convention, with the result that the opinion was unanimously expressed that the success of Cleveland on the first ballot was next door to a certainty.

In the general discussion that followed every one of the conferees were emphatic in the opinion that the policy of the Clevelandites should be to stand by the ex-presidents to the end, even if the convention sat until winter.

The statement issued by the Tammany delegation was discussed, but the sentiment of the conference was against issuing any formal reply at least until the beginning of next week when all the delegates are on the ground. There was also a unanimity of opinion that in the event of Cleveland's nomination the tariff should be the sole issue of the campaign on the ground that this would be the strongest battle cry in New York state and would be certain to insure the ex-president's success.

After the conference, Mr. Whitney gave a somewhat complacent smile and, with his usual courtesy, he consented to talk. "The conference which has just been brought to a close," said the ex-Secretary, "was the first meeting of Mr. Cleveland's friends in Chicago. I cannot give you the details of that conference. There are but few of us in the city at present and we have not looked over the field carefully. This we do know, Grover Cleveland is the choice of a vast majority of the Democrats."

"Can he be nominated?" "He will be nominated if we have to sit in that convention until snow flies. In other words, you serve notice on Messrs. Croker and Hill that you will wear them out."

"No, I should not put it as strongly as that. Mr. Croker and Tammany are good friends of mine and are not to be antagonized. We are sure, as things are tonight, of 500 staunch supporters of Mr. Cleveland, who cannot be wavered in their devotion. I base this opinion on carefully made estimates, and the number of uncertain delegates always desirous of being on the side of success."

"What will be the issue of the coming year?" "The tariff and the tariff alone. Mr. Cleveland can carry New York by a very large majority on this issue. Four years ago the people were afraid of it. They will vote differently now with the knowledge gained with the growing years. The country would have no fears of Mr. Cleveland on the silver question."

Regarding the announcement of Senator Carlisle that he was opposed to Cleveland because he could not carry his own state and that a man should be nominated who is entirely free from all the antagonisms and factional fights which have given the New York Democracy an unenviable reputation, Mr. Whitney said emphatically that he did not think it would change any votes and certainly would not affect the friends of the ex-president in the slightest degree.

THE ILLINOIS DELEGATES.

Twenty-Two Are Either for Palmer or On the Fence.

CHICAGO, June 18.—A good deal of interest is manifested regarding the probable course of the delegation from Illinois. The Cleveland managers claim that they will have it solid on the first ballot, but this claim is strongly disputed at the Illinois rendezvous in the Sherman house. No regular caucus has yet been held, but an informal poll of the delegation has developed the fact that only fourteen are outspoken for Cleveland, while twelve are favorable to the candidacy of W. R. Morrison and twenty-two are either for Palmer or on the fence.

Gen. Palmer, however, is unalterably opposed to the use of his name so long as Mr. Cleveland is a candidate, and it is given out that in view of that effect, couched in language which cannot be misunderstood, will be presented when the caucus meets. The Morrison boom is generally regarded as a weakling that will scarcely survive the opening of the convention.

A SIMILAR SITUATION.

Last Week Harrison Against the Field. Now Cleveland Against the Field.

CHICAGO, June 18.—In some respects the situation that confronts the Democratic national convention is similar to that which was manifest in Minneapolis two weeks ago. Then it was Harrison against the field; here it is Cleveland against the field. The bitterness of the opposition to President Harrison's re-nomination, which was its distinguishing characteristic, is missing here, and it is not likely to appear unless it should break out among the delegates. Who will come to the aid of the field now, and they are not at all backward either in expressing their opinions, which are unfavorable to the ex-president, or their conviction that he cannot carry the state of New York if nominated.

Mr. Cleveland's position differs from that of President Harrison in that his state does not support him; notwithstanding which he is far and away the favorite among the delegates. Who will nominate him, what state will stand sponsor for his candidacy are questions that have not yet been answered. But that fact apparently does not disturb his supporters. They are more matters of detail; there is no doubt in anybody's mind that Grover Cleveland's name will be presented and seconded from various parts of the Union. The presentation, it is felt, must come from some other state than New York.

EARNST GEN. SICKLES.

He Tells Why the New York Men Are Supporting Hill.

CHICAGO, June 18.—If Tammany has decided to dump Hill and is looking for a Western man to head the ticket, as reported in one of the morning papers, the evidences of that fact were skillfully concealed up to midnight. Close to that hour Gen. Dan E. Sickles, one of the delegates-at-large, with his crutch speaking eloquently of his gallant services to the Union, sat in the lead chair of the Auditorium, surrounded by a crowd of interested auditors, to whom with all the force and earnestness which command his efforts he stated the record of Hill and his claims for the nomination at the hands of the convention.

"He laid especial stress upon the difference between the attitude of the senator and that of Mr. Cleveland in the campaign of 1880. Hill, he said, was in Ohio and defeated McKinley. He was in West Virginia and New York and elsewhere on the stump, and rendered exceeding great service. He was not slow to denounce the force bill, that measure which, if enacted into law, would place the Democratic party wholly at the mercy of John L. Davenport and his fellows.

"It is Davenport's bill," said the general, "as Hill compelled him to confess, but who has heard of Grover Cleveland, or any of the men who are here now demanding his nomination, in that campaign? Cleveland has never said a word in denunciation of that bill, and so far as we know may be in favor of it. Where would the Democratic party be, should it pass? Senator Hill's record as governor is without a flaw; no scandal attaches to it; he is a clean public official; and in his private life is without reproach, and above all he gave to New York a complete Democratic administration placing that party in power in every branch of the government. That's why we are for him for president."

Gen. Sickles entered heartily into the work immediately upon his arrival, and up to midnight he had not even removed the dustier in which he travelled from New York.

COULD NOT AGREE.

The Northern Pacific Gets Hostile and Shuts Out the South Shore Road.

The Latter Can no Longer Run Over the Former's Tracks to Iron River Junction.

An Arrangement is Made With the St. Paul & Duluth and Omaha Roads.

The contract under which the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road has run its trains over the Northern Pacific tracks from Duluth to Iron River Junction has been terminated by the latter road. The change goes into effect next Monday and after that date none of the South Shore trains will run over the Northern Pacific tracks.

An arrangement has been made with the St. Paul & Duluth and Omaha roads which will allow the South Shore road to run its trains, but it will be cut out of nearly 100 miles of territory, in which it has worked up a good business. The Lake Superior limited trains, so called, will have to be abandoned, however, and the road will return to running out one train each day. This will leave at 6:55 p. m. All trains will run to Superior over the St. Paul & Duluth tracks and from there will take the Omaha road and run to Mason, the junction with the South Shore tracks. This will necessitate quite a double, but the same time will be made on the night train as formerly.

Another change will be in the handling of freight at Duluth. Heretofore the Northern Pacific has handled the South Shore's business here, but commencing Monday the St. Paul & Duluth road will take it all. This change, the road says, will not interfere in any respect with the prompt shipment of freight, but there is quite a piece of territory through which the South Shore has been running in which Duluth wholesalers have worked up a business, and which the road will now be unable to take care of.

It is not known here just what the trouble is which has caused the termination of the contract. C. B. Hibbard, general passenger agent of the South Shore, is here today making arrangements for the change, but further than the mere fact that the contract is off, he knows not. There is a possibility that the Northern Pacific has become jealous of the South Shore's increasing business in the territory through which both pass. This movement will undoubtedly hasten the construction of the South Shore road's independent line from its present terminus, Iron River Junction, into Duluth. The road has been offered to run the risk of being shut out from this city.

THE SUMMER HOTEL CLERK.

The summer breezes soon will blow across the yellow sands, And down upon the rocks near by the lovers will hold hands.

Upon the created wave will see the white winged pleasure boat, And George will show dear Susan how to swim and how to float.

And over all the summer through—where Cupid does not shrink— Will gleam and glad fulfillment of the summer hotel clerk.

He smiles upon you with a smile smarmy twain, And when you register your name he takes from you your pain.

Oh! hard earned dollars that you've saved through weary days now past, You take one lingering look at them ere in the safe they're cast.

You think how slow those dollars came and how they made you work, And then you bow, obsequious to the summer hotel clerk.

He wears a suit of latest cut, and as you meet his eye He condescends to tell you how to tie your summer tie.

He notes with careful eyes your clothes and to what girls you speak, And regulates his bearing by the price you pay each week.

From counting smile right down the scale to humble smirk We note the plastic features of the summer hotel clerk.

Oh, for some still, secluded spot, away from haunts of men, With rustling trees and glad some birds—a maiden now and then;

A shady glen, a quiet nook, a simple bill of fare, Where one can while away the time entirely free from care.

A hidden path, a singing stream, where fishes love to lurk, And where there is no vestige of the summer hotel clerk.

THE THIRD PARTY.

Algebraically Considered, the People's Party is the Unknown Quantity in Politics.

The Men Who Will Figure Most Prominently at the Coming Omaha Convention.

An Imposing Array of Candidates Already Presented For The Presidential Nomination.

Algebraically stated, the People's party, which is to convene by its delegates at Omaha on July 4, is X—the leading unknown quantity. Perhaps it would be more exact to represent it as X Y Z under a radical sign, for it is a combination of several unknown quantities, with a surprisingly "advanced" platform and an array of speakers who have long figured among the most radical agitators of the country.

PENOVER—WEAVER—CLOVER.

A very prominent man before the convention, if not active in it, will be Governor Sylvester Penoyer, of Oregon, who was re-elected in 1890 by a majority of 10,000, though the state is Republican. He is spoken of as the new party's candidate for president, for though elected governor as a Democrat, he is now in full sympathy with the third party men.

Numerically, however, these will be swallowed up by an army of new, or comparatively new recruits, such as Senators Kyle, of South Dakota, and Peffer, of Kansas; Congressmen Winn and Watson, of Georgia; Jerry Simpson, B. H. Clover, John Davis and William Baker, of Kansas; Kittel Halvorson, of Minnesota, and William Arthur McKeighan, of the second Nebraska district, whose phenomenal majority in 1890 astonished the country and convinced the old politicians that the people had "taken the bit in their teeth."

It is a common and a cheap and easy explanation to say the People's party is "the successor of the old Greenback party," but this is only a part of the truth. The greenback has evidently come to stay, and the national banks, as Senator Sherman recently pointed out, must soon be wound up by the payment of the bonds, but the whole field of capital and labor, the concentration of wealth and increase of poverty, and especially the great puzzle known as the "depression of agriculture," lies open to the new party.

In all the seventy-two years of the nation's existence before the war there were not as many strikes and labor riots as in two months of the single year of 1877, and though many labor organizations were formed, there was no general political party based on them. It is questioned also if there were in the United States in 1890 a score of millionaires; now there are 1,100 in New York city alone, and believed to be 5,000 in the nation.

In 1870 the Labor party affected elections considerably in many places, and soon after the famous Grangers rose rapidly to great importance. The panic of 1873 resulted in a tremendous political revolution—the change of votes between 1872 and 1874 amounted to nearly 1,100,000—and soon after the raging elements of discontent found expression in the Greenback party. Its first distinction tively national convention was held at Indianapolis, May 17, 1876, and its candidate, Peter Cooper, received 81,740 votes. At the congressional elections of 1878 the party cast nearly 1,000,000 votes, and in 1880, despite the fact that specie payments had been established for nearly two years, General James B. Weaver, Greenbacker, received 306,867 votes for president.

It is important to note that as the point of attack changes each reorganization of third party elements secures a larger vote. It is unnecessary to note in detail the movements of labor organizations after 1880 and their gradual crystallization as the Union Labor party, which may be said to have taken the lead in organizing the present People's party. The National Grange of the Patrons of Husbandry, called Grangers for short, had at one time about 26,000 local Grangers in the nation. The Farmers' Mutual Benefit association came next, and has at least half a million members, chiefly west of Ohio. The National Farmers' league is strongest in the eastern states, and the Colored Farmers' Alliance and Co-operative union is necessarily strongest in the south, but gives out no exact figures.

Outs of all these grew the national Farmers' Alliance, which has its headquarters in Washington, and its platform was put forth at Ocala, Fla., in December, 1890, the much abused "subtreasury" scheme being the chief point for criticism. Colonel L. L. Polk, of North Carolina, recently deceased, was its president. Its vice president is E. H. Clover, of Kansas; its secretary treasurer, J. H. Turner, of Georgia, and its lecturer, J. F. Willets, of Kansas. The first attempt to combine with other labor organizations was not a success, but on the 20th of May, 1891, representatives of many industrial organizations at Cincinnati presented the platform of the People's party. The St. Louis platform of 1892 is now its recognized expression of principles.

Hon. H. E. Tanbeck, of Illinois, is chairman of the national executive committee and Robert Schilling, of Wisconsin, is secretary. Among the active men in the convention besides those already mentioned will probably be Dr. C. W. Macune, of the Alliance; N. M. Barnett, candidate for governor of Illinois; Anson J. Streeter, of Illinois, the Labor party's candidate for president in 1888; Congressman Moses, of Georgia; General Weaver, C. C. Post, Mr. Kolb, of Alabama, and several who were once prominent in the Greenback party.

The organization allows four delegates from each congressional district and eight at large from each state, so if every section of the country is represented the delegates will reach the suggestive number of 1776. It is of course impossible to estimate the voters behind them, but some of the figures in the elections of 1890 are startling in their suggestion of possibilities. In the second Nebraska district William Arthur McKeighan received 36,104 votes to 22,996 for all others, while in the Third district Omer Madison Kem had 31,831 against 25,440 for the Republican, 22,393 for the Democrat and 961 for the Prohibitionist. In South Dakota F. A. Leavitt received 24,967 votes, but was defeated, while in Kansas B. H. Clover had 4,430 majority, John Grant Otis 4,996, John Davis 6,484, William Baker 8,644 and Jerry Simpson 7,432. And the latter's opponent was Colonel James R. Halliwell, a veteran whose army record was phenomenally brilliant and a gentleman noted for affability.

In the ninth Georgia district Thomas Elisha Winn was elected as "an Alliance man and a Democrat," and in the tenth Thomas E. Watson was nominated as a

WATSON—KYLE—STREETER.

Democrat but received the Alliance vote as a practical farmer. In the first Minnesota district William Henry Harris was "indorsed by the Alliance," and defeated the talented and popular Mark H. Dunnell by 3,323, while in the fifth district Kittel Halvorson received 21,514 votes, against 19,372 for the Republican and 16,293 for the Democratic candidate. Many causes, however, co-operated in the latter case, for Mr. Halvorson is a native of Norway, made a good record in the war for the Union and was indorsed by the Prohibitionists, Norwegian, soldier, practical farmer and Prohibitionist—a hard combination to beat in that latitude.

Thus far the phrase "People's party" has been used, but it is rather a phrase of convenience than exact designation, for in truth the party has not yet been officially named, and "People's party" is admittedly a very inadequate title. It has been applied dozens of times to organizations of the widest possible variance. The so called "People's party" of 1894 was a combination in the then western states of anti-Nebraska Democrats, anti-slavery Whigs, radical temperance men and reformers of various kinds, but after one campaign under that name it became the Republican party.

"Third party" is a still worse designation, besides being already applied in the popular mind to the Prohibitionists. "Nationalist" is too vague, "Labor" too limited, "Industrial" is not exactly the thing and "Antimonopoly" is really quite "fishy." A humorous critic has suggested that the new party name itself the "Adullamites" (see I Samuel xxii, 1, 2), but this is an old and painful joke. To sum up, it looks as if the selection of a good name would be one of the hardest tasks before the convention.

SUPERIOR DOINGS.

Result of the Investigation of the Water Supply of the City. The commencement exercises of the Nelson-Dewey school were held yesterday. Three additional tracks will be laid in the St. Paul & Duluth yards this season. The report of the investigation of the city water was presented to the council last evening and the following were the conclusions drawn: First—The water supply of the city is from the lake. Second—The number of organisms in the tap water is relatively small and in character harmless. Third—If the water by expert chemical analysis should be shown to contain a detrimental amount of ammonia, its source is other than living organisms and should be thoroughly investigated. President Thomas B. Mills, of the Douglas County Republican League club, offered his resignation at the meeting last evening and W. E. Hochle was elected to succeed him. The finance committee yesterday closed the sale of $166,000 of general school bonds to Henry W. Gilbert, E. De F. Barnett and Henry Hunt for $100. The five-year-old daughter of P. W. DeLong, 621 Lamborn avenue, was severely bitten in the face by Adolph Domsch's large dog last evening. The People's party of Superior met last evening. An informal vote for president showed J. B. Weaver, of Iowa, to be the choice. Richard Cullen was the favorite for second place, he having joined the party. He will go to the national convention at Omaha. JAMES C. DAWKINS. Dry Goods, Carpets, Etc., West Superior. The history of Superior, though she is still in her youth, presents many facts of great interest to the student of mercantile history. While its geographical position gave it unusual advantages men of ability were needed to promote and accelerate the development of these resources. The ordinary merchant develops talents and qualities in the line of his own trade, but the requirements of growing cities fortunately bring to the front men of business genius who not only evidence abilities in their own business but that supreme test success, but aided by the wide range of their capacity and mental caliber, the general success and prosperity of their fellows and the wealth and reputation of their city. Superior in this respect has been eminently fortunate in the possession of citizens of this elevated stamp, but to no individuals does this apply with more force or distinguish with more unassuming merit than James C. Dawkins. His stock of dry goods, dress goods, carpets, draperies, etc., is one of the largest in this section. Mr. Dawkins is an energetic business man justly deserving the success that is crowning his efforts. WHEAT FIRM TODAY. Prices Show a Slight Advance Over Yesterday. Cash wheats held the market here today, there being slight activity in speculative futures. Shipments are small at present and wheat stocks here will show an increase of 100,000 bush this week. VERY SAD DEATH.

Emmons Blaine, Son of the Ex-Secretary of State, Died in Chicago Today.

His Sudden Demise Caused by Blood Poisoning Due to a Bowel Complaint.

Strain and Excitement at Minneapolis, and Subsequent Disappointment, Prostrated Him.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Emmons Blaine, son of ex-Secretary Blaine, died today at 11:15 a. m. Blood poisoning, the result of inflammation of the bowels was the cause. The fact of Mr. Blaine's death was kept concealed for some time after he had passed away, the object being to reach the father and mother with a gentle intimation of the news. Efforts to get telegraphic communication with the ex-secretary failed, and about 12:15 the news of the death leaked out. It was not until about a quarter of an hour prior to the fatal moment that the least intimation that Mr. Blaine was in a dangerous condition became known and only to a few. At his office in the Baltimore & Ohio headquarters in this city his associates were only aware that he was ill and had been so for several days. Reporters were sent to the Blaine residence at 135 Rush street, but while they were informed that the patient's ailments had assumed a fatal form, no other information could be had. Mr. Blaine was a notable figure in the exciting convention at Minneapolis, resulting in his father's defeat. He took the result greatly at heart and was confined to his room shortly after his return. It is thought possible by many that the strain and excitement at Minneapolis, followed by keen disappointment of the outcome, had not a little to do with the physical prostration ensuing. The death scene took place in the great brown-stone mansion of the McCormick family on Rush street. His wife, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, and the couple's 2-year-old son, McCormick Blaine, were the only persons present besides Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, young Mrs. Blaine's mother. Death came so swiftly when it did come that there was not time to summon the other members of the McCormick family, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McCormick, who were in the house at the time. WHO WROTE THEM?

Recent Attempts to Solve the Vexed Question About the Shakespearean Works.

Conclusions That the Stratford Shakespeare Was an Able Editor and no More.

"Hamlet" Was Written by a Lawyer, and Francis Bacon Undoubtedly the Man.

The disputed question as to the authorship of the works attributed to Shakespeare is always an interesting subject of speculation and investigation. Whether we agree or disagree with the conclusions of Ignatius Donnelly in his "Cryptogram," we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the authorship of the works is still a vexed question that needs to be solved, and on the Bacon side are some of the most profound thinkers of the age. Two propositions on this subject have emanated from the pens of independent thinkers on different sides of the Atlantic. One is entitled "Our Shakespeare After All," and the other is by John Watts de Peyster, who needs no introduction to the literary world of America, and is entitled "The Shakespeare After All." Both authors follow substantially the same road in their investigations, examining in detail the various works, and all that is known about the Shakespearean works. Mr. White's field is somewhat wider than that of de Peyster, since the former extends his examination to the sonnets, poems which are ascribed to Shakespeare. Both authors appear to have worked unbiased by prejudice in favor of the playwright of Stratford. Yet both writers reach the conclusion that the plays known as Shakespeare's were not written by him, and that the Shakespeare whom we "appropriated" without conscientious scruples whatever he thought would be of use to him. Gen. de Peyster, with judicious caution, does not undertake to settle the real authorship of particular portions of Shakespeare's works. He contents himself with marshaling the evidence that the Shakespeare who lived and played was "an able editor" and nothing more, and urges the point that to claim him to be anything beyond this is to fly in the face of unimpeachable testimony. Mr. White goes further, and we give his conclusions in detail: The issue I raise and argue is the origin of those works, plays and poems which go under the name of Shakespeare; an issue which, so far as the plays are concerned, divides itself into two branches: I. Are they original compositions? II. Who was, or were, the author or authors? In endeavoring to answer these questions I have shown: 1. That English literature, when the plays appeared, was extensively tinged with classical learning. 2. That the drama, which had just come into fashion, was formed on classical models. 3. That the characteristics of the plays show that they were written by learned men. 4. That so far, however, from being original, their originals are to be found, respectively, in the Greek, Roman, Spanish and Italian drama. 5. That the incidence of their publication does not reveal the author. 6. That William Shakespeare's literary character, as gathered from contemporary opinion, was not such as became the author of these plays. 7. That his personal character was consistent with that of a literary impostor, whose wealth had enabled him to make use of needy scholars. 8. That such scholars were numerous and their necessities pressing. 9. That, in fact, more than six such scholars employed by him to write plays, were named or referred to by a contemporary in 1592. 10. That another contemporary asserted in 1589 that the author of "Hamlet" was a lawyer; and that while Shakespeare was none, Francis Bacon was a poet of distinguished learning and genius, and the only lawyer of the time likely to engage in such employment, as he was the only one capable of writing "Hamlet." 11. That Robert Greene, Christopher Marlowe, Thomas Nash, George Peele, Samuel Daniel, Thomas Lodge, George Chapman, and Francis Bacon were respectively the authors of "Love's Labour's Lost" and "The Comedy of Errors," "The Second and Third Parts of Henry VI," and "Richard III." "The Winter's Tale," "A Midsummer Night's Dream,"

"Romeo and Juliet," "Love's Labor Won (As You Like It)," "Macbeth" and "The Tempest"; and "Hamlet." 12. That, in consequence of the great favor with which "Hamlet" was received in or before 1589, Shakespeare engaged Francis Bacon, under a promise of secrecy, to revise the play; he had obtained, or should obtain, from other authors; and that Robert Greene and others ascribed the revision to Shakespeare himself, and, therefore, taunted him with pretending he could "bombast out a blank verse as well as the best of them." 13. That as Bacon's composition of "Hamlet" is proved by the parallel passages found in his acknowledged works, so his revision of the other plays—excepting always "Titus Andronicus," "Love's Labour's Lost," and "The Comedy of Errors"—is proved, not only by parallel passages, but by the presence of his tone of thought, mode of illustration, and personal experience; and that "Julius Caesar," "Antony and Cleopatra," "Coriolanus," "Timon of Athens," and "Henry VIII." were Bacon's entire composition. 14. That the best pieces in the series are reproductions of more archaic plays; but that, so far as English beauties are concerned, Francis Bacon, with some assistance from Samuel Daniel, is the genius of Shakespeare. 15. The "Sonnets of Shakespeare" I find to be the production of Anthony and Francis Bacon, while "Venus and Adonis" and "The Rape of Lucrece" are the productions of Christopher Marlowe. * * * R. L. Ketchum, one of the most popular of the Argonaut's short story writers, has another amusing little sketch in the issue of June 13. It is called "The Hicks-Brown Divorce," and tells of the quarrel of two married lovers, who hid them to South Dakota for legal separation, and, when they are divorced, discover they have made a bad mistake. How they made it up is told by Mr. Ketchum in a pleasantly humorous way, and with much evidence that he knows the perverse heart of a pretty woman. * * * Among the new books issued by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., of Boston, is "Phases of Thought and Criticism," by Brother Azarias, author of "The Development of English Thought." Following are its contents: "Fourfold Activity of the Soul," "On Thinking," "Emerson and Newman as Types," "The Principle of Thought," "Literary and Scientific Habits of Thought," "The Ideal in Thought," "Culture of the Spiritual Sense," "Spiritual Sense of the Imitation (of Christ)," "Spiritual Sense of the Divina Commedia," "Spiritual Sense of In Memoriam." Brother Azarias has won an enviable reputation for his scholarship and for his clear and attractive style. This book traverses many important fields of thought, and there must be many readers who will follow the author with appreciation and sympathy. * * * Conspicuous in interest and timeliness among the magazine articles of the month is the comprehensive paper upon "Pope Leo XIII." by Richard B. Kimball, LL.D., which opens the July number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. Dr. Kimball sketches clearly the situation of Italy and the church at the time Leo XIII became pope; then proceeds with a masterly review of the ecclesiastical and diplomatic career of the venerable sovereign pontiff. Accompanying this paper is an admirable reproduction of the new portrait of the pope, by Chartran. Another notable contribution is "Famine-stricken Russia," by Thomas Donnelly and Valerian Gribayedoff, describing and illustrating contemporary scenes in the Volga provinces. Other interesting articles, with copious pictorial embellishment, are: "Lady Riders," by Edwin H. Morris; "National Holidays," by Frederick S. Daniel; "Exploring Talamasca," by Cecil Charles; "How the Birds Came to the Green Mountains," by Nellie Hart Woodworth; "Abdul-Hamid II, the Sultan of Turkey," by T. D'Apery; and "Etching with Fire"—a thorough account of the unique art of which Mr. J. William Fosdick is the foremost exponent—by Franklin Smith. There are half a dozen excellent short stories; and Etta W. Pierce's serial, "A Terrible Case," is brought to a dramatic conclusion. * * * Lovers of Tennyson will welcome the new book by George C. Napier, M. A., on "The Homes and Haunts of Tennyson." It is profusely illustrated with engravings, many of which were made from photographs taken expressly for this purpose. The edition is strictly limited to 300 copies. All of those for the English market have been already subscribed for, a few copies only having been secured by Macmillan & Co. for the American market. It is interesting to note that the actual cost of manufacture of these copies is said to be something over $10.00 each. * * * $2000 and $1000 to loan, or first mortgages bought. W. T. AN EXPERT'S TALE

Cosmetics Are Costly and a Former Manufacturer Makes An Open Confession.

The "Bloom of Youth" Comes High, But Most Women Must Have It.

What High Sounding Balms, Rouges, Powders and Hair Dyes Are Composed Of.

IF EVERY woman who buys cosmetics knew how outrageously she was cheated in the value of them her righteous indignation would do more to stop the sale of those things than the clearest knowledge of the dangerous drugs they contain and the peculiar injury to health and beauty they inflict.

The writer of this was at one time engaged in the preparation and sale of cosmetics, and therefore knows exactly what each and every one of their costs to prepare and what the women pay for them. And now probably for the first time will the truth be told regarding the ingredients used in the most prominent of such articles and the danger attending the use of each.

First come the various "blooms, balms and lotions," each with its title and imaginary history and high sounding recommendations. These are divided into two classes—the bad and the very bad. The first, an eight ounce bottle, will contain 2 1/2 ounces rosewater and five of distilled water, and half an ounce of light oxide of zinc. This must be shaken and applied to the face, and, while not immediately harmful, dries and shrivels the skin eventually, so that one must keep on using it. This costs for bottle, wrapper, stopper, ribbon and box eight cents, and for rosewater and zinc about the same, so that sixteen cents is the actual cost of what women willingly pay two dollars for. The very bad are made in the same way, only with less rosewater and with common flake white, which is pure lead. This sells for the same price, two dollars, and costs less. A few drops of ammonia will turn this black. The effect is that it shrivels the skin soon, and is liable to bring an attack of lead palsy, or partial paralysis of the muscles of the face and eyelids, as well as regular symptoms of lead poisoning of the whole body, and death.

Another "balm" has as foundation a white powder containing arsenic in solution, which soon induces dropsical swelling and frequently death. This costs twelve cents and sells for two dollars.

The "creams" all without exception contain lead, zinc or bismuth as a whitener, with lard and olive oil to hold it to creamlike consistency, and they set about ten cents per pot (pretty pots, with dainty ribbons) and sell from $1.25 to $1.50 apiece. The lead and zinc are most often used, as bismuth is a little dearer. It is also finer and more delicate, but soon turns to a violet or ashen color on the face if exposed to gas or smoke.

Eye-brow pencils are made of mutton tallow and lampblack, cost one-half cent apiece and sell for twenty-five cents to one dollar, according to the conscience of the dealer. Eyelid darkeners have belladonna in them to enlarge the pupils, and they cost one dollar to buy, perhaps one cent to make. The use of these is bound to destroy the sight in a short time.

Rouge is made of carmine saucers, the cream of red ink and aniline red, and costs about 4 1/2 cents in pretty bottles, and always brings $1 to $2 if a very high sounding name is added. Indelible rouge is made by soaking alkanet root in alcohol. An ounce bottle of this would cost, all finished, about 4 cents. Sells for $1.50. Rouge does not seem to do any constitutional injury, but does not look refined on anybody.

Powder for the face is made of various things, among them magnesia, powdered egg shells, rice flour, flake white, dry oxide of zinc, fuller's earth, starch, bismuth and a mixture of two or three of these same things combined. Magnesia and flake white are the two most injurious of the lot. The latter is made of rice flour and bismuth, with a little glycerine to make it sticky. All powders sell well for from 25 cents to $1.50 a box. The cost is nominal.

There are several "face bleaches" on the market, every one dangerous. Some of them are made of the corrosive sublimate of mercury, some of arsenical compounds and one is made of the same fluid that embalmers use to bleach the faces of the dead. The cost of these is never more, advertising included, than fifteen cents per bottle, and women willingly pay two dollars a bottle. I have known of three cases of salivation and two of blood poisoning and one of the burning off of the whole skin of the face by the use of these vile compounds.

In whatever other way a woman may be economical, she is not in the buying of cosmetics. She never haggles at the price and the more one asks the better she considers the stuff. She will stint herself on necessities to buy these abominations.

The hair dyes all have nitrate of silver or nitrate of nickel in them, and they cost to produce less than ten cents and sell for $1.50 to $3. The bleaches have powerful alkaloids and will destroy the vitality of the hair, and often the use of the bleaches brings on stubborn scalp diseases, besides injuring the eyesight. Bleaches cost almost nothing beyond the bottles they come in and sell from one dollar to five dollars, according to the "style" of the store.

Nail polishers are made of a little balsam of tolu in a small bottle with a tiny brush. With this the tolu is painted on the finger nails and left to dry. It costs five cents and brings $1.50 and more.

One of the greatest humbugs is the "skin food," which consists of a little hypophosphites and codliver oil mixed with arsenic. This is rubbed into the skin after it has been steamed until the pores are open. The oil and arsenic penetrate by being rubbed in, and create a dropsical condition, which at first makes the skin look fair and plump and smooth. The massage which goes with this treatment is often paid for with checks of a thousand dollars. The use of arsenic in this manner is told of by George Elbers in his "Egyptian Princess," and it is now, as it always was, another form of arsenical poisoning.

Codliver oil has been made the basis of several creams and balms for the development of form, as it will fatten by absorption, but when twenty-five cents' worth is mixed with a little beeswax to give it consistency and cochineal for color, it sells readily for five dollars a pot.

An effectual deodorizer and antiperspirator is made of an ounce of alum pulverized and sold in a box for one dollar. This is also good for an "instantaneous wrinkle remover," and will under that name be worth two dollars a bottle, dissolved in pure water.

The depilatories are legion, and there are now few women who have reached the age of thirty who haven't an incipient mustache, or at least some coarse hairs on chin or cheek. One is made of corrosive sublimate of mercury, another of the inspissated juice of the Indian turnip, another of urate of ammonia and quicklime, another of corrosive potash, and one is a block of burgundy pitch and sealing wax. This last is to be melted, plastered on the face hot, fanned till cool and pulled off, when the hairs come too. The others are pasted over the skin, and they eat the hairs off, and sometimes the skin too. These cost next to nothing and sell from one cent to ten dollars, according to the fears of punishment after death of the dealer.

There are toothpastes, shampoo soaps and curlines, and a thousand other things aside from the manure sets and lotions, and not one of them costs a tenth of what they sell for.

New Outer Costumes.

The races and coaching parties now are the occasions of the display of the rarest toilettes, and by what is worn by the ladies who go is a style set.

Two new summer outdoor costumes are marvels in their way and were much admired. One is of pearl gray Japanese crape, made up over a foundation slightly wadded and sewn at intervals all over with imitation pearls. The bottom had a reversed puff, over which fell a narrow but real lace flounce, headed by a pink ribbon. The corsage was like the skirt and made without darts, and the upper part of the sleeves were of maize crepe de chine, with a finish of pink ribbon. The hat was quite directorie in gray and pink.

The other toilette was of lilac faille, embroidered in pink and green around the edges, and with two narrow moss green satin ribbons sewn on flat. The inner corsage had a vest front of faille, and an open coat lined with corn colored satin. It was cut with a plain campanella skirt. A tiny bonnet, with large imitation jewels around the brim and shaded feathers, completed the whole, with a white faille and lace parasol.

For walking dresses for early morning gray is used more than any other color, and there are many shades. Light woolsens and very quietly figured China silks and satines are the materials most often employed. For carriage, grenadine is much seen, all covered with lace and ribbons.

Almost all underskirts and other underwear are made of glace or China silk, the Frenchwoman at last relinquishing the delicate white laces, ruffles and embroideries that have been a part of herself so long. The skirts are of light or dark silk, as happens to please for the moment.

EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior:—Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Dr. Speer, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself.

He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Ever thing he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulted would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the leg and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I lo upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased give any further information to anyone calling upon me.

A NIGHT OF PEACE

Bill Nye Says, However, That It Wasn't Quite That, and He Tells Why.

He Loves the Country, But As a Sleeping Place It Might Be Improved.

Horseback Riding and What It May Tend To—Riley's Letter From Duluth.

[Copyright, 1892, by Edgar W. Nye.]
BUCK SHOALS, N. C., June.
A night in the country is one of the most restful things I know of or the tired mind. I came here with that idea. I needed rest. I had been troubled with insomnia.

PULLED THE FITCHER OVER.

Some of them I sent to the Browning club, at Boston, where they are being fitted up. I had intended at first to try New York, but Anthony Comstock never took his clothes off for ten nights, but sat up at the Pennsylvania depot watching every train and ready to hop on the first bare thought I dared to send in for suitable drapery.

So I was nervous and especially wakeful. I came here into the piney forest where a metropolitan sound would be a wonder. I retired early, for I was tired of travel and gorged with man's adulation.

Oh, rock me to sleep, mother, Rock me to sleep!
I exclaimed.

Fretty soon a whippoorwill started up right close to the house. If I had not been nervous I would not have noticed it, but as I was I got sort of irritated, for he went into it so much harder than anybody wanted him to. He had gone steadily on all night I could have slept, but he did not. He had an impediment in his remarks, and sometimes he would quit right in the middle of the word and I could almost grow mad waiting for him to finish it.

Then the clock in the library struck. It does not strike right, and I wondered how far off it was, so I got up like a tall, white, rectified spirit and began to reach for a match. I have two match holders in my room, so that when one is empty I can always fall back on the other.

I fell back on the other almost the first thing I did. I stepped in a flaxseed poultice and tracked it around over the room while feeling for the match safe with outstretched hands, between which I generally had the edge of a door. The first safe I found after a good deal of delay and annoyance, but it only had the other end of two matches—not the bad end. After I had tried both of them in the usual manner, forgetting that the trousers on which I had generally ignited my matches were on a chair in another part of the room, I began once more to feel around the room for the other match safe, ever and anon crossing my old flaxseed poultice trail.

By and by I judged that I had struck the locality, for I was in the neighborhood of the fireplace. I could smell the old embers. I began to grope, and succeeded in getting both arms up the flue quite a long distance before I knew by the soft, nice feeling of the soot where I was. Then I went back and tried it over again, falling over a chair that had pillow shams on it. In the morning I could see where I fell over the pillow shams and saved myself with my grumpy hands.

I now tried the wall, groping along with some care and an occasional dab of soot till I knocked down a picture on a rich and knobby Sevres vase which I kept calamus root in. I will have to keep my calamus root in something else hereafter.

pricer. I tried to get them out quick, before they got wet, and so pulled the pitcher over on the floor. As the water ran down through the floor upon a friend who is visiting us and paying his board, he rose and followed up the stream. When he got to where I was he told me what o'clock it was and then went to bed again.

So did I.
The whippoorwill once more opened up and played his tune over and over again till I put on an old pair of ear muffs and stuck my head into the bedding as far as I could, but I could not get the noise out.

Then at 1 o'clock an old rooster at the barn seemed to have something on his mind and began to crow till he was black in the face. I was not very hungry for breakfast, but I managed to eat the second joint of that rooster. I wanted it raw, with the feathers on, but the family thought it would be better fried a little on the outside.

After the rooster an early bird began a roundelay, and a pack of hounds near us made a few statements, lasting till 4 o'clock; then I was just getting sleepy from actual exhaustion when two cats fell on the roof from a great height, possibly out of some other planet, I judged, and began to bite off and spit out fragments of each other. They did that till the whippoorwill got good and rested.

Then he took up the exercises and attended to business until the servants began to get up and open the house preparatory to ushering in a gladsome new day.

The country is full of rest and repose and longevity, they tell me, but they are confined largely to deaf people and cows.

During the past week I have been resting quietly and noiselessly trying to grow together again. Two weeks ago I began horseback riding at the suggestion of my physician, who is a thoroughly good man and senior warden and tyler in our church here.

Today my pulse is normal. Respiration noticeable. Temperature 73 1/2.

My physician reports some abrasions and one severe concussion of the cornice. He says that if I had been fatter there would have been a number of flesh wounds.

I was trying my new riding habit from Boston. My riding habit was formed there. But where I erred was in trying the habit without blinding the horse. You can't come into full bloom that way all of a sudden on a horse that has had no advantages and who has never been accustomed to a great big burst of loveliness.

So we came home from the trial by different roads. When my wife saw the palfrey coming home wearing the saddle over his stomach, she said that it was just like me to send home the horse draped that way just to please the dear ones before I got there myself.

My fall reminded me very much of Adam's, it was so sudden and so hard. I fell more painfully than the author of "Beautiful Snow," but I can overcome it in society quicker. It was the most painful thing that has happened since the war, and inside of twenty minutes I met all the people of North and South Carolina with whom I am acquainted, besides seventy or eighty from New York, who are here for their health and watching to see better people fall off their horses.

I have always said that the roads here should be macadamized, but if they can be upholstered at the same price it would suit me better.

This horse grew up on the frontier, and is a sort of self made horse. Civilization scares him almost to death. So he unseated me as though I had been the snarling delegate of a rump convention. I still remain so.

A correspondent from Ocala wants to know which, in my judgment, is Walt Whitman's most enjoyable poem.

Without hesitation I would say that the most enjoyable one, because the only one, barring "My Captain," perhaps, which I can understand without overstimulating myself, is one containing the following:

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self contained. I stand and look at them long and long. They do not sweat and whine about their condition. They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins. They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God.

Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the mania of owning things; Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago. Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.

It is no more poetry, perhaps, than the annual tax list for 1892, but it has ideas in it, and ideas are going to hurt no man.

Poetry is a queer thing. I enjoy it where I find it unconventional and from the heart. Mr. Riley writes me from Duluth, and drops into poetry so gently and so gracefully that I must run the risk of vexing him by quoting a page from his letter.

"But," he writes, "what shall I tell you of my first impression of America as I set foot on Duluth soil—or in it rather—for it is raining still, as it has been for the last few months, in a way that seems very hard to overcome. Albeit, as Brother Brightwaters might cheerily remark:

"Oh! what so grand as a May day scene? The fields is green and the woods is green, And the skies is soft as the cooling dove You have heard so lightly spoken of."

"Back several miles from here I began to note evidence of northern latitude, as compared with that so recently left in Indiana. For instance, although I had three pairs of underclothing, I noted with regret that I was wearing two pairs of them in my grip and not where my third pair was growing, oh, so cold and distant. Then quite a few knit jackets on low, soggy and sinister passengers began to appear, who talked in unaccustomed tongues and with a dialect that smelled fishy and of a sort of glittery yellow-whisky tang that never yet was seen on sea or land. Also at the stations along the route began to appear the object which the curious tourist first takes for a dead cow imperfectly buried, but which upon nearer approach proves to be our old friend with the buffalo overcoat that oftentimes barks and snarls at our acute sensibilities as we jolt onward with the grand march of civilization. But the dear old bovine overcoat is going!

"It is sweating awa', Jean, Like snow when it's thaw, Jean, And its haunches are a', Jean, As bald as the tomb!"
"There's cark there and care, Jean, And wear and tear there, Jean, But there's noughty little hair, Jean, Unlocked up the flume!"

"This word is a little obscure in the original, but looks some like 'decided' or 'denied,' but evidently is neither of these. B. N. Poetry like this does not bear the marks of the coldchisel, and the smell of blasting powder is not on it, but oh! how truthful it is! How the buffalo overcoat of the northwest, with red flannel lining to it, and the odor of the tepee and the dead and unchlorided past rises up before the eye of one as one reads these simple yet truthful lines to one's self.

"Hold up them hands!"
The train robber held his revolver pointed at the head of the only passenger in the car who had not complied with the stern command.

"Hold 'em up," he repeated, "or I'll blow the whole top o' yer head off!"
"I would if I could," quietly replied the pale but self possessed passenger, looking down at his empty sleeves, "but I haven't seen them for nearly twenty-nine years. I left them on the field of Gettysburg."

Off came the hat of the murderous villain and there was a huskiness in his voice as he said: "I beg your pardon, sir! I wouldn't hurt a hair of your head for the whole United States," and passed on to the next man.

"You look young to have been a soldier in 1863," said a fellow traveler after the robber had cleaned out the train and gone.

"Me?" replied the other. "I wasn't ten years old in 1863. I never saw Gettysburg. I was born this way. But I'm ahead about $250 on this little game."

And the Armless Wonder of the Wash deftly took a gold watch out of his vest pocket with his toes, noted the time of day and said he guessed the train was an hour late at the dinner station and he was getting mighty hungry.

"It Does Not Always Follow."
A schoolboy handed in a written medical certificate to excuse his nonattendance. "I certify," the medical authority was made to say, "that this boy is unfit to attend school for 304 days." The schoolmaster thought it odd, the infirmary being so long and, at the same time, so particular in its date; and upon inquiry it turned out that the doctor had written "three or four" days, which the boy had altered to 304.—Arzomant.

What Columbus Owes to Chicago.
Columbus was a grand old man, Who lived long years ago; And if the sea had other shores' He had a mind to know.

He sailed the ocean blue, he did; No sailor was so game, And if it had been pluck he would Have sailed it just the same.

He made an egg stand on its end, As some historians tell, And then he got a daisy mash On good Queen Isabel.

"I'm sold now," quoth Christopher, As high he tossed his cap, "And I will find America Or bust a britchin strap."

So off he sailed from Palos town, He sailed by day and night, Until one morn a sailor man Remark'd, "There's land in sight!"

Columbus climbed the quarter deck And looked across the sea, Then whooped a whoop, "You're off, you're off, it's out of sight," said he.

He missed awhile in thought profound; Said he: "This beats the Dutch! So this is that America I've heard about much!"

Columbus later went ashore And, with condescending pride, He wrote a begging letter to Chicago, Illinois.

Then, in response to his request, Chicago wrote again, And sent him all the wind he wished To blow him back to Spain.

Latest Reports That the Anti-Cleveland Men Have Centered on Horizontal Bill.

Already They Are Claiming 420 Votes In Sight, Leaving 480 for Cleveland.

The Movement Headed By Watterson, Who Expects to Swing Kentucky Into Line.

Missouri, However, Finally Decided to Cast Its Solid Vote for Grover Cleveland.

CHICAGO, June 20, 2:20 p. m.—It is Morrison now. Gorman has practically withdrawn, failing to receive the written assurance he demanded. The anti-Cleveland men have now centered on "Horizontal Bill" Morrison, of Illinois, and claim 420 votes in sight, leaving Cleveland 480. The Morrison movement began in the Arkansas and Missouri delegations. Rogers and Senator Jones, of Arkansas, have already been amongst Morrison's most strenuous supporters, and they have been quietly but actively at work with the Southern delegations, aided by Catchings, of Mississippi.

The Missouri delegation, led by ex-Congressman Clardy, have been struggling all morning to free themselves from the unit rule, and at 2 p. m. Mr. Clardy was hopeful that they would succeed and that the vote of Missouri would go to Morrison. Henry Watterson is heading the movement and expects to swing Kentucky into line. The Ohio delegation, it is claimed as the result of a protracted session and an informal poll of the delegates, will cast thirty-two votes for Morrison and fourteen for Cleveland.

WILLIAM R. MORRISON.

Similar accessions of strength are expected from all the states where tariff reform has been made the leading issue. The silver men have not yet been heard from but they are so bitter in the opposition to Cleveland that their twenty-five votes are counted upon as a matter of course. A good deal of caucusing has been going on during the morning between the Illinois and New York delegations, each asking the other to take the lead in swinging around in the direction of the new anti-Cleveland boom. At the present writing each is waiting on the other.

Nevertheless the Morrison shouters, without exhibiting any tables, persist in the assertion that they have 420 votes in sight. The New York delegation in the Hill quarters did not understand that the swing was towards Morrison but asserted that Gorman had allowed Maryland, his own state, to drop him out, thus putting him out of the race. With Gorman out, whom they expected to support after Mr. Hill was out of the race, the New York men would pursue their former tactics and support Mr. Morrison by their influence but not by their votes until after the first ballot.

"I am afraid we are goners," said a Tammany man at the door of the New York headquarters late this afternoon. "The whole of Gorman's vote cannot be obtained by Morrison, and Cleveland may get enough to nominate him on the first ballot."

Later—the final action of the Missouri delegation has knocked thirty-four votes out of the Morrison compilation. At 2:30, after two hours and a quarter of the hottest kind of debate, the Missouri delegation decided to stand by the unit rule and instructed their chairman to cast the solid vote of Missouri for Cleveland.

SUPPORTED BY LABOR.

Letter for Hill from the New York State Labor Assembly.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The first manifesto issued this morning was from the Hill headquarters. It was a copy of a communication addressed to Chairman Murphy officially under date of June 12, by Thomas J. Dowling, president of the New York state trade assembly, an organization of 300,000 workers. In this communication Mr. Dowling says that he is directed by the officers of the state trade assembly to call attention to the fact that Governor Hill, while chief executive of New York from 1885 to 1892, was the friend of organized labor, and was heartily supported by the workmen in his campaign.

The communication calls attention to what Governor Hill did for the cause of labor in his appointments and in his endorsement of labor measures. It pledges him the hearty support of the working men if he is nominated for president, and asks Mr. Murphy to impress upon the delegations of other states that the workmen of this assembly and other kindred organizations will see to it that he carries New York as the Democratic labor candidate. Not only this, but Mr. Dowling says that he will receive the support of organized labor in every state of the union. Of this Mr. Dowling says he is positive from letters that he has received from labor organizations. They are irrevocably opposed to Cleveland, he says, and say that if he is nominated a national labor candidate will be put in the field.

Congressman Cummings says that this opens up a new issue in the canvass, and a very serious one. Mr. Dowling, he says, is perfectly right when he says that the possibility of a third party candidate should be avoided. Mr. Hill, he says, represents the workmen of New York, and that should be enough to make him the candidate of the workmen of the other states.

At 1 o'clock Lieut. Governor Sheehan of New York was asked if there was any improvement in the situation so far as Mr. Hill was concerned. He said: "Our policy has been, and will be, to work quietly and not flaunt our gains before the other delegations. We believe, however, that Hill's chances have been materially strengthened each hour and continue to get stronger."

One of the men on the inside who heard this statement said: "The New York delegation is throwing its strength and doing its work in two directions: first, to distribute the first ballot so as to preclude any possibility of Mr. Cleveland being nominated on the first ballot, and second, to concentrate and get enough votes to either nominate Hill on the second ballot or make him a most formidable candidate. The New York delegation has secured a vast number of Cleveland adherents to pledge themselves to vote for Hill after the first ballot."

W. Hinckley said, when asked for information: "We have nothing to say at present. In a couple of days, perhaps by Tuesday, we shall be in a position to talk and give out some statements that will not be disputed. Edward Murphy said, when asked for information: "Everything is satisfactory to us. By tonight we may be ready to give you some information that will prove of interest to Mr. Hill's friends, and rather discouraging to his enemies."

WHAT GORMAN WANTED.

He Demanded Distinct Assurances of Sufficient Support.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Gorman demands distinct assurances of support from both the Hill and Cleveland men before he will permit his name to go before the convention. This is his ultimatum and this was the situation at 12:30 o'clock. "I believe in practical politics," he said to one of the anti-Cleveland men who was pressing him to declare himself. "Wordy assurances amount to little in the practical affairs of politics; pledges in black and white speak."

A conference of the Hill and Cleveland leaders with Senator Gorman has been in progress at the Palmer house since 1 o'clock. It began with Gorman, Ransom, of North Carolina; William C. Whitney, Grover Cleveland's manager, and Lieut. Governor Sheehan, one of Hill's right hand men, and Henry Watterson. It had only been in progress a few minutes when Mr. Whitney came out and made a bee-line for the headquarters of the Tammany men. Apparently his mission was successful for boss Croker and Chairman Murphy soon made their appearance and were at once shown into the room as if they were expected.

RICHARD CROKER.

Meantime the hour of the meeting of the national committee approached, and Henry Watterson and Senator Ransom came out and passed into the adjoining room to sustain the action of the joint sub-committee in reaffirming the selection of Owens, of Kentucky, as temporary chairman. Mr. Ransom said he could form no idea of how soon the conference, whose presence he had left, would agree upon a plan of joint action, or whether they could come to any arrangement at all. "One thing is certain," he added, "Cleveland can carry North Carolina, and we have to agree upon somebody who can carry New York."

Just before this conference opened, Senator Brice, of Ohio, called on Senator Gorman, and remained closeted with him for half an hour. It was thought that out of this conference would come the announcement of Gorman's candidacy. There was a disappointment for the anxious watchers, however, for when Mr. Brice had closed his conversation with Mr. Gorman, the Maryland senator remained as dumb as he has been ever since he came to Chicago. From his silence, however, the story quickly grew that he had rejected last night's overtures of the anti-Cleveland people, and this story was in part confirmed by some members of the Maryland delegation. They said that when Mr. Brice called on Mr. Gorman last night, he assured them that if he would allow the use of his name he would receive 400 votes on the first ballot, the concentration of the anti-Cleveland vote. This assurance does not seem to have tempted Mr. Gorman very strongly, for Senator Gibson, who has acted as Mr. Gorman's spokesman, said at noon today that it was not probable that Mr. Gorman would allow the use of his name unless he had some greater assurance of strength, as he feared that he might suffer the fate of McKinley at Minneapolis.

PRENTICE KNOCKED OUT.

Important Decision by Judge Nelson in the United States.

ST. PAUL, June 20.—[Special to The Herald.]—An important decision was given by Judge Nelson in the United States court this afternoon in the case of the Duluth Storage & Forwarding company against Frederick D. Prentice, involving title to much valuable land in the heart of Duluth. A decree was ordered for the complainant.

THE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

Owens, of Kentucky, Will be Named by the Committee.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The sub-committee of the national Democratic convention, to which was delegated the selecting a temporary chairman at the convention, met this morning at Palmer house, preliminary to the meeting of the full committee, and agreed upon the name of W. C. Owens, of Kentucky. This is the name selected Saturday. At that time the opposition to the selection of Owens, which came from the Cleveland men, was so pronounced that the sub-committee decided to postpone final action until today.

It is practically determined that the national committee at its meeting will confirm this choice. Unless the Cleveland men change their minds before tomorrow noon, there will be a contest for the temporary chairmanship. They have determined to put up Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, and to leave the choice between the two men to the convention. There is no doubt that the Cleveland men have a majority in the convention and therefore it seems likely that Mr. Wilson will be the temporary chairman.

THE HILL MEN ACTIVE.

Their Plan of Campaign Still Remains Aggressive.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The early morning sentiment in the New York delegation is decidedly Gormanish; not a member of the delegation but is still positive in his allegiance to Hill, but they are willing to admit that New York might think quite favorably of Gorman's candidacy if Hill were out of the way. State Treasurer Danforth, who is one of the hardest workers for Hill, was asked the situation in a meeting and declared that Hill was gaining in strength. "What is the sentiment in the delegation relative to Mr. Gorman?" was asked by the United Press representative.

"Gorman is a man against whom no Democrat could have a personal prejudice, and I have no doubt that he would pull out New York's full Democratic vote. Gorman is especially strong in the South. He can have every Southern delegate if he shows any strength in the convention."

GOVERNOR FLOWER.

"Will New York give him her seventy-four votes in case Mr. Hill cannot be nominated?"

"We are for Hill as a unit; but, as I before remarked, Gorman is not distasteful to the New York delegation."

Mr. Danforth is a delegate and one of this morning's active in the delegation. He is an enthusiastic Hill man, and in view of all this his utterances are significant. Chairman Murphy, Delegates-at-large Slocum and Sheehan and Governor Flower were up early this morning. Mr. Flower was in the committee rooms at 9 o'clock and found Murphy up giving orders. The plan of campaign of the day was laid out by 10 o'clock. It is still an aggressive one. According to Lieut. Governor Sheehan, the work today, like that of preceding days, is to get votes for Hill or for favorite sons who will draw from Cleveland's strength. "And it is simply an aggressive one," said Murphy this morning. "Mr. Cleveland has not over 400 votes at the outside."

"What are your figures?"

"We will display them on the first ballot."

"Has New York made or is it contemplating a deal with Mr. Gorman's support?"

"No, we are for Mr. Hill. Of course we are doing our best to get doubtful states in our column, but we shall make no deal that will mean the withdrawal of Senator Hill."

The missionary work laid out for the day was chiefly with the Pennsylvania and Illinois delegations. It was admitted that the unit rule would prevail in Pennsylvania and the work with that delegation was in the direction to persuading it to vote for Pattison and, after fulfilling the unit pledge, to vote for Hill. The first visitors to the New York headquarters were five Pennsylvanians and they were closeted with Murphy and Flower for a full half hour. Following them came several Illinois men and later Indiana. The usual reticence regarding the effect of the work on these people was preserved, and no particular progress is noted.

FIRST IRON RAM

The Dreaded and Destructive Merrimac and Her Daring Raid On a Union Fleet.

Was the Offspring of a Dreamer's Brain and of Poverty Stricken Workshops.

Although No Beauty, She Revolutionized the Methods of Fighting At Sea.

EFFERSON DAVIS and his colleagues were not slow to see that they had a first class war on hand, and that the Confederacy would need a David to down the northern Goliath, some miracle, some monster of fabulous power to make weight and even things up for the weak little end of the divided Union.

The monster, for such she proved to be, had nothing to brag of as a sailing beauty. She looked like the roof of a house afloat. Her construction was of the most primitive kind, such as a people in desperate straits could bring about.

In order to economize in time and money the projector of the Merrimac ram fished the hull of the former United States screw frigate Merrimac from the bottom of the Elizabeth river at Norfolk, where she had been sunk, after firing and scuttling, by a Union expedition early in the war.

The upper ends of the shield planking did not come together by about twenty feet, and the opening between them was covered with a grating that served as a ventilator to the chambers below and also as a promenade deck. Over the shield planking was bolted four inches of rolled iron in two layers, the under layer running horizontally, the outer one up and down the slope.

The propelling power of the old hull was the weakest part of her. The engines had been condemned before the war, and the fire and a long soaking in the salt water as she lay submerged, hadn't improved them. In fact the Confederates had condemned the old thing for all practical purposes in the navy, but considered her a cheap plan to let the "cranks" tinker with.

The designer and constructor of the ram was John L. Porter, an old United States naval officer, who had carried the plan of an ironclad shield for war vessels in his head for years before the Confederacy was thought of. Another factor was Lieut. John R. Brooke, who laid the plating and also prepared the armament for the monster battery.

IN COLLISION WITH THE CUMBERLAND. Machinery and cannon, while the vessel should be fighting her way up to an enemy to give a finishing thrust with that terrific beak.

March, 1862, and people up north, who depended upon long range gossip to enlighten them, concluded that she was a myth, and southern folks, who saw good iron, rare gold and many solid days' work going into her and no output, set her down as a fizzle.

So when she stemmed from Norfolk into Hampton Roads on March 8 she had a fair show to give the public on both sides of the line a sensation. Hampton Roads is a waterway between the lower end of Chesapeake bay and the mouth of James river.

The Confederacy occupied the southern shore with batteries, the North the northern shores with forts and batteries and war vessels was lined at. When the Merrimac steamed into the Roads five Union vessels lay just across the main channel, the 30-gun sloop Cumberland and the 50-gun frigate Congress at Newport News, and six miles east, off Fortress Monroe, the 48-gun frigates Minnesota and Roanoke and the 50-gun frigate St. Lawrence.

This order hadn't reached its destination at noon of the 8th, and on board the Cumberland and Congress the sailors washed their clothes were drying in the rigging and their boats were swinging from the booms when the ram hove in sight. Things changed in a twinkling, however, when a pillar of black smoke was seen rising out of the Elizabeth river and a strange craft steamed from under the Confederate batteries and headed for Newport News.

The Cumberland continued in action nearly an hour. When hailed to strike colors her commander, Lieut. Morris, shouted, "Never, I'll sink alongside!" She was leaking badly all of this time and her crew was driven by the rising water to the upper decks and there continued firing from the deck guns.

The Congress tried to avoid the fate of her consort and escape, but she grounded and the Merrimac ran up to within 200 yards and riddled her with shells. Her commander, Lieut. J. P. Smith, was killed, and her scappers ran blood, her crew was being slaughtered with no chance to retaliate, and her officers displayed the white flag.

The Merrimac started to meet the Minnesota, but the latter grounded in water where the Confederate pilot feared to risk his vessel. The frigates Roanoke and St. Lawrence were not at all shy in scarping acquaintances with the new product of the Norfolk navy yard and were on the scene about the time the Minnesota grounded.

The ram fired at all three alternately, giving each a substantial memento of the first ironclad. All three valiantly tried to return the compliment, and hurled broadside after broadside that rolled off the Merrimac's roof like so much hail. What the end would have been with a few hours daylight no one can tell.

The smokestack was gone, likewise one anchor. Davits, stanchions, railings and steam pipes were all gone, and the flag, during the last half of the battle, floated from a boarding pike. But the monster was a monster still. Eight of her re-erected cannon and their crews were in fighting trim, and the iron shield about them was perhaps a little better for being rubbed smooth by the shot and shell that had rained upon it only to glance off.

The north was paralyzed when the news flashed along the wires that the Merrimac was actually riding over the wrecks of the sinking Cumberland and the burning Congress and steering for the rest of the fleet. Secretary Stanton exclaimed before the cabinet at Washington: "The Merrimac will change the whole character of the war, she will destroy, or burn, every naval vessel; she will lay all the cities on the seaboard under contribution. Not unlikely we shall have a shell or cannon ball from one of her guns in the White House before we leave this room."

H. J. SPEER, M. D.

Of the Firm of Dr. Speer and Co. Has established his head office, in the New York Block corner Tower Avenue and Front Street West Superior, Wis. Dr. Speer is a graduate of the medical department of Harvard University class of '74, and is registered in both hemispheres as such.

EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior--Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw by the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Dr. Speer. He, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself.

He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Every thing he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulte would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the back and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I too upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased to give any further information to anyone calling upon me. JAMES RILEY, Night watchman at Merrill & Ring's saw mill, First avenue, Third street south West Duluth.

THE SECRETARYSHIP OF STATE.

Chauncey M. Depew has attained a high reputation as an orator. He has likewise displayed ability in the management of a great railroad. But he has never had a seat in either branch of congress, and although many years ago he sat in the New York legislature he did not display any marked legislative ability. He was secretary of state of New York for one term, and later when he became a candidate for lieutenant-governor he was snubbed under at the polls. This was twenty years ago, and since that time Mr. Depew has not held any public office, although he was an unsuccessful candidate for United States senator at the time of Platt and Conkling's resignation. His time has been principally devoted to railroad work and post-prandial speeches.

Mr. Depew has never exhibited any marked qualities of statesmanship, and his views upon the important issues of the day are indistinct and not clearly defined. It is true he is a protectionist and opposed to the free silver heresy, and in these respects subscribes to two cardinal principles of the Republican party, but there is nothing to show the reason of the faith that is in him. He has never made any argument in support of either principle that will be recalled by the public. Never having occupied a seat in congress, the people of the country have never regarded him as the possessor of those qualities which are sought in a member of the cabinet. In the public estimation he is simply a good speaker, and nothing more.

It is therefore somewhat surprising that to Mr. Depew should be offered the office of secretary of state, an office second only in importance to the presidency, and a position which demands statesmanlike abilities and diplomatic shrewdness. It may be that Mr. Depew is well equipped in these respects, but he has yet to demonstrate it to the country. The general understanding in political circles has been that Mr. Depew is anxious to be sent as minister to England, and it may be that the president has tendered him the secretaryship of state merely as a mark of honor, and with the understanding that he will decline it. It is just possible that then Robert T. Lincoln will be recalled from England to become secretary of state, and that Mr. Depew will secure the position that he covets.

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT.

The Tribune is much perturbed in spirit over what it calls "Stearns county nerve," the awful offense of the Republicans of that county being that they are working to secure the congressional nomination for Judge D. B. Searle. The Tribune's assumed indignation is no doubt right and proper in its advocacy of Mr. Kendall's claims to the nomination, but at the same time it is the fault of the Tribune and its friends that Stearns county has a candidate in the field for the Republican nomination.

Had the Republicans of St. Louis county followed the Herald's advice and elected a delegation in favor of a strong candidate, the Tribune would not now be complaining of "Stearns county check," because Judge Searle would not have been a candidate. Had St. Louis county Republicans presented a strong and able candidate like Col. C. H. Graves, the Stearns county people, seeing the hopelessness of a contest, would not have entered the race. It is the very weakness of the candidate selected by the St. Louis county Republicans that has caused a fight for the nomination. It is but natural that the people of Stearns county should seize such a fine opportunity to walk off with the nomination, and under these circumstances, they can hardly be fairly charged with "nerve" or "check" in taking such action. All is fair in love, war and politics, and Stearns county Republicans have a perfect right to seek this nomination if they see a chance of securing it.

This demonstration of the weakness of the Republican candidate from St. Louis county again emphasizes the duty of the Democrats of the Sixth district. If they are wise they will nominate a Duluth man of character and ability. In that event they can count upon the votes of a large independent Republican vote in St. Louis county, which cannot be obtained by a Democratic candidate from another section of the district. Duluth is anxious to have a congressman from this city who will prove an able representative of the district, and it must now look to the Democrats to provide a suitable candidate.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Bohemian Girl." "Amorita" was sung by the Miller-Calhoun Opera company Saturday evening to another good audience and gave excellent satisfaction. It was a warm audience, too, and encores were frequent. Tonight the company will present that ever charming opera "Bohemian Girl." This opera never fails to attract a popular audience and it will be given a fine production by the Miller-Calhoun company. The Warner sisters will have a new dance in this.

Williams at the Temple. Gus Williams drew a large audience at the Temple Saturday evening and gave a good show although he constitutes the whole of it. His wit keeps the crowd in a roar and he can move his hearers as easily in his pathetic scenes as his singing is good and his burlesque piano solo was especially clever.

The Fast Mail. Lincoln J. Carter's superb scenic production of "The Fast Mail," which will be presented at the Temple tomorrow evening, by an excellent company, is one of the most successful plays put upon the stage in recent years. The story is thrilling, and justice is done the startling and realistic scenes by a perfection of mechanism.

Next Wednesday. The annual council of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of St. Paul convenes in St. Paul's church on Wednesday at 10 o'clock. There will be about seventy-five clergymen and the same number of laymen in attendance. Holy communion will be celebrated Wednesday morning by Bishop Whipple.

The Annual Council. Episcopal Diocesan Convention Next Wednesday. The annual council of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of St. Paul convenes in St. Paul's church on Wednesday at 10 o'clock. There will be about seventy-five clergymen and the same number of laymen in attendance. Holy communion will be celebrated Wednesday morning by Bishop Whipple.

Schilling's Address. Robert Schilling addressed a good sized audience at the city hall Saturday evening in the interest of the People's party of which he is the national committee secretary. He attacked the radicalism in his usual radical manner. He declared that foreigners held the bonds of the railroad companies and at the rate the interest is being paid they will soon own the roads themselves. Therefore, he argued that the government ought to secure control of the railroads. He also gave A. C. Parsons, the People's party candidate for congress, a good send-off.

Council Meeting Tonight. The council meets this evening. The business will be mostly routine and it will hardly be a long meeting. The license question will be presented and referred and the question of what to put in the box which goes into the corner-stone of the government building will also be brought up and probably left to a committee. It is possible that the council will not adjourn until several of the aldermen have gone to Chicago or will go this evening.

English Lutheran Synod. On Wednesday next the second annual meeting of the Northwest English Lutheran synod will commence in Duluth and delegates from twenty churches will be here. On the first day routine business will be transacted and officers elected. In the evening Rev. G. H. Gerberdige, of Fargo, will deliver a sermon. Rev. Mr. Feisen, of Chicago, will speak Thursday evening on "Foreign Missions." On Friday evening Dr. Wagner, professor of theology in the English Theological seminary at Chicago, will speak on "Education."

Whalebacks at Galveston. The daily papers of Galveston contained elaborate accounts of the arrival of the whaleback, J. L. Colby, at that city last week. This was the first whaleback to enter the Gulf of Mexico and the papers declare that the whaleback solves the question of cheap transportation of cotton.

Will Leave Soon. The board of directors of the chamber of commerce meet tomorrow morning and it is imperative that they have a full attendance. Recent advices from Washington indicate that Secretary Thompson may be needed at Washington, and it is probable that he may leave at an earlier date than anticipated. There is considerable business to be disposed of before he goes.

THREE WERE DROWNED. A Yacht Capsizes Near Detroit With Fatal Results. DETROIT, Mich., June 20.—About 5:30 p. m. yesterday the yacht Caprice with twenty-seven young people on board was capsized near Peche Island, several miles above this city near the Canadian shore. All of the party were thrown into the water and Carrie Bieber, aged 19, and Minnie Mock, aged 17, were drowned. The yacht Duke, when coming to their assistance, attempted to turn and Henry Pathow, jr., was knocked overboard by a boom and also drowned.

Depew Considering. WASHINGTON, June 20.—Chauncey M. Depew left Washington yesterday for New York. No intimation has been given by Mr. Depew whether he will accept or decline the portfolio of secretary of state. It is understood, however, that he has the matter under consideration and will probably announce his decision in a few days.

WEST DULUTH.

West Duluth office of The Herald, room 4, Shively building, where announcements etc. may be left.

Everything was bustle and excitement at this place yesterday and the customary Sunday services were but slimly attended. At an early hour Companies G. and H. were mustered, and with arms and accoutrements properly stacked, were held in readiness at their armory for orders from St. Paul. At 11 o'clock a special train was sent after the militia, but as the order from Col. Wright had not arrived, the companies could not go, although telegrams had been received from Tower asking them to come at once. A telegram was received from Col. Wright, of St. Paul, about 5:30 o'clock ordering the companies to proceed to Tower and report to Capt. Tear, of Company A, for duty and over 100 militiamen departed on the special.

Died.—Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson yesterday. Albert Strader, member of Patrolman Strader, of this place, was killed this morning at West Superior, by being run over by a switch engine while coupling cars in the yard.

Three large boats are now taking on lumber at the Mitchell-McClure dock. D. O'Connor and wife, of St. Thomas, N. D., were guests of friends at this place yesterday and left today for Pembroke, Ont., where they will reside.

Fred Prescott, of Ironwood, Mich., is visiting his parents at this place. W. B. Carlin, of the Marinette works, left Saturday for West Virginia, where he will set up one of the Prescott band mills.

Frank Nellis, an ex-fireman of this place, came up from Ashland Saturday. Charles Salter came down from his claim and will spend a few days in the metropolis.

THE WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN.

204 Perfect Words Written by Chas. H. McGurrian in One Minute. Mr. Chas. H. McGurrian again broke the world's record by writing 204 words in one minute at Kalamazoo, Mich. The phenomenal work was performed in the presence of W. A. Forbes, county clerk; Ashley Clapp, county school commissioner; A. K. Burson, circuit court clerk; Louis S. Allard, publisher; Clyde McGibney, of the Daily Telegraph. The time was kept by a stop watch. The work was sworn to by a notary public by the above named parties, and the perfect accuracy of the watch attested to.

On one trial Mr. McGurrian wrote 205 words, which was rejected inasmuch as the work did not exhibit the desired neatness. The test of 204 words, which was accepted, contained only two very slight errors. This speed was accomplished on a memorized sentence. Mr. McGurrian used a 1892 model Remington typewriter and attributes his speed to the advantage of a single keyboard machine with shift key, thus permitting the hands to remain at all times in the same position and doing the work with the fingers on each hand, using the fourth finger of the left hand for the shift key. This finger does the work of thirty-eight keys, which means a great saving of time.

Mr. McGurrian now proposes to rest on his laurels until some other operator succeeds in equaling his speed. Expert operators on other machines, notably those of the double keyboard, have made great efforts to equal the speed made on a Remington, but thus far have completely failed. No operator of a double key board machine makes any public claims to have written as many as 170 perfect words in one minute.

Mr. McGurrian and his brother Frank have done much to demonstrate the capabilities of the Remington machine. But there are many operators in our own city who almost daily make records but little less remarkable. It is true in Duluth as elsewhere, that the most expert typewriters operate the Remington machine. Several of these have used their machines for some time but find that the Remington does the work with the most ease and greatest speed.

The moral is apparent. If a person about to learn the manipulation of the typewriter will consult his own interests he will adopt the machine which affords the most certainty of success.

THE TOWER STRIKE

No Violence As Yet and the Strike Seems to Have Flattened Out.

All the Men Will Be Paid Off Friday, $30,000 Being Distributed Among Them.

Sheriff Sharvy is Doing Great Work and is Using Excellent Judgment.

There was no violence at the scene of the big mining mob at Soudan yesterday and none is expected today unless news should be received that the Ely mines have "gone out," which is not at all probable. The engines are all working and quite a number of men have reported for duty. The hills around the mines are thoroughly guarded and detachments of troops are patrolling in every direction, looking for mining ringleaders who have been guilty of violence. At 9:15 last night the hill suddenly blazed out with electric lights and a few moments afterwards an alarm came from No. 4 engine house saying that the strikers were congregating there in numbers. A detail of Company A was sent up the hill on the double quick but the miners crept in all directions on the approach of the soldiers.

At 9 o'clock this morning a dispatch was received from President Bacon stating that everything was working at every shaft and that beyond a very few sympathizers with the discharged miners everyone was at work and probably over 1000 employes are busy. Today $30,000 will be disbursed among the employes. Saturday was the regular pay day, but owing to the inflamed condition of the men's temper and their appetite for liquor, it was deemed best not to pay them until the entire military force was present, so that order could be enforced. The money was placed in the company's vault and carefully guarded. The probability is that the West Duluth companies may be ordered back in the morning.

RIOTERS BROUGHT DOWN.

A Special Train Arrives This Morning With Twenty Prisoners. The special train from Soudan arrived about 5 o'clock this morning and with it came thirty sheriffs' deputies in charge of Capt. Henri De Witt. The train stopped at First avenue east and was immediately surrounded by a number of policemen and twenty prisoners who had been captured yesterday. And such a gang as the handcuffed rioters were. The first to come out of the car were Alex Solani, Jim Carey, Joe Tardi, Joe Tommaso, Kapoch, all Italians. These were followed by Matt Schnab, Joe Hegler, Matt Skedell, Frank Pike, John Vedovitch, John Jackson, Joe Pellet, Anton Rosenstein, John Scube, John Jackson, Antonio Joliet, Mike Adams, table rests for the new High school were received and referred to a special committee.

G. A. Tenbusch, the architect, whose plan for the Woodland school was accepted, objected to some changes ordered by the board and resigned. The plan submitted by Palmer & Hall was then accepted. H. W. Pearson reported that F. E. Butts had been awarded the contract for decorating the auditorium of the High school at $325. The purchase of one of the remaining lots in the High school block for $5500 was reported, also the fact that the one lot still left can be had for $8000. H. W. S. Cleveland, the landscape artist, of St. Paul, who had been selected to prepare plans for the improvement of the High school grounds, reported that he is unable to attend to it. His son was selected in his place.

GORMAN A BARKIS

Little Doubt That the Maryland Senator Is Not Averse to Becoming a Candidate.

Brice Says If He Was In Gorman's Place He Would Enter the Race.

Tammany, While Still Shouting for Hill, Sounds Gorman's Praises in a Whisper.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Arthur Gorman, of Maryland, was the forlorn hope of the anti-Cleveland men when they finished their work, and weary with the day's labors went to bed. No formal announcement of the senator's candidacy had been made. He has played a waiting game for many years, and he is not coming into the field openly now to be defeated. But by an understanding had with him yesterday afternoon, his strength was canvassed thoroughly through the delegations, and before midnight the anti-Cleveland men thought they had counted more than one-third of the delegates against Cleveland, of whom a majority were Gorman men.

All that the opposition has been striving for in the past two days is enough strength to prevent the nomination of Cleveland on the first ballot. After that ballot his enemies think his strength will be divided. Pledges and instructions will be disregarded and delegations will divide their votes according to individual preference. Mr. Gorman gave a tacit consent to the use of his name yesterday in the missionary work among the doubtful delegates and Tammany, while it still shouted for Hill with a loud voice, spoke Gorman's praises in a whisper. The result of the combination was seen by the Cleveland men in the disaffection of some of the Southern delegations. "Fellows has been down among those Arkansas and Alabama people and they are all disorganized," said one of the Cleveland leaders to another in the Grand Pacific at midnight. The silver states as well as the Southern states had been approached, and the result was the announcement at a very late hour that the silver vote would go to Gorman.

The Marylander has been as cautious as the senator from New York in committing himself to free silver. There was no difficulty then in persuading the votes caught by Hill's silver letter of last December being turned over to Gorman.

Contract for Furnishing Seats Next Year is Let Saturday. The board of education devoted most of its session Saturday evening to hearing the merits of different school seats as presented by agents of school furniture factories. Twelve bids were received for furnishing the desks for the coming year in quantities as desired by the board. The United States School Furniture company of Detroit, Mich., of which F. T. Little is local agent, secured the contract at a sliding scale of prices running from $2.21 to $2.61. Bids for furnishing opera chairs with tablet rests for the new High school were received and referred to a special committee.

A SUDDEN DEATH. M. H. Bywater Expires Very Suddenly Saturday Evening. M. H. Bywater died very suddenly at his residence Saturday evening. He had been in his usual health all day, although he had one or two spells of weakness. About 7 o'clock some members of the family entered the room where he had been sitting and were startled to find him unconscious. An examination at once showed that he had expired, presumably from neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Bywater was 57 years of age and was born in Philadelphia. Shortly before the war he went to Illinois and afterwards enlisted in the Third Missouri cavalry, being commissioned as first lieutenant. After the war he came to Duluth. He was deputy collector of customs for many years and at the time of his death was bookkeeper for the Duluth Book and Paper company. He leaves a wife and son, Maurice, 16 years old. The funeral took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence, Rev. W. M. Barker officiating.

hesitation the latter said: "Mr. Cleveland cannot carry New York, and that is sufficient against him. I have always been Mr. Cleveland's friend, but I do not believe in bucking against fate." Gen. Slocum was authorized for the statement just after the conference that Maryland would not be for Mr. Cleveland, "but," he added, "it may not be for Mr. Hill."

The Wallace men joined the literary brigade yesterday and issued a printed argument for distribution among the delegates. The Democratic state convention of Pennsylvania, held at Reading in 1860, they say, abolished the rule which had been in vogue prior to that time. Before 1860 the state convention elected delegates to the national convention both for the state at large and the several congressional districts. Since 1860 the state convention has elected delegates at large only, the district delegates having been chosen by district conferences of the delegates elected to the state convention.

Frequently the district delegates are elected weeks before the meeting of the state conventions. The names of the district delegates elected are reported to the state convention, merely for the information of that body. The state convention having nothing to do with their election, cannot instruct the district delegates to vote as a unit, but can instruct the delegates at large. Finally the Wallace men say that even Mr. Quay, autocrat that he is, did not attempt to force the unit rule in the Pennsylvania delegation at Minneapolis.

Col. Isaac Truitt, of California, arrived and said that he wanted it known that the California delegation was ready to be converted. "Mr. Hill's silver letter is having its effect and we are ready to support any candidate if the convention will put a silver plank in the platform to suit us," he said. "The sentiment among many of our delegates this morning is that Mr. Hill is more favorable to such a plank than Mr. Cleveland. Our delegation is not bound, and we propose to vote to suit ourselves and our state's welfare."

Senator J. M. Irby, of South Carolina, said to a reporter in the Hill headquarters: "We will probably decide to vote solidly for Mr. Hill. Two or three things since our arrival have disposed us favorably toward New York's senator."

THE PENNSYLVANIA MEN. No Sign Yet of an Intention to Break to Pattison. CHICAGO, June 20.—In all the combinations made and talked about yesterday the Pennsylvania delegation could only be counted for Cleveland. If "Boss" Harrity was ready to trade, he did not let anyone know it, and the Pennsylvanians who are expected to break to Pattison at a word from the secretary of the commonwealth have shown no signs of wavering. There is an element of Harrity men among the district delegates, led by ex-Senator Wallace and J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, are preparing to make an assault upon the unit rule. They will have the support of the anti-Cleveland men, but with no hope of success, for the Cleveland majority is too large to be overcome. But if the test vote is not brought on sooner it may come on the vote to support the unit rule. The Wallace men joined the literary brigade yesterday and issued a printed argument for distribution among the delegates. The Democratic state convention of Pennsylvania, held at Reading in 1860, they say, abolished the rule which had been in vogue prior to that time. Senator J. M. Irby, of South Carolina, said to a reporter in the Hill headquarters: "We will probably decide to vote solidly for Mr. Hill. Two or three things since our arrival have disposed us favorably toward New York's senator."

THE PENNSYLVANIA MEN. No Sign Yet of an Intention to Break to Pattison. CHICAGO, June 20.—In all the combinations made and talked about yesterday the Pennsylvania delegation could only be counted for Cleveland. If "Boss" Harrity was ready to trade, he did not let anyone know it, and the Pennsylvanians who are expected to break to Pattison at a word from the secretary of the commonwealth have shown no signs of wavering. There is an element of Harrity men among the district delegates, led by ex-Senator Wallace and J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburg, are preparing to make an assault upon the unit rule. They will have the support of the anti-Cleveland men, but with no hope of success, for the Cleveland majority is too large to be overcome. But if the test vote is not brought on sooner it may come on the vote to support the unit rule. The Wallace men joined the literary brigade yesterday and issued a printed argument for distribution among the delegates. The Democratic state convention of Pennsylvania, held at Reading in 1860, they say, abolished the rule which had been in vogue prior to that time. Before 1860 the state convention elected delegates to the national convention both for the state at large and the several congressional districts. Since 1860 the state convention has elected delegates at large only, the district delegates having been chosen by district conferences of the delegates elected to the state convention.

Frequently the district delegates are elected weeks before the meeting of the state conventions. The names of the district delegates elected are reported to the state convention, merely for the information of that body. The state convention having nothing to do with their election, cannot instruct the district delegates to vote as a unit, but can instruct the delegates at large. Finally the Wallace men say that even Mr. Quay, autocrat that he is, did not attempt to force the unit rule in the Pennsylvania delegation at Minneapolis.

Col. Isaac Truitt, of California, arrived and said that he wanted it known that the California delegation was ready to be converted. "Mr. Hill's silver letter is having its effect and we are ready to support any candidate if the convention will put a silver plank in the platform to suit us," he said. "The sentiment among many of our delegates this morning is that Mr. Hill is more favorable to such a plank than Mr. Cleveland. Our delegation is not bound, and we propose to vote to suit ourselves and our state's welfare."

Senator J. M. Irby, of South Carolina, said to a reporter in the Hill headquarters: "We will probably decide to vote solidly for Mr. Hill. Two or three things since our arrival have disposed us favorably toward New York's senator."

what the outcome will be. There is nothing personal with me, no grievances to express in my opposition to his nomination. It was only a question of expediency and ability to elect him. The senator was surrounded by a number of Indiana friends when the reporter found him, to whom he was expressing himself in sympathy with Mr. Blaine in his last affliction. Senator Voorhees was well acquainted with the Blaines, and the death of Emmons came as a personal loss to him. As the reporter left the Governor Flower, who had just come from a meeting of the New York delegation, entered to pay his respects to the Indiana senator.

HE FAVORS FREE SILVER.

A Private Letter From David B. Hill Has Effect. CHICAGO, June 20.—The publication of a dispatch from Topeka, Kans., quoting Senator Hill in favor of free silver stared the delegates in the face this morning in the columns of the newspapers, and furnished the chief topic of discussion among Western and Southern people. It was made public at a favorable time to influence the doubtful free silver delegates in favor of New York's candidate, and the Colorado people who are here to be elected came out and announced themselves in favor of Hill.

A conference of the silver men from the West had been called at the room of T. M. Patterson, chairman of the Colorado delegation, and for more than two hours the possibility of combining the silver votes in the convention on one candidate was discussed.

The Colorado people say that 180 delegates favor free silver, and that the silver men cannot afford to vote for Cleveland.

Mr. Pence, of Colorado, says that Harrison will not get more than 15 per cent of the Republican vote in Colorado; that Cleveland cannot get more than 15 per cent of the Democratic vote, and that if Cleveland is nominated the state will fall into the hands of the Farmers Alliance. At the same time he says that Hill's letter places him on record for free silver, and assures him of Colorado's vote in the convention.

There was some question as to the authenticity of the letter, but Mr. Birmingham, Hill's private secretary, said it was genuine.

SHEEHAN WAS CONFIDENT.

He Declared Last Night That Cleveland is Beaten. CHICAGO, June 20.—The Hill men developed a sudden confidence last evening which puzzled their opponents and sent them wondering what was under way. It was evident from their expressions that something gratifying had occurred. They were reticent about it even to their own friends, but to one of the Eastern anti-Cleveland men Mr. Sheehan unbuttoned himself so far as to say: "I can't tell you how, but Cleveland is beaten tonight."

There was some question as to the authenticity of the letter, but Mr. Birmingham, Hill's private secretary, said it was genuine.

BLACKSHAW GONE

His Liabilities Foot Up About $3,000 With Assets of Probably $1,500.

The Late J. J. Costello Was On His Notes to the Extent of About $800.

W. W. Blackshaw, proprietor of the Vienna bakery, is missing, having left the city Saturday, and also leaving about $3000 in debts.

His friends are loth to believe he has skipped, but there seems to be no other explanation for his action and he has also taken his books with him.

Blackshaw started in the bakery business a short time ago and seemed to be doing a fairly successful business.

He engaged the confidence of several wealthy citizens and was so highly regarded by the late J. J. Costello that the latter endorsed his paper to the extent of about $800.

He had been bookkeeper for J. J. & R. A. Costello for a long time and was a faithful employe.

It is quite evident that the young man has been led astray by persons who have taken advantage of his social and generous dispositions to fleece him for it is said that he has gambled somewhat of late.

His creditors nearly all believe him to be honest but think that he lacked the courage to face the ordeal after he was in a pinch.

Last Friday a meeting of creditors was held at which he was present and another was called for Saturday but he was missing then.

His total liabilities, it is believed, will aggregate about $3000. There will be about $1000 or more of assets to offset this. He is a single man and his relatives live in Pittsburg.

WHEAT CLOSED VERY DULL

There Was a Decline of Half a Cent From Saturday's Figures.

Under the influence of firm cables the wheat market opened steady this morning at Saturday's closing figures.

There was a large milling demand and trading in cash was good. There was a little bulge caused by trading in July, but the demand slackened toward the latter part of the session and under bearish crop news prices eased off 1/4 to 1/2 cent below Saturday at the close which was dull and weak.

Following were the closing prices: No. 1 hard—Cash 81c, June 81 1/2c, July 81 3/4c, September, 79c. No. 1 northern—Cash 79c, June 79c, July 79 1/2c, September, 77c. No. 2 northern—Cash 77c, No. 3, 63c. Rejected 53c. On track—No. 1 hard 81c, No. 1 northern 79c.

TALK OF THE DARK HORSES.

Gray, of Delaware, May Go Before the Convention.

CHICAGO, June 20.—In spite of the denial of Senator Gray, of Delaware, to the United Press last night that he was a presidential possibility, his name may come before the convention.

His state delegation arrived last night and Governor Robert J. Reynolds, its leader, said: "Every man in the delegation is his own boss. We are not instructed and will vote for any man we like."

"Will his name go before the convention?" "In my opinion it will, but I do not know; in fact much will depend upon Senator Gray himself. We expect he will arrive in the city tonight or not later than tomorrow."

Delaware has a right to put in a candidate, and as we have good timber, we want to use it. "Who is your second choice?" "Senator Gray. He is my choice all the time, but if there appears to be no chance for him, I am for Cleveland. But I think it altogether probable that we will have our own candidate in the field."

Delegate Richard P. Conney said Senator Gray was his first and only choice, but Congressman Causey declared himself for Cleveland first, although he said he would show up in the fight earnestly for Senator Gray if his name was proposed.

Of the other dark horses Palmer has gone into temporary eclipse since his arrival and declaration for Cleveland; Morrison has been put in the background by the Democratic movement, which threatens to take away his "second choice" friends in Arkansas and Missouri; Governor Campbell is again out in interviews announcing his final determination not to be a candidate in the Democratic movement, which he believes Cleveland will be nominated, and it is currently reported that the Gorman men hope that he will alter that nominating speech which he prepared and deliver it for Mr. Gorman.

"ANTI-SNAPPERS" WITHDRAW.

Practical Abandonment of the New York Contest.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The practical abandonment of the New York contest before the committee on credentials by the Syracuse convention delegates has led to some speculation about the probability of the new Democratic organization, which that convention put into the field, Frederick R. Coudert, when asked about this, said:

"I doubt whether the provisional state committees or the provisional local committees of any extent of assistance, whether they want to or not, independent of any consideration of what may happen at Chicago. The leaders might desire it, but there are 250,000 Democratic voter back of these leaders and they do not want to see the new Democratic organization, which that convention put into the field, Frederick R. Coudert, when asked about this, said:

"There is certainly room for this organization in the party for two organizations of this character?" "What would happen in the event of Mr. Cleveland's nomination?" "These committees would certainly continue to exist until the campaign was over if no longer."

"What would happen in the event of Cleveland's defeat for the nomination?" "There would be an independent Democratic candidate for mayor in the city of New York this fall and with the indorsement of the Republicans he would be elected."

FIGURING ON THE RESULT.

What the Cleveland Men Claim—An Independent Canvass.

CHICAGO, June 20.—In the face of the Gorman movement last night the friends of Cleveland still claimed 580 votes on the first ballot. The figures that they gave out after midnight showed the following vote for Cleveland: Alabama, 16; Arizona, 2; California, 18; Connecticut, 12; Delaware, 6; District of Columbia, 2; Florida, 1; Georgia, 18; Illinois, 48; Indiana, 13; Kansas, 20; Kentucky, 9; Louisiana, 8; Maine, 11; Massachusetts, 30; Michigan, 28; Minnesota, 34; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 12; New Hampshire, 2; New Jersey, 20; New Mexico, 2; North Carolina, 12; North Dakota, 6; Ohio, 16; Oregon, 8; Pennsylvania, 64; Rhode Island, 8; South Dakota, 5; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 20; Utah, 1; Vermont, 3; Virginia, 13; Washington, 2; West Virginia, 9; Wisconsin, 24; Wyoming, 3; total, 580. Necessary to a choice, 599.

A Chicago paper which has made a canvass of the delegations on its own account publishes the following list of the cast of the first ballot: Cleveland, 518 1/2; Hill, 175 1/2; Gorman, 53; Boies, 35; Morrison, 34; Carlisle, 24; anti-Cleveland, 22; Palmer, 22; Gray, 17; Craig, 2; Flower, 1. In the vote by states, in this estimate, Ohio is divided 20 for and 16 against Mr. Cleveland. The anti-Cleveland men are not so liberal to Mr. Cleveland and they give names. Their poll of the Ohio delegation is: For Cleveland—Campbell, Lessau, Hutchinson, Colburn, Hobeier, Kilbourne, Doherty, Engert, Schofield, McCook, McCook, Walsh, Filin, Salin, Holden and Johnson—16. Anti-Cleveland—Neal, Bernard, Cosgrove, Devenny, Remelin, Frank Huffman, Hull, Cummings, Taskell, Hough, C. W. Lane, Davis, Zugschwert, Stanton, Chapman, Cole, Jos. Huffman, Myers, Critchfield, Southard, Kane, Ohliger, Tanne Hill, Warwick, Wely and Farley—26. Doubtful—Brice, Blee, Schwaback and J. L. Johnson—4.

IN THE WIGWAM.

Opening Proceedings of the Great Democratic National Convention at Chicago Today.

Crowds Packed Into the Wigwam and Unable to See or Hear the Speakers.

The Air Was Muggy, Sticky and Sweltering Until a Thunderstorm Gave Relief.

Hon. W. C. Owens, of Kentucky, Chosen Temporary Chairman and Makes a Fine Speech.

The WIGWAM, Chicago, June 21.—The convention hall was roped in like a gigantic prize ring, and guarded by a strong force of police. It was a muggy, sticky, sweltering Chicago day. The air was so thick with smoke that respiration was difficult. Occasionally the sun struggled through the gloom, only to make more plainly visible the perpetually descending soot flakes. Through these cheerless surroundings the vast crowds forced their way, hedged in by alternate layers of livery stables and huge Chicago office buildings on one side, and by tall bill-posters' boardings, shutting off the view of the lake, on the other side. Conspicuous painted signs indicated the different sections for which tickets of admission to the wigwam had been issued, and a small army of deputy sergeants-at-arms supervised the process of packing the delegates and spectators into their allotted places.

CONVENTION HALL.

Fully two hours before the time set for the commencement of the proceedings the crowds began to climb the outside stairs and tumbled themselves into the ugly wooden box, much after the way in which Sheem, Ham and Japheth and the little wooden animals are let down into the toy Noah's ark. Perambulating bands and marching processions lent on the outside life to the streets. But inside the building the effect of the decorations was lost in the immensity of space and the depressing obscurity of the opaque atmosphere. The thousands of yards of bunting and the unique collection of papier mache spread eagles, "distemper" portraits of dead heroes, and emblazoned allegories of fame and victory, were barely discernible, and their effect was lost in the cavernous depths of almost limitless space.

Yet notwithstanding the gargantuan proportions of the preparations made, they were none too great for the crowds which sought to gain admission, or failing in that, to get a good glimpse into the building from outside. The constructors of the wigwam claimed that it would pack 20,000 people standing, and seat 10,000. Apparently these limits were reached, but as for hearing the speeches or discerning the features of the speakers, the great majority of the audience was about as well off as the onlookers at a spectacular exhibition of the "Fall of Babylon." Nevertheless, the discomforts were in a great part taken good-humoredly, and to be in and to form a part of a great national Democratic convention seemed to be a satisfactory glory enough even for the most exacting.

INTERIOR OF CONVENTION HALL.

Almost up to the hour of meeting the sound of hammer hurriedly driving the last nails into the woodwork of the galleries echoed through the hall. In the concluding rush a number of the intended decorative effects had to be abandoned and others were materially changed. The four-pillared arch with its towering busts of Andrew Jackson and Stephen A. Douglas, which was to have surmounted the chairman's stand, was unconstructed. All the platform fittings were somewhat meager and primitive as compared with those at Minneapolis. The most conspicuous object was a modest mahogany desk bearing in front the inscription in old English text: "Cleveland and Hendricks nominated for this desk July 11, 1854." This was the chairman's stand. It was flanked on each side by a bunch of roses in a glass pitcher, and a similar bunch with half a dozen laurels in pots stood in front of the secretary's desk and immediately below the names of the states lettered in gold marked the location of the delegations. They had apparently been assigned to their places on some alphabetical basis, which brought the "M's and N's" conspicuously in front. The center aisle was flanked by Montana, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Mississippi, Michigan, Minnesota and Massachusetts. The side aisle to the speaker's right displayed the banners of Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, and to the extreme right were Colorado and California. On the left side aisle were Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, South Carolina, South Dakota, Rhode Island, Ohio, and Oregon, and back of all further from the platform, the great state of Texas. In the corresponding corner on the other side were grouped all in one row, the territories of Arizona, New Mexico and the district of Columbia.

JOHN G. CARLISLE.

An unexpected burst of sunshine, just before the opening, lit up the building and raised the already superheated temperature a few notches higher. The first cheers, rather feeble than otherwise, were drawn by the entrance of a Boies club at 11:30. The New York delegation, headed by Governor Flower, Bourke Cochran, Murphy and George Raines, came in directly afterwards and were received with a Tammany yell. As much as $20 a seat was asked for seats in the galleries and they filled up very slowly. There was hardly a man in the galleries who had not his coat off, and some of them had divested themselves of their collars and vests. A flutter of fans gave a tremulous motion to the air. Pennsylvania entered late with a banner so much larger than those of the other states that cries of "pull it down," "take a reef in it" were raised. Directly afterwards a rain and thunder storm arose, rendering necessary the lowering of the canvass round the air and light spaces under the roof.

The almost cimmerian darkness thus produced made the Chicago convention at midday as gloomy for the time being as the Minneapolis gathering was at midnight when the lights went out. Notwithstanding the canvas protection the rain beat in and umbrellas were freely raised. Occasional bright flashes of lightning lit up the hall. It was a welcome relief and was hailed with cheers, when the band in the gallery back of the chairman at 12:15 struck up a lively air.

DON DICKINSON.

The storm was not of long duration. In ten minutes the hall began to brighten and five minutes later the sun was out again. The hasty construction of the roof, however, had begun to leak and some of the accumulated water dripped in on the New York delegation. One of the delegates raised an umbrella over Governor Flower and it shed its drippings on the Tammanyites around him. Some one suggested that it was a good time for Tammany to "come in out of the wet." At 12:30 most of the delegates were in their seats but the galleries were sparsely filled. Chairman Brice, of the national committee, was on the platform. His entrance had passed unnoticed, but through every eye seemed to be directed there was some further delay and even the intermittent applause from the galleries did not hurry the proceedings. The Michigan delegation was the last to march in. Its big white and gold banner was carried ahead of it.

Five minutes later, ex-Governor Campbell's entrance was greeted with cheers and applause. The Ohio delegates rising in his honor. As most of the delegates were in their seats, many of the silken banners with the names of the states were folded up and put away. At 12:42, Chairman Brice came to the front of the platform and standing with gavel in hand said: "The convention will come to order. I have the pleasure of introducing the Rev. John Rouse, who will open the proceedings with prayer." The Rev. J. Rouse was a smooth faced, long-haired man, dressed in the canonicals of the Episcopal church. He looked over the assemblage for a moment and spreading his hands he said: "Order." Then folding his hands he began his prayer. Not fifty of the delegates stood during the prayer.

At its conclusion, Chairman Brice said: "Gentlemen of the convention: By direction of the committee, the chair presents to this convention as its temporary officers the gentlemen named in the following list, which the secretary will read: Hon. W. C. Owens, Kentucky, temporary chairman; S. P. Sheerin, Indiana, secretary; assistant secretaries, W. H. Doyle, Pennsylvania; H. Shepard, Virginia; C. Tilley, Missouri; L. A. Rowley, Michigan; R. E. Wilson, Mississippi; C. R. DeForest, New York; J. C. Swain, Illinois; principal reading clerk, Hon. Nicholas M. Bell; sergeant-at-arms, Hon. R. J. Bright, Indiana; official stenographer, Edward Dickinson, New York. S. Jewett of Indiana and Thomas Wilson of Minnesota. These gentlemen assembled in front of the platform, and proceeded down one of the side aisles to the place where the Kentucky delegation sat. Mr. Owen arose and walked up the aisle with the committee. When they appeared on the platform the convention applauded, and the applause was renewed when Chairman Brice announced that he had the honor and pleasure of presenting to the convention its temporary chairman. Mr. Brice retired, leaving the space in front of the chairman's desk to Mr. Owen. The chairman said: "Two great dangers menace the Democratic party. One is external, the other internal. The first is the organized machinery of organized capital, supported by the whole power of the government. The second is a tendency among Democrats to make issues among themselves. Two needs, therefore, stand before us indispensable to success—unity and harmony. The one this chair and gavel stand representative. It remains for you to supply the other. In this spirit I greet you, fellow Democrats, as the advance guard of a grand army sent forward to blaze a pathway to victory. How momentous is your responsibility I need not tell you. If your work be done in wisdom the millions toiling in mine and shop and field will rise and call you blessed. The roll call of the republic attests that its heart and its conscience are with us in our war with the representatives of a platform that challenges the approbation and invites the support of the people. We can succeed—we must do more; we must deserve success. Above the wreck, if need be, of selfish combinations we must rear a temple to the plain people and build a shrine so broad that there every lover of his kind may kneel. The burden must be lifted from the back of labor, and to that end it has a right to demand that whoever bears our banner must lift it above the smoke of conflict and the din of action, that every Democrat of the Union may follow its lead in exultant and irresistible combat.

"Let us not mistake. The gravity of the situation demands the broadest patriotism and every needful sacrifice. Our work but begins here. Under the suns of summer and the frosts of autumn, we must carry it forward with unflinching courage to a triumphant close. This again must be a campaign of education. The study of the corn field, begun in the West and South, must be carried into every hamlet of the East and North. The people must learn their true relation to the taxgatherer. They must learn that no road president champion the tribunes of the people; that no taskmasters write our tariff bills. They must learn, too, that for personal and political advantage, their country was menaced by the threat of war, and they will learn by shame and regret that the very day the warlike proclamation of their president was read in the halls of congress the peaceful response of the little eight-by-ten republic of Chili, accepting the terms of the presidential ultimatum, was read in every capital of the world.

"Our opponents must be measured by their deeds and not by their professions. The Fifty-first congress wrote the blackest page in our legislative history and became a thing of the past. It challenged the approval of the people and they responded in tones so potent that it seemed the voice of God. With a unanimity that finds no parallel in the history of popular government they determined that a billion dollars was far too much to pay for such a museum of freaks. If we but permit it, they will stand by their verdict.

"That our cause may triumph, let us work in kindness. In the heat of convention let us not forget that our political brother may be just as honest and perhaps better informed. Impelled by one purpose and that purpose the public good, we will free ourselves from the bickering and heart-burnings that characterized the Republican party, when its Marshal Ney went down at Minneapolis before the mailed legions of the bred and butter brigade."

Mr. Owen had a respectful and an interested hearing, but there was no great enthusiasm over his remarks until he came to the "legion of the bread and butter brigade." Then the convention cheered again and again. The chairman asked what the pleasure of the convention was. Mr. White, of California, got the floor and offered a resolution provid-

SPURIOUS SPOOKS.

A Thrilling Yarn About Strange Manifestations Which Occurred in a Haunted House.

The Professor Conjured up Bogus Spirits of Men Who Had Never Lived.

How Did he Do It?—You May Not Believe This, But It's True.

“GHOST your grandmother!” said Connelly, with emphatic contempt. “It isn't a ghost. It's an elemental.”

“And what in the name of mystery is an elemental?” asked Julius.

Then the conversation drifted off into a discussion of the theory of things according to Blavatsky's teaching. Elementals, it appeared, are certain beings lower in the scale than the human race, but not belonging to any genus or species known to natural history.

“Well,” said Quevedo impatiently, “why isn't an elemental just as good shooting as a ghost? I'd like to get a shot at either one. Let's investigate.”

“Here's the key,” said R. F. “You are welcome to go and find out what you can. As for me, I have had all the experience I can get after.”

R. F. is the only one in our circle who has attained the dignity of a landed proprietor, and it was of his pretty cottage in the suburbs that we had been talking.

“I am your father's brother, Henry Curtis, the lawyer. This was my office desk. It stood for years in my office, at 47 John street, New York. In a secret drawer in the left hand corner are certain papers of great value to you.”

“This is certainly strange,” I said. “The more so as I never had an uncle Henry, nor so far as I know any relative who was a lawyer.”

Subsequent inquiries satisfied us that no lawyer of the name of Curtis, or of any other name, had ever had an office at 47 John street. Moreover, two skillful cabinet makers, after separately examining the desk with the most scrupulous care, both declared positively that there was no secret drawer in the left hand corner, or anywhere else in the desk.

“But what does the message mean, and who wrote it?” demanded Quevedo. “I'll swear the professor didn't.”

“The Man Who Lost Himself.” The tricks of the absentminded furnish an unfailing storehouse of humor, and the oddest feature of it is that there are so many “stock stories” on the subject. Have absentminded people done the same things over and over again through all the ages, or have the jokers simply copied or modernized the old stories?

the same thoughts, and we sat still, waiting for developments.

In a few moments a heavy rap sounded from the direction of the big desk, and instantly Quevedo flashed the lantern on it. We could see nothing there excepting the desk, and he whirled the light rapidly, so that we saw that all three of us were still sitting, as we had been, near the center of the room.

“There's no trickery about that,” said Quevedo, and I was inclined to believe him, especially as I felt a sharp twitch at my mustache just at the moment the light swung around, and knew that nothing human was near my face.

“No, it is not a trick. It is a spirit,” said the professor. “I will talk with it. Perhaps we can get a communication.”

He was cool enough to suggest that either it was a trick, or else he really believed in what he professed to. We could not believe the former, for we had brought him from down town without telling him where we were going, so he could not have any concealed apparatus. We were obliged, therefore, to admit to ourselves that he really did believe, and somehow his belief did not seem very absurd just at that moment.

“Go ahead,” said I. “If the spirit has anything to say to us, we want to know what it is.”

The reply to this was a perfect fusillade of knocks or raps from all parts of the room at once. It was impossible to believe that the professor made these noises, and Quevedo and I confessed to each other afterward that we felt very shaky just then. However, we feared each other's ridicule more than we did ghosts, and we waited.

“Knock three times for yes and once for no,” said the professor. “Do you understand?”

Three knocks sounded from the desk. “Do you wish to make any communication to any one here?” Three raps.

“Is it to me?” One rap. “Is it to Mr. Quevedo?” One rap. “Is it to Mr. Curtis?” Three raps. “Shall he question you?” One rap.

“How will you communicate? In writing?” Three raps.

By this time I was deeply impressed. The professor, however, in the most matter of fact way, took from his pocket the slate and pencil mentioned. The slate was one of those folding affairs generally used by “writing mediums.” He put the pencil inside, folded the slate and laid it on the floor at our feet. Quevedo, holding the lantern so that we saw perfectly what was done. We then waited a moment, and presently heard a noise as of a pencil scratching on the slate. In a few moments this ceased and I put the slate in my pocket.

Nothing more happened, though we waited fully an hour longer. The professor asked several questions, but could get neither yes nor no in reply.

At length I moved an adjournment, saying that we would go elsewhere and read the message. I cannot say why we did not read it there, as would seem natural, but no one proposed it, and I felt a strange reluctance to opening the slate.

We locked up the house and left. Half a mile away was a hotel. We entered and sat at a table. Then I opened and read the following lines, which were legibly written on the slate.

“I am your father's brother, Henry Curtis, the lawyer. This was my office desk. It stood for years in my office, at 47 John street, New York. In a secret drawer in the left hand corner are certain papers of great value to you.”

EDITOR DAILY CALL, West Superior.—Some time ago I received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. Kennedy, of Saginaw, Mich., stating that he saw by the Superior papers that Dr. Speer was in this city. Knowing that Dr. Speer had cured my brother about two years ago of rheumatism, I called on Mr. Speer. He, without asking a question, described in detail my condition, in fact, better than I knew myself.

He located every pain, and told me what to do in order to get well. Everything he has done has acted as he said it would. I have only been under treatment a few weeks and I feel like a new man today. The other doctors I consulted would not or could not do me any good; neither were they able to tell me what my trouble was. The pains, mental depression, weakness and pain in the back and bad taste in the mouth, with all the other symptoms, have vanished. I look upon Dr. Speer as a marvel in the treatment of all diseases. Will be pleased to give any further information to anyone calling upon me.

HERBERT BISMARCK—MARGARET HOYOS. Herbs in blood, language and commerce that she is a history in herself; she is Hungarian by birth and allegiance, half English and half German in blood, and altogether Prussian, or rather Bismarckian, in sentiment.

Her father is Count George Hoyos, a partner in the famous firm for the manufacture of torpedoes at Fiume, and her mother is a daughter of Mr. Whitehead, the Englishman who founded the firm.

As a result of this conjunction of German (possibly Hungarian) and English blood the lady has all the vivacity of the races of the Levant and all the advantages of an English rearing and education. She is a bright, handsome girl, with plenty of spirit, and will inherit a very large fortune.

Fiume is a royal Hungarian city at the mouth of the Fiumara, about forty miles from Trieste, and is one of the most important seaports of Austria-Hungary. The union of Austria or German Hungary, Greek, Italian and other races has produced a population of unusual grace, intellect and vivacity, and the new Countess Bismarck has for some time been the belle of this composite society.

A Successful Woman Farmer. Mrs. Nannie Osborne, of Utah, has lately taken high rank as a successful farmer. Her husband went to that territory for his health, and had just got a farm established on an island in Great Salt Lake, about ten miles from the city, when he died.

A gubernatorial Candidate. Charles F. Johnson, recently nominated for governor by the Democrats of Maine, is only thirty-three years old, but he has always been what is usually called "a precocious youth."

He was born in Winslow, just across the Kennebec river from Waterville, his present home, and in his boyhood attended the common schools there. In 1881 he married Miss Abbie Bretton, daughter of Colonel I. W. Bretton, of Winslow. They have two children.

Russian Honors for Wolves. The stockmen of South Dakota have recently been greatly troubled by wolves.

when have taken to killing calves and colts. They have suffered so much from these pests that they have concluded to exterminate them thoroughly, and with that end in view numbers of Russian wolfhounds have been carried to South Dakota, where they will be bred and kept by farmers to the exclusion of all other breeds of dogs.

The Elephant's Keen Scent. It is a difficult matter for hunters to get within reasonable distance of a wild elephant, for its sense of smell is so delicate that it can scent an enemy at a distance of 1,000 yards, and the nerves of its trunk are so sensitive that the smallest substance can be discovered and picked up by its tiny proboscis.

The "Stair Cure." Londoners are adopting the "stair cure" as a remedy for indigestion, dyspepsia and all kindred ills. Of course no city can offer superior advantages to New York, which has the elevated roads, for this form of treatment. Dr. Abernethy, the eminent physician, once said: "If the luxurious, the idle, the nervous and the fanciful were to scale a mountain daily or, failing a mountain, were to exercise themselves up and down a good flight of stairs, we should hear far less of indigestion, migraines, low spirits, vapors and such like."

A Progressive Woman. Every reader knows that Frances E. Willard is a progressive woman. Recently she has become so progressive that walking is too slow for her and she is learning to progress on a bicycle. So the president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance union will soon be a familiar spectacle on the beautiful highways of Evanston, Ill., gliding gracefully on the pneumatic wheel which she thinks most beautiful and recommends for ladies.

Miss Willard on a Bike. As there is no telling what may happen, it is well to give her biography right now. Frances Elizabeth Willard was born in Churchville, N. Y., Sept. 28, 1839, graduated from the Northwestern Female college at Evanston in 1859. She has always been an enthusiast on athletics for women and has practiced as she preached. Long may she "wheel!"

Rubinstein as a "Prodigy." A few years ago the newspapers teemed with accounts of the wonderful playing of the infant prodigy, Josef Hoffman, and his "idealistic improvisation," as one enthusiastic admirer termed it. Then, as prodigies, like crime, travel in cycles, half dozen other "child wonders" came to the surface, but they didn't stay there long. The eddy of public opinion forced them back into obscurity. It is hoped that the efforts now making to induce Anton Rubinstein, the great pianist, to visit America will prove successful. At any rate the suggestion has served to recall the fact that he is one of the few infant prodigies who have gained great distinction in after life. It is nearly fifty-three years since he began, as a child of nine, to entertain the public, and it may be said that he has steadily grown in popular favor. It is just twenty years since his last memorable visit to America. Rubinstein enjoys very robust health. He has the figure of a soldier, and a broad, square face that, with his stock of long hair, recalls Liszt's flowing locks, though the Russian pianist's hair still remains black, with but few traces in it of gray. The only indication of age about him is the weakening of his memory for music, as a result of which he is sometimes nowadays embarrassed by stage fright.

Large Crop from a Small Beginning. Miss Lena Woodward, of Thorn Creek, Wash., is a firm believer in the adage, "Great oaks from little acorns grow," and she has shown her faith by her deeds. Four years ago Miss Woodward sowed the seed from one head of barley. The crop she harvested with a pair of shears and sowed it the next year, a second time harvesting it with her shears. Her father cut the third crop with his scythe, getting enough barley to sow forty acres last spring, which averaged forty bushels to an acre when thrashed, making a total yield of 1,600 bushels of barley from one head in four years.

Deficient in English. She has studied all theologies that are taught in modern colleges. She can talk in French or Spanish, German, Hebrew, Sanskrit, Greek. She can quote the Latin grammar, speak Russian and not stammer. She knows all the ancient poets and can quote 'em by the week. The truth is, as a linguist, she is certainly distinguished. Yet she lacks in Anglo-Saxon, though that fact you'll never guess. I've been trying for a year, sir, trying hard to train her ear, sir, and to teach her lips to utter just one simple little "Yes."

Customs Vary. Each nation has its little peculiarities. The Japanese don't believe in kissing and the American is the great hand chucker of the world. Some of the African tribes pull their fingers till their joints "crack" as a form of salutation, and one tribe has the curious fashion of showing friendship by standing back to back.

NOW,

We do not pose entirely as philanthropists in this connection, for as we have explained, the

and the general enlargement of the business, which our growing trade demands, has made it necessary to add 8000 square feet to our space, and in order to do this we must cut away the walls into the next storeroom, and the proposition is simply this: that we prefer giving the public the advantage of this 20 per cent than to keep our stock so large that we cannot take care of it properly during these alterations.

We have reduced our stock materially, but still have on hand as good an assortment of all classes of goods as there is in Minnesota.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., June 21.—Fair weather prevails in all sections this morning with slight change in temperature, except in the northwest, where there has been a slight fall.

The area of low barometer which was central yesterday morning over Manitoba has moved east and is now central north of Lake Superior.

The barometer is everywhere below the normal pressure, something rather unusual, and indicates continued warm weather except for the vicinity of Duluth, where all infallible signs and indications usually fail.

Light showers fell in scattered parts of the country yesterday, and quite a heavy thunder storm passed north here—where there was only a trace of rain—and rained heavily in the northern part of the state and at Fort Arthur.

The indications are fair today for thunder storms, but it is not expected that the temperature will reach as high a point as yesterday—52.

DULUTH, June 21.—Local forecast for Duluth until 8 p. m. June 22: Fair, except probably thunder storm tonight; temperature slowly falling until Thursday; fresh westerly winds becoming light.

B. H. BRONSON, Observer. WASHINGTON, June 21.—Forecast till 8 p. m. Tuesday: For Wisconsin: Showers today; clearing Wednesday; cooler in northwest portion; westerly wind. For Minnesota: Fair in northwest; showers in southeast portions; westerly winds; warmer in northwest portion.

THE LAKE FISHERIES.

A recent census bulletin shows that the fisheries of the five great lakes are the most extensive lake fisheries in the world. The figures showing the growth of this industry are both interesting and instructive. The bulletin shows that in 1890 there were 6865 fishermen engaged in the lake fisheries, as compared with 4493 in 1880.

They used in taking fish in 1890 3983 vessels and boats, valued at $683,088, as compared with 1929, valued at $285,500, in 1880. The apparatus used by them was valued at $1,345,057, as compared with $747,300 in 1880. The shore property employed was valued at $804,814, as compared with $313,175 in 1880.

The total investment of capital represented $2,832,059, as compared with $1,345,075. There were 117,085,568 pounds of fish, valued at $2,615,784, in 1890, as compared with 68,742,000 pounds valued at $1,652,900 in 1880. The bulletin estimates that in the decade terminating with the census of 1890 over 1,000,000,000 pounds of food fish were taken, which yielded the fishermen over $25,000,000.

While Lake Erie made the greatest advance in the investment of capital in the fisheries, it is noticeable that Lake Superior shows a very large gain in that respect. The total capital invested in the Lake Superior fisheries increased from $81,380 in 1880 to $210,825, a gain of 159.06 per cent, against 187.66 per cent by Lake Erie and 160.61 by Lakes Huron and St. Clair.

The actual increase in the value of the fisheries of Lake Erie was greater than that of all the other lakes combined, being 53.04 per cent of the aggregate advance. Lake Superior, however, has advanced proportionately more than any other lake, its increase during the decade being 137.23 per cent, against 117.69 per cent for Lake Erie. The actual value of the Lake Superior fisheries was, in 1880, $118,370; in 1890, $280,807, a gain of 162.437.

But the importance of the fisheries is not confined to their actual value, because there are other industries which are largely dependent upon them, and among these are mentioned salt mining, ice harvesting, barrel and box making, boat and vessel building, net and twine manufacture, not to speak of the business of freezing, smoking and otherwise curing and preparing fish and fishery products. In this respect Duluth has experienced much benefit, and the indications are that it will experience much more benefit in the future.

SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED.

The services of the Duluth and West Duluth companies of the Third regiment of the National Guard in stamping out the riotous disposition among the miners at Soudan are deserving of great praise. Sheriff Sharvey and his deputies are also entitled to credit for the excellent work which they have performed in arresting the ringleaders of the riot and safely lodging them in the county jail, and without the shedding of any blood.

But to the militia companies must be accorded the credit for putting a sudden end to the riot. When the call came for their services, they promptly dropped their business pursuits, many of them at considerable personal sacrifice, and responded loyally and readily to the orders of the commander-in-chief, the governor of the state. Their presence at the mines had a prompt and salutary effect. There is nothing that these rioters fear so much as the bayonets and bullets of armed men, and the arrival of the militia cooled their lawless dispositions very suddenly. Where lawlessness prevailed peace succeeded and the miners who were anxious to work were permitted to resume their labors without molestation.

There is no doubt that the prompt response of these companies saved a large amount of valuable property from injury and destruction, and it is proper that their services should be recognized by the Minnesota Iron company as well as by the people of St. Louis county. On several occasions the people of Duluth have seen the great benefit of having a thoroughly organized and well armed body of men ready to respond when lawlessness has occurred which the civil authorities were unable to suppress.

It is but right that these men should be given every encouragement possible, and at this time the question of providing them with a suitable armory should be revived. The armory is greatly needed. It would do much to aid the officers and members of the company in attaining proficiency in organization and drill, and the city should no longer delay in providing a suitable building for that purpose.

PRENTICE VANQUISHED.

The decision of Judge Nelson in the United States court, in the case of the Duluth Storage and Forwarding company against Frederick D. Prentice, which was announced in The Herald last evening, was good news to the many people in the Third division of Duluth, who have been annoyed for several years by the claims of this man Prentice.

By this decision the Prentice claim is utterly divested of any potency whatever. He is left without a leg to stand on in the fruitless contest which he has been waging against the title to very valuable property in this city, and the scores of property-owners who are thus relieved from his annoying persecution are to be congratulated upon this happy outcome.

Prentice has been beaten all along the line, and he now might just as well quit and save himself any further costs. The hollowness of his claim has been exposed, and he goes out of Judge Nelson's court without the slightest foundation upon which to rest his flimsy pretensions.

The decision of the supreme court of Michigan, holding the Miner electoral law to be constitutional, does not please some Republican organs, and they continue to denounce the law as a notorious partisan measure. However, the federal constitution authorizes the choice of electors by each state "in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct," and the Michigan legislature has exercised its authority.

M. H. DeYoung, the well known proprietor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who stands very close to Mr. Blaine, repeats the story that Mr. Blaine resigned the secretaryship of state because of the indignity offered him by J. W. Foster in the presence of Canadian officials. Mr. DeYoung says he has good authority for this story of the cause of Mr. Blaine's sudden retirement.

Senator Carlisle had quite a little boom for chairman of the Chicago convention, until the senator ended it with one fell blow by stating that he is not a delegate to the convention and therefore could not be its chairman. The incident shows, however, how easy it is to start a boom without any solid foundation and how quickly it can be killed.

President Harrison has recommended that congress retaliate upon Canada for its discrimination against American vessels passing through the St. Lawrence and Welland canals, which is in direct violation of treaty obligations. Possibly Premier Abbott will now get off his high horse.

A Yankee upon his return from the Minneapolis convention said he would rather be hanged in Boston than live in the West. Evidently the caravansary at which he stopped did not provide pork and beans for breakfast, and he could not stand such an utter lack of culture.

As the weather in Chicago is decidedly warm at present, it was a very politic act on the part of the Minnesota delegation to select Judge Thomas Wilson as their chairman. The judge's presence at the head of the delegation will keep them all comfortably cool.

The dark horses are becoming quite numerous at Chicago, but so far not one has shown a trial speed swift enough to lead the Buzzard Bay steed.

A BLOW AT RECIPROCITY.

Retaliation Against Canada Suggested by the President. WASHINGTON, June 21.—In a state paper sent to the senate yesterday in answer to a resolution of Feb. 24 last, calling for information relative to reciprocity negotiations with Canada, the president sounds the death knell of that project and plants a mile post in American history by deliberately recommending that congress proceed to retaliate upon the Dominion for its persistent denial of the rights of American citizens (guaranteed by the treaty of Washington) in connection with the navigation of Canadian canals.

Early Closing Meeting. A meeting in behalf of early closing will be held tomorrow evening at Normanna hall at the West End. Its object is to spread the early closing movement in that portion of the city and in this should be successful. Several speakers among them a number of clergymen will make addresses.

Don't forget "A Dress Rehearsal" at the Svea hall, West End, tonight.

Will be Held Here. J. McNaught, D. C. Clark and F. Dewey have returned from the yardmasters' convention held at Lincoln, Neb. The next convention was secured by them for Duluth.

OLIVER GETS IT.

Eight Forties of the Cincinnati Are Leased to the Pittsburgh Iron Man.

He Will Mine a Minimum of 150,000 Tons at Fifty-five Cents Royalty.

The Council Take Action in Regard to the Celebration of the Fourth of July.

Henry W. Oliver, the well known Pittsburgh iron man, has captured the lease for the Cincinnati property. He agrees to mine at least 150,000 tons each year at a royalty of 55 cents per ton of which $25,000 is advanced. The lease runs for nineteen years and covers the entire 320 acres belonging to the company. He also agrees to explore three undeveloped forties and if he finds iron, to mine a minimum of 10,000 tons per forty. He also agrees that when his lease expires which is simultaneously with the one the company holds on the property he will not compete against it for a lease from the fee owners provided the company will re-lease to him for another 20 years.

The lease was made at a meeting of the stockholders held about 4 o'clock yesterday. The proposition was made under the names of Henry P. Barbour and F. A. Bates. Nat Moore, the Gogebic miner, also made a proposition, but the directors recommended Oliver's proposition although the latter's minimum was smaller. George W. Back explained that this did not cut much figure. The Norris mine, the largest in the world, only need mine 50,000 tons annually and yet last year it got out 758,466 tons. After some discussion the proposition of Barbour and Bates was accepted, 77.11 shares voting in favor of it, and 237 against it.

Mr. Oliver is one of the best known iron men in the country and is the senior member of the firm of Oliver Bros. & Phillips, of Pittsburgh. He is credited with having drawn the strip plank of the Republican national platform adopted at Minneapolis. His representatives think the Cincinnati will make a great mine and say that it is the best on the range. Work will be commenced at once.

DULUTH MAY CELEBRATE.

Council Takes Action Relative to Observing the Fourth.

Mayor Adams addressed the council last evening at the opening of the session on the celebration of the Fourth of July. He read a letter from the Duluth Street Railway company, in which the use of the entire pavilion, except the admission to the concerts, if the city accepted the company expected the former would secure excursion rates to the city by railroads. The company agrees to carry 600 passengers per hour to the top of the hill.

After reading the letter the mayor spoke of the propriety of observing the Fourth. He said that during the last few months Duluth had had celebrations of the national holidays of a good many nations and now it was no more than right that something should be done to remind the people that we have a day to be observed in rejoicing over the securing of our liberty. While it is true, he said, that the Duluth Street Railway company will be benefited, he nevertheless believed that the top of the hill is the finest place in the city for a celebration.

John C. Cox, at President Hugo's suggestion, moved the appointment of a committee of five to act with committees from other organized bodies in getting up a celebration. Aldermen Thomas, Helm, Cox, Wilson and Sorenson were appointed.

The committee on light and water was authorized by resolution to investigate and determine what extensions of water and gas mains will be necessary for the coming year, in order that a resolution may be passed ordering them in.

The appointment of James Hart, Jr., as fire commissioner was unanimously confirmed. The board of public works was authorized to purchase an engine for the rock crusher. Concrete instead of sand is to be used in paving Third avenue west from Michigan to Second streets. E. C. Holliday, T. B. Perry and Alois Helm were appointed as commissioners in the condemnation of property for the improvement of Eighth avenue west.

SAVE THE INFANTS!

In June the Babies Suffer.

Poorly Fed Babies Succumb to Disease Easily.

Physicians Advise the Use of Pure Diet.

Lactated Food is the Purest and Best.

What Will at Once Follow Wherever Used.

It is good for them, every one, fat babies and thin babies, with blue eyes and black and gray eyes, babies with dark hair and light hair and no hair at all, they live and thrive upon lactated food.

But the little ones who are not so well fed have to suffer.

They are, too many of them, easy victims to the prevailing summer complaint.

"It is absolutely certain," says a writer in the Boston Herald speaking of the alarming increase of mortality among the children, "that the cause of this high death rate amongst infants is indigestion."

At the beginning of the warm season the best physicians gave warning that pure food must be used for the babies. This warning apparently did not reach every city and town. But in those where the newspapers published the indications that were going on, large quantities of lactated food were sold, and in those places too, the statements of the able physicians who interested themselves in the matter have been borne out. The fever deaths have occurred in those towns and cities where the larger amount of lactated food has been used.

Comparisons of this sort must be absolutely convincing.

Where everything else has failed to accomplish the desired result lactated food, which is the best substitute for mother's milk, has succeeded.

There are several weeks of hot weather to come, and during that time unless lactated food is used, the local physicians say that dreadful mortality and an increasing amount of sickness among the little ones will continue.

The one safe plan is to feed the infants upon lactated food. The most eminent specialists in children's diseases have publicly advised mothers that if they would be upon the safe side, they should use lactated food. It strengthens the weak ones and keeps the healthy babies strong.

THE REAL CAUSE.

A Cut in Wages Did Not Start the Strike of Surface Men.

The real cause of the recent trouble at the Minnesota Iron company's mines at Soudan was not a cut in wages, as intimated by parties who are not informed. A year ago a number of the surface men laid off, without notice to the company, to observe the church festival of Corpus Christi, and their action resulted in almost a total suspension of operations, thereby entailing an assumed loss on the mining company of one day's product of the mines. The men were told if such action was repeated that all participants would be discharged.

Last Thursday the festival day came around again and 37 men absented themselves without leave, attended church in the morning and got gloriously drunk in the afternoon and were discharged as they were tardy to the work.

These men were all Austrians and Italians and were almost entirely surface men, although about twenty were underground men or miners. During Friday the discharged employees succeeded in getting six wagon loads of beer brought over from Tower to the "location" and continued their drinking through the day and when the night shift of workmen attempted to go to work they were driven away and forced to participate in the so-called strike which ensued. The question of wages played no part in the matter at first as an examination of the mining company's books will show.

Some months ago the surface men were getting $1.50 a day, but with the opening of the shipping season there came a greater demand for the Minnesota ores than was anticipated and the price was subsequently made $1.75 per day which is the going rate now. The discharged employees of last Thursday then interviewed President Bacon, but made no demand for an increase of wages, but objected to the discharge and besides asking for reinstatement insisted that they should not be charged for the oil which they consumed in their lamps.

Mr. Bacon refused to reinstate the men and as those who made the demand were not the ones affected by being charged for the oil consumed, he refused to listen to them, and this led to the trouble. There has been no cut in the surface men's wages, as the fact that the per diem rate is now $1.75 whereas it used to be $1.50, will show. Then came the acts of violence and intimidation and on that account alone was the militia called out. The Herald representative was the one newspaper man on the ground all the time and the only one allowed to look at any of the company's books or pay rolls.

The "contract" system, about which so much has been said, is not generally understood. The mines are constantly receiving new lists of men who are set to work immediately on arrival. They are closely watched by the mining superintendent and timekeepers, and as

PRENTICE BEATEN.

Judge Nelson's Decision in the Joint Suit Against Prentice to Quiet Title.

The Original Grant to Chief Buffalo and the Assignments Made by Him.

A Complete Review of the Claims of Prentice Which are Held Untenable.

There was great rejoicing among Third division property-owners over the announcement in The Herald last evening that Judge Nelson had given a decision in the United States court at St. Paul, yesterday, in favor of the property owners and against the claims of Frederick Prentice.

The lands of which those in controversy are a part were patented in several and in four distinct but adjacent parcels by the United States Oct. 23, 1855, to one Benjamin Armstrong and three other relatives of the Indian chief Buffalo.

The five hundred and seventy-seven complainants, who are about two-thirds of all the present owners of the lots so platted, have, as to their respective lots, succeeded to the interest thus acquired by Cash & Kelly and Gilman, and united in this action to quiet title against the defendant, who claimed adversely to the Gilman title an undivided half of the entire tract by virtue of a deed from Armstrong made prior to the issuance of the patent.

The legal luminaries engaged in the case were: William W. Billson, solicitor for complainants; George B. Young, of counsel; Kitchel, Cohen & Shaw, defendant's attorneys; John F. Dillon, Elihu Root, Samuel B. Clarke, of counsel.

THE DECREE.

In his decision Judge Nelson says: This suit is brought to establish, as against the defendant, the title derived from John M. Gilman, whose immediate grantor was Benjamin Armstrong and wife, under a deed dated Aug. 31, 1864. The defendant's claim must stand null and void under the deed from Armstrong and wife dated Sept. 11, 1856. If the title of Gilman is sustained, the complainants must succeed, as they all trace title through him.

The question which must determine the rights of the parties to this controversy has been before this court in several ejection suits brought by this defendant against persons claiming under Gilman, and in one instance a case was reviewed in the supreme court of the United States and the construction by this court of the deed from Armstrong to Prentice affirmed. Prentice vs. Stearns, 113 U. S. Rep. p. 135. It is true additional testimony is taken in this suit by the parties under objections from each. The objections under the testimony of Messrs. Ray, Carey, McFarland and others are overruled. I am inclined to think this evidence is relevant. The admission of in cases of boundary is admissible, and Chief Buffalo's selection under the treaty was a matter of peculiar interest to the people in general who were about to make or had made settlement upon government land in that locality, and so the declarations made by Chief Buffalo before his death, and those of Armstrong to the persons camping with him at En-dion are admissible, the former as tending to show that the Buffalo selection lays east of the large rock mentioned, and the latter being relevant as also tending to show that it did, and that Armstrong fully recognized this location, and that the deed from him to the defendant of Sept. 11, 1856, was intended to convey an undivided one-half of a described mile square lying east of the large rock just as it states. The written contract between the parties contemporaneous with the deed is also admissible as throwing some light on the intention of the parties when the deed was executed.

I am also inclined to the opinion that the documentary evidence from the land department at Washington showing the correspondence between officials of the Indian and land department admissible; but, giving full weight to such testimony, it cannot overthrow the conclusion which the court much respects from a consideration of all the evidence in the suit.

The argument of the defendant's counsel is based upon the theory urged in the ejection suits, that the interest conveyed by Armstrong to Prentice was in the nature of a float to attach to any land afterwards patented under the treaty and not to a specific tract. This view of the case

HAS NEVER BEEN ADOPTED by this court, and it was held adversely to the defendant in the case before the supreme court of the United States. But it is urged that there was a mistake in the east and west lines as described in the Prentice deed, and that there should be a reversal of these lines by this court, which, if done, would include a large tract of land claimed by the complainants. The witness Ellis, who drew the deed, testifies that he inserted the starting point and the boundaries given him by Armstrong, and Armstrong himself testifies that he dictated the description by boundaries to Prentice, and I can find no evidence showing that there was a mistake in the specific boundaries. On the contrary, if we are right in the conclusion from the evidence, Armstrong expected to acquire under the treaty the square mile lying east and north of the large rock, and that is all the land he claimed.

There are many minor points urged by the defendant's counsel, but, in the view taken by the court, none of them, if decided in favor of the defendant, would bar the relief claimed in the complaint.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Bohemian Girl." "The Bohemian Girl" was given a fairly good presentation by the Miller-Calhoun Opera company last evening at the Lyceum, but the opera is a little too heavy for it and the impression given last evening was that it is a little beyond the reach of the company. Some of the parts were exceedingly well taken, however. Charles J. Campbell as Thaddeus was excellent and sang with good expression and feeling. His solo in the last act was heartily encored and was indeed admirably sung. Douglas Flint as Devilschoof, chief of the gypsies, gave a splendid interpretation of the part, and his make-up was unusually good. Adolphe Mayer as usual sang well, but he lacks a free and easy manner. Miss Calhoun as the Gypsy Queen takes an unusually hard part very creditably. Some of the music of her part is very difficult but she carried it admirably. Miss Letta Gilman sang very sweetly but lacks emotion and as Arline she has an opportunity to do some strong acting. Her solo in the gypsy camp brought a double encore. The Warner sisters danced with their usual grace, dash and spirit and their appearance was the signal for a burst of applause.

"The Fast Mail." The attraction at the Temple this evening will be Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic melodrama "The Fast Mail." It has been one of the greatest successes known to the stage for years. It has a story of thrilling interest, and the scenic and other mechanical effects are said to be marvelous. The production is under the personal supervision of its author, Lincoln J. Carter. Special scenery is carried for the ten complete sets used in the play. There seems to be no limit to the possibilities of stage mechanism, but "The Fast Mail" seems to have covered all the ground up to the present date. The company is highly spoken of, and the play is well constructed, with a strong tinge of comedy to offset the serious elements.

"A Dress Rehearsal." The amateur opera which was given so successfully last Friday evening at the Temple Opera will be repeated tonight at Svea hall, for the same object. The building fund of the West End mission, instead of the "Dream of Fair Women," a musical first part will be rendered. It will undoubtedly be as great a success as it was the other evening.

The "Gypsy Queen." The operetta "Gypsy Queen" will be given Thursday evening at the Temple by the pupils of the pro-cathedral school. A gypsy queen with her band of gypsies, a fairy queen with her subjects and a hand of Tyrolites will be seen, and also plenty of instrumental music. Rt. Rev. Bishop McGolrick will deliver an address.

CLEVELAND IT IS.

The Men Who Have Been Fighting Him Have Given Up All Hope.

All But New York and Iowa, Who Will Stand Fast to Their Colors.

When Illinois Refused to Break From Its Instructions, the Battle Was Over.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The Democratic national convention on its opening day has not even the interest of the convention held two weeks ago at Minneapolis. The opponents of Mr. Harrison kept up a bold front until the third session of the convention. They claimed even an hour before the nomination was made that they had hopes of success. The men who have been fighting Cleveland most bitterly have given up all hope this morning. They have even stopped the shouting of their followers in the corridors of the hotels and the convention opens as tamely almost as the Cleveland ratification meeting at St. Louis four years ago.

The Tammany men did not give up the battle until an early hour this morning. Only two favorite sons stayed in the platform more clearly defining their positions last evening determined on everyone to support Cleveland as a unit, the anti-Cleveland cause has grown more and more hopeless and when the news that Illinois had refused to break from its instructions came in about midnight, the battle was over. There had been rays of hope occasionally during the evening. Most of them were clouded though. Only two favorite sons stayed in the fight uncompromisingly—Hill and Boies. The other candidacies were all conditional.

WILLIAM R. GRACE

"If Cleveland is out of the way," was the cautious introduction of every state as it proclaimed its allegiance to its local leader. Indiana was a unit for Cleveland, "until he should be out of the race," then it was for Gray. Maryland would have delighted to honor her candidate of yesterday, "if Cleveland should ever be out of the race." But second choice candidates were at a discount this morning. Mr. Gorman's friends were doing all they could last night and again today to convince the delegates and the country that he had never been a candidate. Senator Gibson, his spokesman gave out an interview saying that Mr. Gorman had never been in the field. No one today is anxious for the doubtful honor of being beaten on the first ballot, except New York and Iowa. They stand to their colors and will stand to them until the battle is fought and won.

The general air of quietude about the Tammany and Hill headquarters this morning was indicative of defeat and it was noticeable that the leaders made no more claims of any chances of winning for Mr. Hill. Assemblyman Timothy Sullivan, of New York city, stood in the waiting room of the state committee, term expires next winter, and in working order to elect that assembly we must elect the Democratic nominee for president. If we beat the nominee this fall and simply carry the state for our own ticket, it means the death of organization in that state and the loss of New York's power in national issues."

EDWARD MURPHY, JR.

Chairman Murphy came around about 9 o'clock. Asked the situation, he said: "We shall present the name of Senator Hill to the convention and New York state will vote solidly for him. I have received a telegram from President J. H. V. Arnold, of the New York board of aldermen, asking in behalf of the New York Democratic club that we support Mr. Cleveland. If they mean by that to work for him after he is nominated, why I can answer yes, and we will; but if he means for us to drop Mr. Hill, that we cannot do. We must fulfill our pledge. We have worked hard for our candidate and we are evidently beaten, but that should not make us desert him."

It is current rumor about Tammany headquarters that when it is settled beyond a doubt that Mr. Cleveland is nominated, Col. John R. Fellows will arise and on behalf of New York move that the nomination be made unanimous. Col. Fellows this morning would neither deny or affirm the statement, but Mr. Croker said: "Tammany is for the Democratic candidate in every instance, and if the convention nominates Cleveland, it will not only support but will work for Mr. Cleveland."

One of the interesting statements of the morning was made by Senator Brown of New York in Tammany headquarters: "This talk of New York not going Democratic is all bosh. No matter who is nominated the party have got to support and work their hardest for him. We have got elect Democratic assembly so as to put a Democratic United States senator in place of Mr. Hiscock, whose term expires next winter, and in working order to elect that assembly we must elect the Democratic nominee for president. If we beat the nominee this fall and simply carry the state for our own ticket, it means the death of organization in that state and the loss of New York's power in national issues."

THE COLORED DEMOCRATS.

Opening of Their National Convention This Morning.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The colored men's national Democratic convention met this morning at 11 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the national secretary, and William H. Johnson, of Albany, was made chairman. In taking the chair Mr. Johnson said: "We are here today because we believe that the Republican party has outlived its prosperity, and that it is our duty to cast about for a safe and more sure anchorage. We believe that Grover Cleveland, when president of the United States, gave the best assurance possible that under Democratic rule the Afro-American's best interests, his liberty and happiness, was fully considered."

GOVERNOR GRAY.

Among those who will address the meeting will be Congressman Amos J. Cummings, of New York; H. C. Rainer, printer, member of the Buffalo Typographical union; F. U. R. Cole, shoemaker, Buffalo.

MIKE DORAN RE-ELECTED.

The Le Sueur Sachem Again a National Committeeman.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The Minnesota delegation held a meeting yesterday. Hon. Thomas Wilson, of Winona, was chosen as chairman and C. J. Hines, of Rochester, secretary. P. B. Winston was slated for chairman by his friends, but the Doran-Campbell element controls the delegation. It was sought to appease the Minneapolis mayor by making him vice-president. He declined the honor with thanks, but the delegation would not accept his declination. J. G. Brown was chosen a member of the committee on notification of vice-president. Then came the election of a national committeeman, and Judge Wells, of Preston, paid a high compliment to Hon. Michael Doran and moved that he be re-elected. The election was made unanimous, but previous to meeting it was learned that a deal was affected whereby, in consideration of Doran's endorsement, William Campbell is to be retired from the chairmanship of the state central committee. Mayor Winston, it is said, will soon be an avowed candidate for governor. He will insist on a new "chairman," probably J. W. Lawrence, of Minneapolis.

LOVED A NIHILIST.

The Fearful Adventures of a Young Englishman in the Czar's Land.

To Please His Sweetheart, he Joined the Nihilists, Bound by Awful Oaths.

Selected to Remove an Enemy, He Was Through Treachery Brought to Death.

George Thornton was a rich young Englishman of noble birth. A year ago he went to live at the Russian capital, where he fell in love with Olga Ozotoff. She was the only child of a famous Russian general. Her mother was dead. One evening she bade him accompany her secretly to an unknown part of the city. For half an hour they drove through various streets. When the carriage stopped she led him into a large, vaulted hall among a hundred men and women. Strange banners and symbols were displayed along the walls. When he turned to her he saw the light of triumph and exultation in her eye, and thus he learned the truth. She was a nihilist.

These were all nihilists. This was their council hall. Would he be initiated and enrolled? At once! And he pressed forward to take the oaths with headlong zeal. Serious thoughts came on the morrow. He would get out of it all. They would soon mistook, he married. Then he would take her home to England, and all this would be a dream of the past.

A short time after this, to Thornton's horror, it was announced that an enemy was to be "removed" and the executioner was to be selected by lot. Fortwith all members of the circle, two by two, renewed their oaths and added another to obey unhesitatingly the commands of the committee on action, whatever they might be.

In this way George Thornton and Olga Ozotoff took their oaths together. And the president of the circle grasped their hands with unwonted fervor. He had been a suitor of hers, this Loris Stransky, and there were those who said he hated the man who succeeded where he had failed. Stransky, as president, drew the fatal slip of paper from the urn, and without a tremor announced the name, George Thornton. All thronged around the Englishman to congratulate him. Then, in obedience to a sign from Stransky, Olga placed in her lover's hand a pistol, a dagger and a bomb.

Finally the committee led Thornton apart to acquaint him secretly with the name of his victim. He nearly fainted when he read on the card handed to him by Stransky the name of General Ozotoff, the father of his fiancée. He turned away from Stransky and the committee with a smile and escorted Olga home in the gayest of moods. After a night of reflection George determined that they must marry at once and leave for England. When he told her his desire she looked on him with amazement, then with joy.

"Yes, yes!" she exclaimed. "It will be best so. You will have done your work for liberty and then?"

"My work?" he echoed.

"Yes, your work," she whispered.

"Oiga! My God! But I cannot."

Then he stopped. He had caught her eye.

"Are you afraid? Then hear me, sir! I swear that if you fail to fulfill your oath I will never so much as look upon you again. Ten times within the week he called on her, but she would not see him. The week was gone and the deed not done. For the first time Thornton went to the circle alone. She was already there. As he entered the hall not one greeted him with word or look or gesture.

Stransky took his place as president and called the circle to order.

"Friends," he said, "one week ago a solemn lot fell upon one of our number to do a great work for the cause of humanity. He swore to accomplish it within the week. And now the week is past. His work has not been performed."

Stransky continued, "Another will do the work, but what shall be the lot of this one who has proven false to his oath?"

From every member of the circle came the fierce sentence, "Death!"

"Then," said Stransky, "let the executioner be chosen." The names of all the members of the circle were placed in the urn, and Stransky drew one forth, as if by lot.

"This is indeed most strikingly just!" he said, as he looked at the card.

"Olga Ozotoff, to you the grateful task is given to rid the world of a foe to liberty." At the word all drew their knives. Even Olga drew hers, though moving as one in a dream, and stabbed her lover to the heart.

"One word!" gasped Thornton, "and then—I die! I broke my oath, but not through cowardice, Olga Ozotoff, it was for the love of thee for the man I was to slay was—thy—father!"

And she stood still, transfixed with double horror. But then one of the committee on action spoke aloud:

"What does this mean? We did not doom Ozotoff." And one cried: "Loris Stransky! It is thou who hast played false!"

Then the dying man staggered three paces forward to where an ancient battle-axe was hanging upon the wall, and with the last ebbing effort of his life he tore it down, and with one mighty stroke he snore the traitor Stransky from coat to toe to hip. And as they both fell dead the fairest woman in all Russia fell down between them, and her lifeless head lay on her lover's lifeless heart.

HIS FIRST FEE.

A Soft Hearted Bridegroom Who Plied the Minister.

The Rev. Dr. Blank, now a prominent pastor of a prominent church, had his first charge in a country district, and he tells this story:

"The first couple I married," he says, "came to the house where I boarded and had my study, for I was a bachelor then, and they were genuine specimens of the rustic lover—he tall and gawky, she awkward, but pink cheeked and pretty, as rustic beauty goes. They came in a wagon and it did not take long to perform the ceremony. After it was over I thought it my duty to kiss the bride, and being forced to do so, when the groom laid his hand on my arm.

"No, you don't, mister," he said good naturedly. "I'll tend to that part of it myself," and he proceeded to do so vigorously.

I smiled and offered no argument, and as they started out I followed them to the front door. There the groom invited me to come out to the wagon, where he had something for me. He helped the bride in, got in himself beside her on the board seat, and reaching down behind him he lifted out a sack of potatoes and handed them over to me. I thanked him and took them as my fee, and was about to tell him goodbye, when the groom, proudly looking at the girl and at me, said:

"Ain't she a beauty, mister?"

"Very handsome," I admitted.

"Nothin purtier in the country, is there?" and he chuckled her under the chin.

"Not that I have seen, I'm sure," I assented cordially.

"Air you married?" he asked quite kindly I thought.

"I'm sorry to say I'm not," I confessed.

"Ain't got no wife?"

"No."

"Nothin like this in the house?" and again he chuckled the blushing bride under the chin.

"No, I'm all alone."

I guess there must have been a touch of sadness or regret in my voice, for the groom's face took on the grace of sympathy.

"Look here, mister," he said, "I'll tell you what I'll do. If you'll give me back them taters and half a dollar to boot, I'll be blamed if you can't kiss the bride!"

Of course I couldn't be so ingulfant as to refuse the offer, if indeed it would have been safe to have done so, and handing over the potatoes and the only half dollar I had, I gracefully saluted the bride and sent them both on their way with my blessing.—Detroit Free Press.

Reward in Kind.

A wife who knew the aversion of her husband to letter writing said to him, as he was about leaving home for an extended visit to the Dakotas: "Now, John, as neither I nor the children can accompany you, you must be eyes and ears for us, and drop us an occasional postal card, telling us anything of interest you may see or hear. Don't forget, will you?"

The husband promised and took his departure. A few days later his wife received a postal card containing the following message: "Dear Wife—I am in New York all right. Yours aff."

Though somewhat disappointed, she excused the brevity of the communication on the ground that her husband was doubtless pressed for time. Two days later, however, another card arrived, bearing the startling announcement: "Here I am in Chicago. Yours ever." Still later came another: "I am indeed in Dakota at last. Yours, —"

The wife swallowed her disappointment, and, being good at retentive, seized her pen and wrote: "Dear Husband—The children and I are in Old Town. Yours, —"

A few days later she wrote again, "We are still in Old Town."

In her next communication she grew a little more enthusiastic. She wrote: "Dear Husband—Here we are in Old Town. I repeat it, sir. We are in Old Town, Me. P. S.—We are, indeed."

In due time the husband reached home, and, fearing, perhaps, that his poor wife was afflicted with some sort of dementia hastened to ask the meaning of her strange messages. For answer she slipped into his hand his own three postal cards.

"What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," she said.

It is to be hoped that John profited by the lesson.—Youth's Companion.

In the Gloaming.

They had been married fourteen weeks.

"Frank, dear," she said one evening in the gloaming, "would you miss me very much if I should die?"

"Don't ask me such greswome questions, darling," he protested.

"But would you, dear?" she insisted.

"More than words can express," he said, clutching her hands as if he were losing her even then.

"And, Frank, dear, do you think you could ever find any one to take my place?"

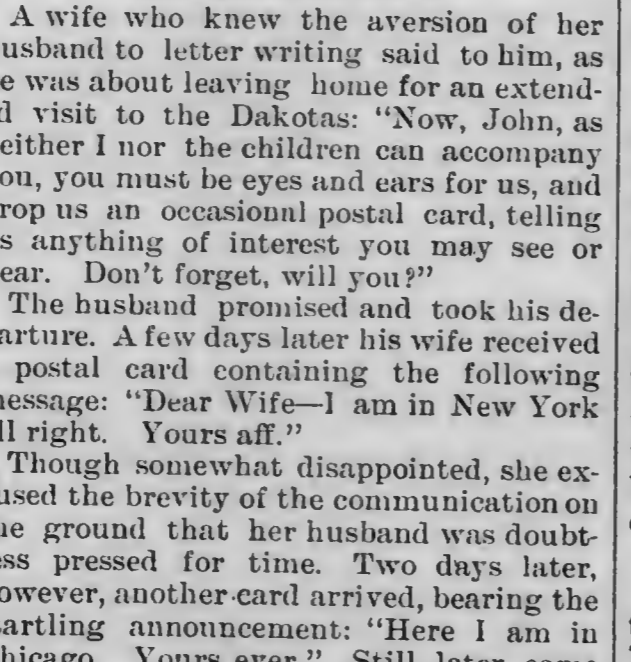

The whippoorwill's mournful threnody came up from the old fence overgrown with thickets, and a bat circled about in the starlit shadows of the night.

"No, darling," he murmured, "but I could try."

Flour from Bananas.

There has recently been discovered a process by which flour may be made of bananas, and the importance of the discovery can be realized when it is known that the same area of ground that will grow forty pounds of wheat will produce annually 4,000 pounds of bananas, and that a banana plantation after once being started lasts for twenty-five years without breaking up or plowing.

A Duluth Jobber's Opinion. "I am very well satisfied with the result of my trip through Western Minnesota and North Dakota," said Mr. Fish, of the Phenix Electric company, this afternoon. "You know we have recently gone into the jobbing business, and my trip out there was to look over the field, but more particularly to put in a plant for the North Dakota Milling company at Grand Forks. Like other representatives of Duluth houses, I was surprised to find that we can meet the competition of Chicago and even sell under them in some instances. You see we can get the goods here by lake from the factory as cheaply as they can at Chicago, and as Duluth is nearer that territory west of us by 200 miles, we can save the purchaser a good deal on freight alone, and bring down the south shore tonight but shall return and take in North and South Dakota on my next trip west. Business is booming out there and it is a good field for Duluth jobbers."

ADMITS HIS GUILT. IN THE WIGWAM

The roll be called to name members of the different committees, and that all resolutions relating to the platform be referred to the committee on resolutions without debate, and that the credentials of the delegates be delivered by each delegation to the committee on credentials. Gen. Dragg, of Wisconsin, from the front row offered as an amendment that the rules of the last Democratic convention govern this body until otherwise ordered. Mr. White accepted this amendment as being first in order, and temporarily withdrew his resolution, which he again offered after Gen. Dragg's substitute was passed. It was read by Reading Clerk Bell. Mr. Rhodes of Alabama offered an amendment which was read. It provided for a committee on rules in addition to the other committee. There was a brief discussion of the amendment, the explanation being made that the original resolution delegated the work of the proposed committee to the committee on permanent organization. The amendment was adopted however and the resolution as amended went through. The clerk then read the roll call and the chairman of each delegation handed in or announced the names chosen on the committees.

Governor Leon Abbott's name in the New Jersey list was cheered as were also the names of Bourke Cockran and Governor Flower from New York, but demonstrations of popularity were not numerous. When Utah was called John T. Caine, representing the Mormon and F. J. Kiesel the Gentle, consisting delegations, both got the secretary's eye and presented two lists. The chairman ordered both read and referred to the committee on credentials. W. E. English, of Indiana, noticing a number of vacant seats in the galleries, offered a resolution to admit ex-soldiers of the late war to the unoccupied places. Mr. Collier, of Tennessee, said there were 25,000 Democrats at the door and he moved that the doors be opened to them. The question was shut off on motion of Mr. Johnson of Kentucky, to refer the matter to the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Holman, of Oregon, addressed the convention, closing by stating that he believed in his hand a telegram giving glad news that the Republicans of Portland, Ore., had been defeated by 1000 majority. The cheering which greeted this announcement drowned a point of order which Gen. Bragg was about to raise.

Mr. Cable, of Illinois, offered a resolution of sympathy to James G. Blaine; "That this convention tender its profound sympathy to that distinguished American, James G. Blaine, in the many hours of sore affliction. The Democracy of Kentucky, to refer the matter to the committee on resolutions. The reading of the name of Mr. Blaine was the signal for an outburst of greater enthusiasm than the convention has known before. The resolution was adopted without dissent.

Edward C. Swett, of Maine, briefly thanked the convention on behalf of the Maine delegation for its resolution of sympathy for Mr. Blaine. He said: "On behalf of the Maine delegation and on behalf of the entire Maine delegation, I desire to acknowledge this graceful expression of sympathy from this national Democratic convention to our most distinguished fellow citizen in this, his hour of sore affliction. The Democracy of Maine, more than of any other state, has experienced the political and official ostracism which the Republican party, in the days of its supremacy, tendered to its political opponents, but God forbid that the Democracy of Maine, or of any state, should hesitate to tender its sympathy in the presence of that grim tyrant who wipes out all political lines, levels all ranks, and binds all men together beside the scepter. (Tremendous and long continued applause.) Of the many misfortunes and bereavements that have come upon the distinguished gentleman within the past two years, it might truly be said: "One who doth tread upon another's heel, So fast they follow."

Only in the Democratic national convention can we extend to him the sympathy which goes out from every section and from every state. (Tremendous cheers.)

An invitation from the World's fair for the delegates to visit the fair grounds was read. The convention then adjourned until 11 o'clock tomorrow.

THE TAMMANY MEN HOT.

They Have a Long and Exciting Meeting Today.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The New York delegation met at 10:30 and had a long and very hot session. It was announced that Mr. Hill's chance had ceased to exist and the statement was made that Mr. Cleveland would undoubtedly be nominated on the first ballot. In an instant Mr. Croker was on his feet advocating seconding the Cleveland nomination. Mr. Murphy, however, backed by Mr. Sheehan and Mr. Ridgeway, said that it would be unworthy of the state to at this time drop its candidate.

A lively time ensued. Mr. Gilroy also insisting on turning down the candidate. Prior to the meeting, Mr. Murphy had held a hot argument with Mr. Gilroy over the matter. Gilroy insisted that the attitude of Tammany was being ridiculed. Tammany was for the Democratic nominee, and Mr. Hill's chances having ended should be on the winning side. Mr. Murphy argued that the February convention had specifically instructed the delegates to vote for Mr. Hill and it was their duty to do so.

The views of Mr. Murphy were sustained by the delegation meeting, but it is alleged that at another meeting tonight the decision may be reversed and Tammany may support Mr. Cleveland.

Booming Grover. NEW YORK, June 21.—The Democratic club at a meeting last night passed resolutions affirming the belief of the club that Grover Cleveland was the one candidate before the convention who could be relied upon to carry the state of New York, and asking the delegation from that state to support Mr. Cleveland.

A Dissolute Character Tries to Rob an Old Woman.

MULFORD, Conn., June 21.—Alfred Watts walked into the house of Miss Lydia Chittendon yesterday and demanded her money. Miss Chittendon is 65 years of age and lives alone. She told Watts she had no money. He thereupon knocked her down and tried to shoot her, but his revolver missed fire.

The woman's screams aroused the neighbors. When he saw his pursuers overtaking him he threatened to shoot, and they returned to town. He was again located and pursued later in the day, and when about to be overtaken he turned the weapon which he carried upon himself and inflicted wounds which caused his death. Watts was well known in the town, having lived there eleven years. He was always a hard drinker.

Cyrus W. Field Dying.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Cyrus W. Field, emaciated almost to a skeleton and suffering from extreme nervous prostration, lies in a critical condition at his summer home, near Irvington. He had a very bad spell on Saturday, but recovered sufficiently yesterday to take a short drive. The physicians in attendance say that his condition at any moment would not surprise them. Mr. Field now weighs only 85 pounds.

Reid Notified.

WHITE PLAINS, June 21.—The committee appointed at Minneapolis to notify Hon. Whitelaw Reid of his nomination for vice president waited upon him at Ophir farm today and formally discharged their mission. Senator Dubois spoke for the committee and Mr. Reid made a suitable response accepting the nomination. Luncheon was served and the party returned to New York to attend the ratification meeting in Music Hall tonight, at which Governor McKinley and others are to speak.

The Deputies Sturred.

To the Editor of The Herald: The article from Tower in the News of this date referring to the bravery of the sheriff's deputies does them great credit and casts a slur on men who have proved their courage and are carrying Confederate lead in their bodies today. Among the posse were J. Daniels, who was in command of a battery in the rebellion, Col. G. H. Holden, E. M. Crosssett, W. A. Noble and other old soldiers. The balance were men mostly from Duluth and among some of her best citizens, who should be commended for their willingness to respond to the sheriff's call on a few minutes' notice. The fact that most of the strikers are old soldiers, having served in the armies of Europe, rendered men who wore uniforms much more effective in dealing with them than citizens in plain clothes.

ONE PRICE AND THAT RIGHT.

AMERICAN STORE.

In all kinds of merchandise there is one grade which is the best, and two other grades which are made to imitate as near as possible grade No. 1, often times between the 1st. and 2nd grades there is a difference of 50 per cent in the quality—without any perceptible difference to the eyes.

The second and third class merchandise, are handled by and manufactured for the special Sale and Bargain shops, who sell them oftentimes for more than first qualities are sold for in first class places, thereby giving them an immense profit or twice the profit a legitimate merchant will make, all of which explains how all bargain and special sale shops spend such vast sums advertising, and yet become wealthy, in western cities where the general public insist on believing in the impossible. —PHILADELPHIA TIMES.

Typographical Union No. 6 Passes a Resolution Defining Its Position.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Typographical union No. 6 held a meeting yesterday. After the regular meeting adjourned, another was organized and a resolution was passed stating that the organization had never given the Minneapolis committee power to endorse any person for political preferment but simply authority to assure the Republican leaders in convention assembled that hostility to the party had ceased. While it still asserts that it has no grievance against the Republican party, it can not endorse any person for political office.
